Ag Progress Celebrates What's New In Agriculture

BY PAT PURCELL

Ag Progress Days has traditionally been a time of fun and fellowship as thousands and thousands of members of the statewide farming community crowd the grounds at Rock Springs. It gives families an opportunity to enjoy a leisure day together while visiting with friends and making new friends. It is a fun day for every member of the family. There's lots of good food available, grown in Pennsylvania and every member of the family regardless of age cannot resist the temptation to climb into the cab of a brand new tractor. It's a time for the curious to investigate and ask questions. It is a time to learn.

However, on a more serious note, Ag Progress Days gives farmers an opportunity to see what is new in farming. And approximately 350 exhibitors were on hand to

Computer Workshops Attracted Visitors

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent

ROCK SPRINGS — One of the more popular spots of Ag Progress Days this week was the youth tent where staff members of the Computer Division of Penn State's Ag Information Services were offering hands-on computer workshops for visitors.

This is the first time for the event, according to Tom Mincemoyer, manager of the division, and it proved to be highly popular. Indeed, on the first day of the [illegible] event, all the tickets for the four half-hour sessions were passed out by 11:00 a.m.

Mincemoyer said, "People get tired of demonstrations, and we thought they would like to try an activity. One objective is to get people a little more interested in computers. We were a little apprehensive about the amount of interest."

Jan Pruss, one of the staff people who worked with the public on the computer introduction, said, "We know there is a lot of interest among students in schools, and there are many positive attitudes toward computers."

Pruss said the workshops attracted "every kind of person," from young to elderly, and from experienced to novices.

There were 12 MacIntosh computers set up for use by visitors, and Pruss said, "The MacIntosh is very user-friendly. Everyone can do something."

The fun part comes for participants when they are allowed to make a picture of their name on a wall. This is high-tech graffiti, Pruss says, adding, "We're always taught not to write on walls, but here they can do it."

In addition to the staff instructor, each workshop has three floaters, many of them participants in the recent Governor's School for Agriculture, who had learned to use computers during the five-week session.

Twelve computers were being used, and they were shared by at least two people, and sometimes several family members working together. In addition, Mincemoyer pointed out that there was always a group of people standing behind the roped off area also listening to the computer instruction.

He added, "We are really pleased. It is a tricky thing to teach them something in 30 minutes." He said the workshops sometimes went over the allotted time and added that it would have been nice to have two hours.

Pruss said they were hoping people would be inspired to make more use of PenPages, a computer program available to anyone with a home computer and a modem. "It is a valuable tool for farmers, and it also has information on health and nutrition."

Tom Mincemoyer, left, and Jan Pruss work with the MacIntosh computer, one of twelve used during Ag Progress Days for hands-on instruction. Staff members from the Computer Division of Ag Information Services conducted half hour workshops four times daily throughout the three-day event.

Dairy Of Distinction Families Gather At Ag Progress

BY EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

A special fraternal gathering of farm families that had been named as winners in the Dairy of Distinction program gathered in the dairy/livestock tent Thursday morning. The presentation of the Dairy of Distinction personal award, the receiving of a color farm portrait and a friendly photograph of all the families present were features of the activity.

Stephen Spencer, Penn State University, who originally brought the Dairy of Distinction idea into Pennsylvania, received a plaque in honor of his work for the program. Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff made the presentation.

Each district had supplied a photographer to take a farm photo of each winning farm. And Lancaster Farming presented an 11x14 color portrait to each farm family from the negative supplied by the districts.

Then everyone gathered up on the hill for a group photograph. Vice President Dan Baker said he thought the program had a very successful first year. (See Photos Page A-24)

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures settled higher on buying linked to Soviet buying rumors. These rumors ledtraders to believe that over 1 MMT of corn was purchased overnight out of the Gulf, fulfilling their buying commitment. Tight supplies attributed to the strength in the Gulf as did higher FOB values. Other positive news was that China had postponed talks with Japan concerning their corn exports. The September option closed up 4-1/2 cents at $1.60-1/2 and the December option posted gains of 4-1/2 cents as well, closing at $1.70-3/4.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybeans settled higher today on spillover strength from the corn pits. New crop strength was fueled by the rumors of USSR's interest in US corn. Other buying was termed short-covering linked to tight cash pipeline supply. The August option gained 10 cents, closing at $5.40-1/4 and November closed up 6 cents at $5.09-1/4.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures settled higher this afternoon supported by buying connected to yesterday's announcement by the USDA of 1.0 MMT of bonus wheat to China. Strong export business continues to fuel gains as more rumors enter the pit. The September option gained 3-1/4 cents, closing at $2.74 and December gained 2-1/4 cents, closing at $2.89-1/2.

ACRES HOG UPDATE: The pork complex settled higher in aggressive buying linked to short-covering linked to the futures discount to cash prices and recurring concerns over lighter-than-

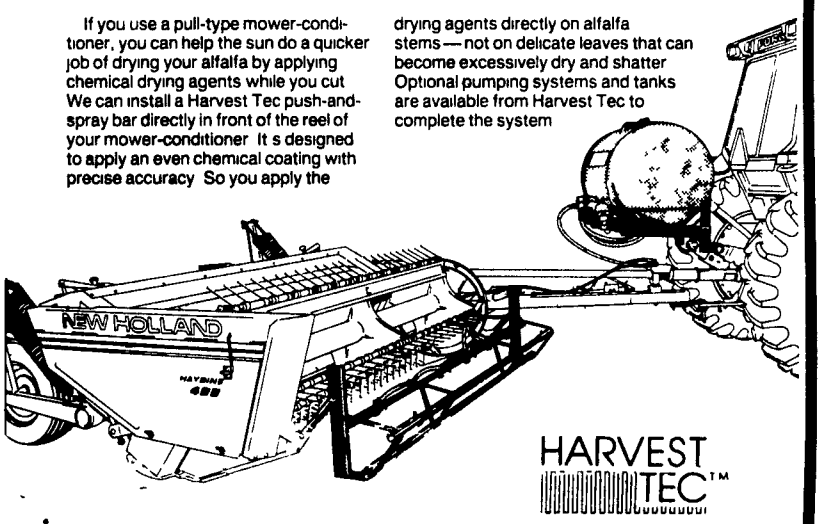
CUT HAY DRYING TIME

RAPID CURE™

If you use a pull-type mower-conditioner, you can help the sun do a quicker job of drying your alfalfa by applying chemical drying agents while you cut We can install a Harvest Tec push-and-spray bar directly in front of the reel of your mower-conditioner It s designed to apply an even chemical coating with precise accuracy So you apply the drying agents directly on alfalfa stems — not on delicate leaves that can become excessively dry and shatter Optional pumping systems and tanks are available from Harvest Tec to complete the system



Chemical Hay Conditioner

When sprayed on alfalfa hay during cutting, the RAPID CURE mixture penetrates the waxy cutin layer on the stems, increasing the rate of water evaporation from the hay.

INTRODUCTORY OFFER $5.00 Per Acre

RAPID CURE:
1. Reduces chance of rain damage
2. Improves the quality of hay
3. Gets hay off faster and allows more days for new hay crop to grow.

RAPID CURE Doesn't Cost...It Pays!!!

Both university and farm tests have proven RAPID CURE Chemical Hay Conditioner pays for itself. RAPID CURE will cost about $5.50 per acre. Applied as directed, RAPID CURE will increase hay yield by 120 to 130 lbs. per acre. This increased yield pays the cost of RAPID CURE.

ABC GROFF, INC. has a quality line of RAPID CURE applicators in stock to fit your needs.

OPINION

Important Person

So there you have it. Ag Progress Days. A chance for us to see the agricultural scientists at work. And a chance for the scientists to showcase what goes on at Rock Springs when the thousands of people who jam-packed Main Street of Ag Progress City are back home on the farm.

You might have been an exhibitor and contacted good prospects for future sale. One said that the crowd was smaller (not by much) on opening day. But more serious buyers were present.

We know a lot of children had a good time eating ice cream and hamburgers and carrying around a free balloon. Advertisers were giving away more things this year, at least that's what we heard.

Of course, you could meet people. Governor Casey was there. And so was Dr. Bryce Gordan, president of Penn State University. But more importantly, your next door neighbor from across Pennsylvania was there.

When all of the dairy farm families that won the Dairy of Distinction award got together for a group photograph on Thursday, you had a cross section of friendly Pennsylvania dairy farmers all together in a special way, because it happened at Ag Progress.

Oh yes, we had a complaint. Two ladies, sisters in fact, stopped this editor and said they wanted it reported that there weren't as many activities of interest for ladies this year. We asked them if they had seen the chef demonstrate how to prepare pork, lamb and veal. Yes, they had seen that. But they still wanted more. So, here you have it sisters. Your complaints have been reported.

But mostly there were no complaints. Just a good three days of summer ag festivities in the number one agricultural state at the number one agricultural college research farm attended by the number one very important person--you! And we suppose plans are already underway for next year's event.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin
Lancaster County Agriculture Agent

To Prepare For Local Fairs

We are rapidly approaching the time for local Fairs. These times should be happy events -- but once in a while they are not because planning was not done ahead of time. This is the time to take necessary precautions to help prevent the possibility of your taking disease to the Fair with your animals or bringing infection home to your farm.

Many Fairs require health charts and specific tests or vaccination for animals and poultry. Be sure to read the health requirements carefully. And, it doesn't hurt to be more strict than what the regulations may require.

Animals or poultry with any form of ailment should be left at home.

When animals or poultry leave the Fair and go home, it's important to have a place where you can isolate them and observe them closely for a period of time before returning them to their herdmates. If in doubt, consult your veterinarian for advice.

To Be Alert For Silo Gas

We are fast approaching silo filling time; in fact many farmers are servicing their equipment now. This is one of the best methods of harvesting the corn crop to obtain maximum feed nutrients. With the dry conditions in some areas, we need to be aware of the increased danger of poisonous gases, known to farmers as "silo gas". We urge our farmers to discuss this hazard with their employees and all family members. These gases can develop from one day to 14 days after the silo is filled. Most of the gases have a chlorine-laundry bleach odor and irritate the eyes and respiratory system. Some are yellow and some are colorless. Don't take any chances -- warn all your people of this danger.

Never enter a partly filled silo without running the blower for at least 15 minutes, and never work alone. These gases are heavier than air and will come down the chute and into the barn. Be careful around recently filled silos.

To Determine Fertilizer Needs

The early fall months are good times to do soil testing and learn what plant nutrients will be needed for the 1988 cropping season. When the plant nutrient needs are known for this fall, some of them can be applied to the soil, and others can be ordered. Be sure to include the nutrient value of manure when planning your fertilizer needs. The appropriate nutritive values of the different manures are listed on page 22 of the 1987-88 Agronomy Guide.

With fall application, the plants will have time to absorb some of the plant nutrients and strengthen it for the winter. This is especially true with alfalfa and some of the perennial grass crops. When soil tests are made in the fall, the land owner has more time to locate and deal for his lime and fertilizer needs.

To Keep Stand-By Generators In Order

The value of stand-by generators was very evident this summer with the many power failures from lightning and high winds. The important thing is to have a generator that is in good working condition. We never know when we have storms (rain, snow, ice or wind) that will take away our regular power source.

Highly mechanized farmers are urged to test their generators and be sure they are in top condition. If the generator is old, or not in good condition, it might be wise to invest in another one. Some losses have been very high due to the lack of electricity for a short period of time. Planning for emergency action when electric power is off is very good management.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

LOVE & ORDER

August 23, 1987

Background Scripture:
Romans 13.

Devotional Reading:
Titus 3:1-8.

If your morning paper were to announce — on good authority! — that the world would come to an end in one week's time, you can be sure that one of the immediate results would be looting and other forms of public lawlessness. Whenever a community is faced with some kind of disaster — flood, earthquake, tornado, riot, war — order breaks down quickly and people are tempted to take what they can take and do what they can do — regardless of what either the law or conscience may dictate. Disorder seems to be one of the everpresent potentials that lurks just beneath the surface of every civilization.

Sometimes it is assumed that freedom by itself is an ultimate condition for human existence. The extreme form of this aspiration is called "anarchy." Although few people today would opt for anarchy, there are many who would like to see society move in that direction. Others grudgingly admit the necessity of some kind of order, but only as a barely necessary evil.

GOD'S ORDER

Christians have often found themselves on differing ends of the spectrum, some strict adherents of an authoritarian order, others suspicious and resentful of all but the barest minimum of order. The former cite passages in the New Testament such as Romans 13: "Let every person be subject to the governing authorities. For there is no authority except from God" (13:1). Paul makes a very powerful case for Christian civil obedience, even going so far as to state that "authorities are ministers of God..." (13:6). What Paul is saying, therefore, is that order is of God. God ordains systems of order in the world so that there can be peace and stability in daily life. Chaos and anarchy are evils which are to be avoided at almost all costs.

I will not dispute Paul's argument, nor his conclusion: order is essential if God's purpose is to be fulfilled. But what about evil authorities? What about an unjust government? And what if the order is in conflict with God's will and purpose? Shall Col. Khadafy be supported by the people of Libya because he is, as the duly constituted ruling authority, "God's minister"? Shall we meekly obey when it requires us to violate our conscience?

ORDER & FREEDOM

Actually, the choice is not really between freedom and order, but of finding a happy medium between the two. If order is of God, so is freedom. If obedience to authority is ordained by God, so is faithful opposition. Jesus was basically a law-abiding man, but when his call from God conflicted with the political order, there was no doubt about his highest loyalty.

The ideal is a combination not of law and order, but of love and order. For the motive behind order is love. Laws and commandments are intended to make love manifest. As Paul writes: "The commandments are summed up in this sentence, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." And Paul concludes: "Love does no wrong to a neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law" (13:9,10).

Neither freedom nor order are paramount, but love is.

Corn That Stands Through The Fall

That corn crop you've labored over won't do you any good if the ears are lying on the ground at harvest time But Funk's G-Hybrids will stand right through the harvest

And they'll not only stand, they'll produce record breaking yields With varieties like G-4027, tops in its field in New York Or G-4446, a record yielder in Pennsylvania Or G-4626, a standout in southern PA and Delmarva areas

And each Funk's variety is backed by Hoffman research We annually run more than 50 test plots to ensure that only the best yielding varieties reach your fields

When you're looking for outstanding yields this planting season, call your local Hoffman seed representative Or call Hoffman Seeds direct. We'll deliver a corn crop that stands through the fall

Is Component Pricing For You?

BY MARY MAXWELL
Centre County Correspondent

BELLEFONTE — Ron Houtz wants a bigger milk check and he wants it consistently.

The Centre County dairyman claims that only component pricing of his Jersey milk with its high solids of protein and butterfat will allow his herd to reach its potential earnings in the marketplace. In a component pricing program, farmers earn premiums for improved quality and protein level.

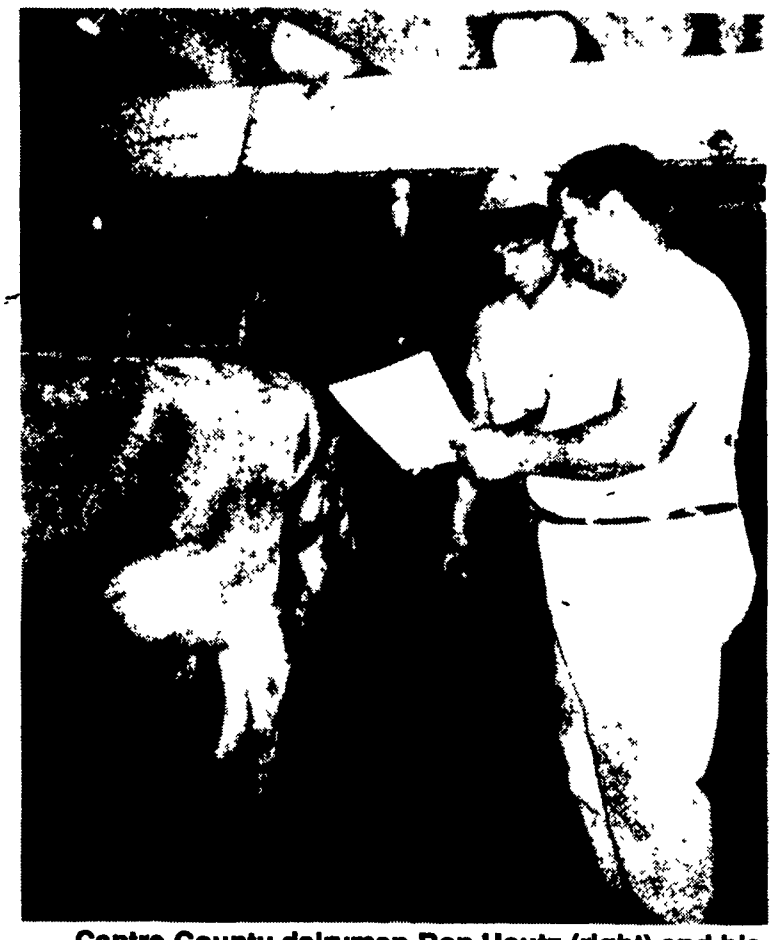
Houtz, like most color-breed dairymen, is outnumbered by Holstein farmers who make up 90% of Pennsylvania's milk producers. But many Holstein producers who have high-protein producing herds, also feel that component pricing is an advantage. However, advocates of this policy have not been able to influence their co-ops and marketing organizations.

"Organizing is the answer," says David Kitt, Field Service Manager of United Dairy Cooperative Services in Syracuse. He cites the example of four small co-ops near the Pennsylvania-New York border who, along with the Jersey Cattle Club, drew up a marketing contract with Detrich's processing plant based on component pricing. This means that milk which goes to the southern New York plant is tested for the level of milk solids and premiums are paid accordingly. The Detrich plant uses the milk to manufacture the powdered, whole milk needed by the M and M Mars and Hershey companies to make milk chocolate. These dairymen organized and got a favorable marketing plan, even though Detrich's also buy other farmer's milk under the usual marketing plan.

Farmers who consistently sell their milk to cheese plants often have the component price option since cheese yield is directly related to the protein level in the milk used. But it is dairymen like Ron Houtz, an Eastern producer, who do not consistently find their milk being sold to component-pricing outlets. A great deal of the time, Houtz's milk goes to a large bottling plant in New Jersey which is not interested in paying a premium for high protein levels. It is only when his milk goes to the Leprino-run cheese plant in Waverly, N.Y., that Ron Houtz's check contains the 10 cents/cwt. upfront plus improved quality and protein premiums.

Blair Smith, Extension Ag Economist at Penn State, says that the location of the milk producer may affect his options. In Houtz's case, his Jersey herd is relatively isolated in Centre County so that he has less opportunity to combine his high protein and butterfat milk with other similar producers to sell at an improved price. If the Houtz farm were in Ohio, western Pennsylvania or western New York, component-pricing outlets would be nearer. Unfortunately for Houtz, he is located on the western edge of the fluid milk market.

Smith and Houtz both see an improvement in marketing options ahead, however. With the trend toward increased consumption of milk products, both men feel that component pricing based on protein level will become more common in the near future.



Centre County dairyman Ron Houtz (right) and his son Ed discuss their DHIA records while looking over their Jersey herd. Houtz is an advocate of component milk prices.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

- Total drought damage this year is estimated at $12,050,331 by County Agent Max M. Smith in a special report released Monday.

This would be a loss of about 32 percent from the bumper crop of 1956 and 40 percent of the value of the 1955 crop.

Smith based his figures on an average of the 1955-56 crops, which would make the overall loss about 35 percent of normal.

Hardest hit, according to Smith, is the silage crop which is cut 50 percent. At a 40 percent loss are corn, hay, pasture and potatoes; 30 percent of the value of the tobacco crop is lost; a third of the vegetable crop, a quarter of the oat crop; a tenth of the fruit crop.

- Now Is The Time... To Determine Forage Needs... To Prepare For Winter Oats... To Beware Of "Silo Filler" Disease.

- Governor George M. Leader said this week that although formal requests from Bucks, Montgomery, Berks and Chester Counties for federal drought aid have not reached his desk, that he can "in good conscience recommend Federal disaster aid."

"As a man who has spent most of his life on a farm, I think I know a little about what farmers believe. The farmers we talked with on this trip are typical of farmers throughout the State. They make a habit of standing on their own two feet, with reliance in themselves, and they don't ask for any kind of help unless they really need it," the Governor added.

show them. Highlights from the commercial exhibits:

— advanced methods in forage handling

— reproductive management tools

— air filtering helmets which filter dust as well as pesticides and herbicides

— an exhibit on the Chesapeake Bay, emphazing the water quality connection between the Bay and Pennsylvania farmers

— computer controlled feed stalls

— energy-efficient livestock waterers

— hybrid corn varieties

— computerized rations for dairy, beef and swine

— and a variety of farm equipment

Ag Progress Days has a two-fold purpose. Number one is to show the progress which agriculture has made through the years and number two is to show members of the many-faceted farming industry how to continue to progress in agriculture.

In consideration of those two goals this year's theme, "The Agricultural Scientist — Working For a Better Tomorrow," celebrated the 100th anniversary of the signing of the Hatch Act. The Hatch Act, signed in 1887, allowed for the appropriation of federal funds for agricultural research.

"The progress of agriculture in the future must be by the introduction of scientific methods. The sooner the farmers of Pennsylvania come to see that brains, not brawn, is to be the moving power of the future, the sooner they will fall into that march of progress."

— Whitman Jordan, 1881, agricultural scientist

It was this kind of thinking which led to increased research and resulted in hundreds of improvements to benefit the farmer from better livestock nutrition to the development of growth hormones. Ag Progress Days 1987 exhibits displayed the areas to which research efforts are presently being devoted. Some of the exhibits on display examined:

— Growth hormones in livestock

— Worldwide Production and Markets

— How satellites evaluate such things as crop suitability and irrigation needs

— Improvements in corn and soybean cultures

— The effect of the environment on animal health

— Impact of acid rain on plant life

— Systems for fruit, field, forage crops and manure management

— Applications of robotics in agriculture,

Just to name a few.

The changes in agricultural industry and the farmer, as well, have experienced in the last 20, 50, 75 years are overwhelming. Computer literacy has become a requirement of sound farm management principles. This year, acknowledging the need for computer knowledge on the farm a 12-desk computer classroom was staffed by Penn State staff, faculty and students to teach the curious the basics of using a computer. Four classes each of the three days were open for attendance at no charge.

What's New In Agriculture

will they bring? The giant leaps made in agriculture in the 1900's will beomce obsolete and archaic in the 21st century. In the year 2087, when the Penn State College of Agriculture Time Capsule is opened the problems which are before the research community today like acid rain, will hopefully have already been solved.

The Time Capsule represents the research of today and will be opened when the college celebrates the bicentennial of the Hatch Act. The 30" glass cylinder will include research samples of acid rain, stream water, preserved food, seeds, wood samples, soil samples and tree core samples. Also, farm families had the opportunity to have family photographs included along with a written message in hopes that these things will be of use to the farming community of the year 2087.

Gallon Of Milk Auctioned For $12,500

A gallon of milk from the Supreme Champion Dairy Animal at the 52nd Annual Loudoun County (Virginia) 4-H Fair on August 7 brought a world's record price of $12,500. The successful bidder was Village Shopping Center, Route 7, Sterling, Virginia. The annual sale of the "Golden Gallon of Milk" is sponsored by the Loudoun 4-H Dairy Club. All of the proceeds are used for the maintenance and upkeep of the county 4-H fairgrounds, which are owned by the 4-H'ers.

The Supreme Champion was Highland Fallneva B. Jingle, a five year old Jersey cow, owned by 11 year old Karen McComb of Purcellville. Karen has been a 4-H member for four years. Jingle is appraised at 91 points and has three lactation credits of 1033 days, 45,612 pounds of milk, 2088 pounds of fat, and 1799 pounds of protein. She was bred by Highland Farms, Cornish Maine.

If you wanted an eight ounce glass of milk from the "Golden Gallon" it would cost you a whopping $781.

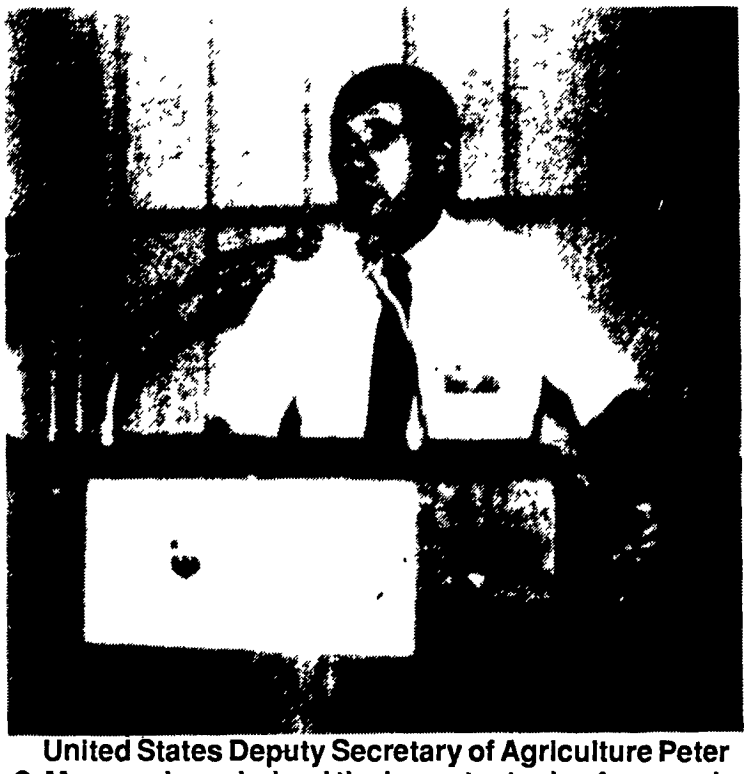
U.S. Deputy Secretary of Ag Paints Optimistic Future

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent

ROCK SPRINGS — Calling research the key to helping the farm economy "straighten out," United States Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Peter C. Myers, helped the Penn State College of Agriculture Alumni Society in its recognition of 1987 as the 100th anniversary of the agricultural experiment stations.

Speaking on Ag Alumni Day during the three day Ag Progress Days, Meyers painted on optimistic picture of the immediate future for agriculture. He called the recent years of troubles on the farm a "time of tempering which most of us have never gone through."

Acknowledging that "we still have some people in trouble," Myers said, "Most of these are getting their houses in order and paying off their debt." He said the present low inflation rate and dropping oil prices will be beneficial to farmers, but added, "It is research that has kept us efficient."



United States Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Peter C. Myers acknowledged the important role of research in the agricultural economy. Myers, speaking at the College of Agriculture Alumni Society luncheon during Ag Progress Days, told his audience that the United State is willing to stop all farm subsidies if other countries will do the same.

Dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture Dr. Lamartine Hood, center, greets Hempfield School District Superintendent Dr. Earl Horton, right, and Atlantic Breeders Cooperative's N. Alan Bair, director of member services. This year members of the College of Agriculture Alumni Society made a special effort to invite high school administrators, guidance counselors and science teachers to show them career opportunities for their students.

Myers pledged that the Department of Agriculture will not "put the extension service on the table" nor "give up Soil Conservation Service's technical assistance." These are programs which are rumored to be the subject of serious cuts during budget reviews.

He came out strongly in favor of eliminating subsidies to farmers, explaining that the administration has made just such a proposal at the bargaining table in Geneva "to get a handle on the deficit" and to cut the cost of farm programs. "We're willing to eliminate subsidies if other countries would do likewise. We can't do it alone."

Myers added, "What we are saying is that our goal is to get an agreement in place within the next year and a half." The proposal would be phased in over a ten year period.

Myers readily admitted that this government is spending large amounts of money on agriculture,

Bedford County Fair Lambs

BEDFORD — In a closely contested event that found Judge Joyce Hileman of Apollo handling and rehandling, hand measuring and patting, a 114-lb. lamb owned and shown by Beth Barkley of Manns Choice, finally managed the grand champion market lamb banner at the Bedford County Fair.

Admitting her decision was a difficult one, Hileman said her final selection was based on length of loin of Barkley's heavyweight division champ, a crossbred purchased from the flock of Dirk Wise, Spring Mills.

Giving Barkley a tough run toward the prize was Gwendolyn Gray of Schellsburg, exhibiting a 107-lb. middleweight champion from her own Suffolk flock.

Before selecting her reserve grand champ, Hileman asked that the reserve leader in the heavyweight division returned to the ring. The 117-pounder again was a Gray lamb. And it was this entry that Hileman selected for the overall reserve banner.

Barkley's champion was the second in her 4-H lamb career. The 18-year-old sophomore at Penn State's Altoona Campus said this would mark her last year competing with lambs.

Gray, Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Queen, noted that this year's prizes exactly mimicked those she'd earned at last year's Bedford Fair. She, too, had exhibited one grand champion. The 17-year-old, who will be a freshman at the University of Pennsylvania in September, has been showing lambs since she was eight.

Also in contention for the top prize was a lightweight champion, a hundred-pounder, exhibited by Scott Barnes of Schellsburg.

Lavender competitors included Robin Millin of Everett with his 100-lb. reserve lightweight and Tammy McCloskey of Everett with a 110-lb. reserve mediumweight.,

Eighty lambs in nine weight classes, from 85 lbs. to 129 lbs., competed. Additional placings.

Heavy lightweight — 1. Barnes, 2. Millin, 3. Harclerode.

Middle mediumweight — 1. Gray, 2. Richard Heit, 3. David Stapleton.

Light heavyweight — 1. Rhett Funston, 2. Jerome Harclerode, 3. Anita Brenneman.

Middle heavyweight — 1. Barkley, 2. Richard Heit, 3. Eric Brenneman.

Maryland Farmer Elected VP Of American Soybean

ST. LOUIS — Henry "Hank" Spies, a soybean farmer from Cordova, Md., has been elected vice president of the American Soybean Development Foundation. Spies was elected during the American Soybean Association's annual Soybean EXPO by the 45 soybean farmers who make up the Soybean Development Foundation Board of Directors. These farmers represent farmers who check off on their soybean crop in 26 states affiliated with the American Soybean Association.

Other farmers elected to lead the Soybean Development Foundation in 1987/88 are president Tom Johnson of Pleasant Plains, Ill.; secretary Sander Ludeman, Jr. of Tracy, Minn.; treasurer Don Heil of Norborne, Mo.; and assistant treasurer Barry Mumby of Fulton, Mich. These farmers also serve on the American Soybean Association executive committee.

The Soybean Development Foundation provides soybean farmer funding support for Soybean Association programs to build profits for farmers through research, education and promotion.

Future Looks Good With Current Rates Of Milk Production

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania milk production figures supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture for July showed a decrease in cow numbers from a year ago. Also, total production decreased by 10 million pounds from the same period.

USDA figures show that in Pennsylvania in July 1986 there were approximately 732,000 cows in the state compared to 720,000 in July of this year. The Milk Termination Program may be having the greatest affect on the decreasing number of cows in the state.

The production decrease from 867 million pounds of July 1986 to 857 million pounds for July 1987 show a 1.2 percent decrease. According to Jack Kirkland, dairy marketing specialist at Penn State, the decrease may be up very slightly due to the affect the hot weather has been having on the cows.

Production per cow rose slightly at .4 percent from 1185 pounds per cow in July 1986 to 1190 pounds per cow for July 1987. Milk production per cow for June 1987 was at 1210 pounds per cow compared to July 1986 which was at 1185. However, the total production for June 1987 was at 866 million pounds, just 1 million pounds less than the total production for July 1986 at 867 million pounds.

For the 21 major dairy states, which account for approximately 84.5 percent of total national production, total milk production was at 10.433 billion pounds of milk in July 1987. That is a .3 percent decrease from July 1986 which was at 10.468 billion pounds of milk. According to Kirkland this is the first time Pennsylvania has been down more than the states production.

In the 21 states the number of milk cows decreased by 2.7 percent from this time last year while milk production per cow rose by 2.5 percent. For July 1986 there were approximately 9.032 billion cows and in July 1987 there were 8.785 billion cows. Milk production per cow was at 1159 pounds for July 1986 and in July 1987 it was 1188 pounds.

According to Kirkland, the future continues to look better for farmers in 1987. All figures considered costs are down. There is a reduction in the number of milk cows due to the buyout program and also to the farmers who went out of business for other reasons. The situation looks good for the farmers as prices continue to improve throughout the year, which he feels they will. In addition, with butter and cheese prices on the Chicago market above support prices the outlook is very favorable.

"Unless we see a tremendous surge in production, prices will hold up for farmers," said Kirkland.

Also if production does not increase in the first half of 1988, the Minnesota and Wisconsin prices may not go down.

The average price for milk cows in Pennsylvania for July 1987 increased by 10.7 percent from $840 in July 1986 to this year's price of $930.

Presently in the northeastern states which include Pennsylvania and all the states to the north, the measure of profitability, the milk price to feed cost ratio, is at 1.61 up from 3.9 percent from July 1986 at 1.55. This is above the estimated breakeven point of 1.33 denoting the relative profitability of the dairy industry.

Part of ratio increase is due to the decrease cost of dairy ration. The average cost per ton in the northeast last year was approximately $160. This year a decrease of 4.4 percent puts the cost at $153 per ton. Kirkland suggests that the price for feed in Pennsylvania may have been even lower.

saying he feels no need to apologize. With agriculture contributing 20 percent of the Gross National Product, Myers says it must be considered "a significant industry." In the past year the United States has spent $26 billion on direct payments to farmers, and he says the large spending is a result of a "predatory farm policy." Finally, according to Myers, the United States is putting basic grain commodities on the world market at reasonable prices, "fighting fire with fire."

While the United States was spending large sums of money, it was being outspent; however, by the countries in the European Economic Community who spent $26 billion in direct payments and $14 billion in other subsidies to help the 12 million farmers in member countries.

He commented, "This proposal is not political. It offers a 'window of opportunity'". He said the opportunity makes sense and may not be there in a few years. "An efficiently run family farm can compete with any country, but we can't compete against subsidized farmers."

Dean of the College of Agriculture Lamartine Hood commented on the anniversary of the Hatch Act which established permanent funding to support research programs, making it possible to have agricultural experiment stations.

Hood noted Penn State's efforts through its seventh president George Atherton to get the funding proposal passed. He said the passage of the legislation made it possible to have a "distinguished, viable and effective agricultural research program."

To recognize the 100th anniversary, Hood dedicated Ag Progress Days to "The Agricultural Scientist," and presented a plaque to Eva Pell, chairman of the College of Agriculture Faculty.

In its business session, new CAAS president David Morrow was introduced by retiring President Patty McMurray. N. Alan Bair was chosen as president-elect. Newly elected directors include: Stanley Zahora, and Sheila Miller. Re-elected to a second three-year term were Laura England, senator Roger Madigan and Harold Harpster.

Summerset Fiesta Fun

The Somerset County Holstein Club's Annual Fiesta was held August 1, 1987 at the Berlin Community Grove, Berlin, Pa. Barbara Berkley of Berlin was Fiesta Chairman.

Fun at the Fiesta.

A delicious picnic supper was served, featuring ham and all the goodies to go with it.

Featuring our own Somerset County Junior Dairy Bowl Team: who not only went on to win the State Title but won the National Title. Team Members: Jenny Welch captain, Heather Welch, Matthew Welch, Thadd Will, Jenny Brown, and coaches Connie and David Welch all of Berlin, Pa. Each member gave a brief talk on their experiences at the National Convention, in Indianapolis. Somerset County is very proud of this junior team.

Jennifer Barnett was with us and gave us a brief talk on dairy promotion events through out the county.

Our grand attraction the Kiddie Pedal Tractor Pull. The tractor and the sled made just like the big professional tractor pulls. The competition was divided into age categories, even an adult category.

Trophy winners this year were: James, John and Thayer Paxton, all brothers, and Jill Stutzman. Adult winner Bill Hunsberger received a candy bar for his achievement.

This is a fun night for everyone.

Ecologically Safe Farming Methods Needed, McHale Says

A former Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture told a hearing of the PA Governor's Energy Office this week that in less than 50 years, the world could find itself faced with "depleted soils, depleted energy sources, and impoverished farmers (who are) unable to cope with a world out-populating its ability to feed its people."

James McHale, pointed out that agriculture is one of the largest users of non-renewable energy, one of which is nitrogen fertilizer requires 40,000 cubic feet of natural gas to produce one ton of ammonium based nitrogen fertilizer. "In addition, pesticies are petroleum based," McHale said "the United States, with only 5% of the world's oil reserves, cannot indefinitely supply energy inputs to an "energy greedy" type of agriculture." He urged the Governor to form an inner departmental council made up of the Department of Agriculture, Department of Environmental resources, and others to be chaired by the Pennsylvania Energy Office to start gathering data to formulate a low energy, low cost, ecologically safe, substainable agricultural policy and program for future generations of Pennsylvanians. Legislation has passed or is pending in approximately 20 states to ban certain chemicals that are getting into the water and food supply and to develop a low-energy sustainable agricultural program. It's time that Pennsylvania at least play "catch up" and become aware of the wasted energy going into agriculute that is causing the environmental problems in our area, particularly the nitrate and phosphorus problems of the Chesapeake Bay.

"To date, $227 million has been spent by five governments to clean up the Bay, and the millions spent on the nitrate and phosphorus problems associated with agriculture has been wasted by coming up with the wrong conculsions," McHale said.

"They have successfully convinced themselves, the farmers, and the public that the problem is the excessive amounts of manure produced in Lancaster and surrounding counties that is being spread on the farmland, and in turn reaches the Bay. In fact however, the nitrate and phosphorus problems in the Bay are the result of excessive use of chemical fertilizers leaching from the farmlands. Manure is biodegradable and decomposes readily into a living soil, and supplies nutrients for most crop needs when the soil is healthy and alive with biological life that attacks the manure components and integrates them into the soil structure.

"Manure, when properly managed, is organic fertilizer which is best for soil regeneration. Manure is not the problem. It is the excessive use of additional chemical fertilizer used in addition to or in lieu of manure that is applied to central Pennsylvania soils. The souce of the problem is officially documented in the last annual report available from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (Fertilizer Usage in Pennsylvania July 1, 1984 to June 30, 1985.) 31.3% of the total fertilizer and 34.5% of the total nitrogen applied in the entire state of Pennsylvania was applied to the farmalnd in the four county area of Lancaster, York, Berks, and Chester counties and therein lies the problem of cleaning up the nitrates and phosphorus in the Bay. Going one step further, 13.2% of the total fertilizer and 15.1% of the total chemical nitrogen fertilizer applied in the entire state was applied to Lancaster county soils which highlights the real source of the problem.

"In addition to the millions of tons of unneeded fertilizer that are being poured on America's farmlands, 1.7 billion pounds of pesticides are being poured into our environment each year in the form of 600 generic chemicals that are used in the formulation fo 38,000 brand name pesticides.

"In 1977, American agriculture poured herbicides, fungicides, and insecticides on the land at the rate of five pounds for every U.S. resident. By 1981, we were pouring those killers on at the rate of seven pounds for every man, woman and child. Since 1981 the rate of application has approximately doubled."

"The American people are saying: We have been poisoned enough from chemicals and nitrogen fertilizer that is ending up in our water supply. I would urge the Governor and the legislature of Pennsylvania to develop a low cost, low energy, ecologically safe sustainable program for Pennsylvania Agriculture similar to those programs that are already in place in a number of states."

1987 Pennsylvania Holstein Show

The Pennsylvania Holstein Association's Fall Championship Show is set for Friday, September 11, 1987 beginning at 9:00 a.m. at the Agricultural Arena on the Penn Sate University Campus. The judge for the top Holstein Show in the state will be B.J. Powell, Holstein breeder from Pennville, Indiana.

This year the Fall Championship Show takes on added meaning as points accumulated at the State Spring Show, Regional Championship shows and the Fall Show will be tallied to select All-Pennsylvania winners for 1987. The All-Pennsylvania Reserve and Honorable Mention animals will be paraded immediately after the Fall Show is completed.

Also during the show, the Keystone Three-Year-Old Futurity banner will be awarded to the top animal entered in the Futurity Class in 1984. The winner of this class will also receive a cash award totaling one half of the entry fees paid into the Futurity.

Holstein exhibitors are reminded that show entries are due by August 24, 1987.

Make plans now to be in State College on September 11 to observe some of Pennsylvania's finest cattle. More information on the show can be obtained by contacting the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA 16801.

How can you raise healthier calves?

fiberdome INC CALFhutches are your answer

Raising calves is a tricky business. That's why modern calf raisers are going to individual hutches ...to help save more calves by cutting down on pneumonia, scours and hoof problems. Properly made hutches help eliminate the dampness, crowding and poor ventilation that plague many calf barns.

You can be assured of this kind of healthier environment with Fiberdome CALFhutches. Their unique one-piece construction of heavy gauge fiber glass makes them weather-proof, so they will last indefinitely with normal care. No joints for moisture and bacteria to creep through. A white gel-coat finish keeps them cool in summer.

When not in use, stakes can be removed and strong U-bolts on top let you conveniently pick units up to clean or stack for compact storage.

can free you from your chores
EASY ADAPTABILITY: Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have. Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles.
5-YEAR WARRANTY: Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough. Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales. Ours don't.
MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit. Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake
SIMPLE OPERATION "Push-pull" Power Units with 1/3 or 1/2 HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation
HI-GRADING OF FEED: Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops; birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition.
REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed; theirs leaves most old feed to get stale.
BILLED-OUT FEED: Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed, neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste
COST SAVINGS: Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs
LOW MAINTENANCE With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga trough (one competitor has only 22 ga) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs

Midla Wins National Award

MARFREESBORO, Tn. — One of the high points of the 14th Junior National Polled Hereford Show and Forum was the announcement of Lowell Midla, Marianna, Pa., and Cindy Blakley, Hennessey, Okla., as co-winners of the National Junior Merit Award.

The announcement came during the awards program at the Junior National held July 19-23 on the campus of Middle Tennessee State University, Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Runner-up honors went to Martha Behrends of Mason City, Ill.

Midla and Blakley each received an $875 APHA Foundation scholarship plus a week-long trip to the Polled Hereford operation of their choice, sponsored by Harding and Harding Livestock Insurance. A $500 scholarship was awarded to Behrends. The award is based on each applicant's outstanding achievements in the beef cattle industry, citizenship acitivites and personal development.

He is the 21-year-old son of Joseph and Louise Midla and will be a junior this fall at the University of Pennsylvania. He is majoring in Natural Sciences and plans to become a practicing veterinarian. He got his first Polled Hereford in 1974 and has since been building his own herd as well as working on his family's farm, Flat Stone Lick. In addition to his junior Polled Hereford activities, highlighted by a two-year-term on the National Junior Polled Hereford Council in 1984-86, he has been active in 4-H and intramural sports.

MOPRO
LIQUID SILAGE FORTIFIER

has been used by progressive farmers for over 18 years. University tested and proven MOPRO Liquid Silage Fortifier is formulated to balance the major mineral and protein deficiencies of silages. It conserves dry matter by slowing down the heat of fermentation and also prevents loss from mold and rot after being removed from the silo or trench. MOPRO is added at the time of ensiling and is applied by metering equipment with very little handling cost. MOPRO will not corrode mild steel tanks or brass fittings and has no free ammonia odor to irritate the eyes or skin. MOPRO is a homogeneous solution of ammonia salts, urea, cane molasses, and minerals (except salt and calcium) in an efficient liquid carrier. It provides nitrogen for improved fermentation in the rumen and contains a mineral balance of phosphorus, magnesium, and trace elements including selenium. MOPRO 100 will give a resulting silage of up to 14.3% protein.

New Cover Crop For Cold Soils

Talk about cold areas in Pennsylvania with short growing seasons and Susquehanna County will be one area mentioned.

Putting a cover crop on the soil after silage corn has been a problem. Regular rye doesn't have time to establish growth before the winter storms. As a result, soil erodes at high rates because of the lack of cover.

However, now there is a new cover crop variety available — Aroostook rye. Aroostook rye was originally developed for cover following potatoes in Maine.

After hearing reports of its success in the cold climate of Maine, personnel of the USDA Soil Conservation Service (SCS) and the Susquehanna County Conservation District decided it was worth a try.

Test seedings were set up on six farms in 1985-86. The results were so impressive that seeding trials were established on 24 farms this past Fall. SCS conservation technician Bob Wagner, carefully measured growth on all plots in mid November and again in April.

Aroostook rye had up to twice the growth of regular rye. Bob also found that Aroostook survived the winters better and by mid April was several inches taller. Bill beeman, a Brooklyn Township farmer, reported that his Aroostook was twice as high as the regular rye. Bowen Jayne of the same township stated that his Aroostook was twice as thick and on April 14th the Aroostook was five inches high as compared to two inches for regular rye.

John Oyler, SCS Plant Materials Specialist, adds that Aroostook Rye can grow six inches or more in one week in April. Lenox Township farmer, Jim Zick's rye was six inches high on April 15 and 14 inches on the 30th of April. At the same time, regular rye was five inches and nine inches.

Ron Kays, New Milford Township, had a growth of 13 inches on his Aroostook Rye on May 1. Twenty-eight days later it was 54 inches. His regular rye was seven and 44 inches on the same dates.

Wagner reports that the seeding trials were set up so that Aroostook and regular rye were both planted in the same field on the same soils. Part of the Aroostook rye seed was provided by the Soil Conservation Service plant materials center at Big Flats, New York. The largest portion was purchased by the county conservation district from their non-till planter fund. The conservation district rents no-till seeders to farmers.

Each farmer was given eight bushel of Aroostook Rye seed. The farmer had to provide an equal amount of regular rye.

Method of seeding was up to the farmer. Several methods were used including no-till, broadcast, disking and spreading with manure.

Use of the rye was up to the farmers. Fifteen plowed the rye down for organic matter. Four chopped the rye for silage with one stating that he got one-third more from the Aroostook and two harvested the rye for grain.

SCS District Conservationist, Wayne Ray noted that actual cost to the farmer was low. It cost $15.00 per acre to rent the conservation district's no-till planter and the cost share through the Agricultural Conservation Program was $12.00 per acre.

Wagner sees several advantages to the Aroostook Rye over regular rye. Faster growth, more winter hardy, and more organic matter to plow down. Oyler adds that Aroostook rye exhibit siginficantly better fall establishment and more horizontal growth for better ground cover. "It improves soil tilth and holds residual fertilizers near the surface for future crops," commented Oyler. "It offers a lot of potential for potato growers and other vegetable crops as well as silage corn and it does protect the land against erosion."

Sid and Jim Marcy, Lenox Township, can not put manure on some corn fields because they are too distant from the barn. They feel that these fields are low in organic matter. The Marcys say that the Aroostook rye should provide twice organic matter of regular rye when chiseled into the soil.

There is one disadvantage to Aroostook. Wagner says that from his observations, it does not stand very wet conditions as well as regular rye. Wagner adds that he feels that Aroostook rye should not be planted in fields that are very wet. "From my observation, it does not germinate and grow as well in wet soils".

The seeding trials are not going unnoticed in Susquehanna County. For the first time ever, a seed dealer in the county was unable to meet the demand for Aroostook rye seed as other farmers are adopting the practice. Perhaps it contributed to an item in a large Pennsylvania seed company's newsletter that reported the best year ever for sale of cover crop seed.

Conservation District Seeks Award Nominees

Farmers located within the Susquehanna River Basin are invited to participate in the Second Annual Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Awards Program, a special feature of Pennsylvania's Chesapeake Bay Program. This program provides an opportunity to recognize a landowner in Lebanon County who is helping to protect local water quality and the Chesapeake Bay through exemplary farm practices. The Lebanon County Conservation District is accepting applications from individuals wishing to nominate a candidate for the award. A county winner will be selected and submitted to compete in one of four regional contests. The winning farm will receive publicity and an award proclaiming their property a Clean Water Farm.

The four regional winners of the Clean Water Farm Awards will also be recognized by Secretary Boyd Wolff of the Department of Agriculture and Secretary Arthur Davis of the Department of Environmental Resources during Farm Show Week, January 1988, in Harrisburg. All nominations must be received by October 16, 1987 at the Lebanon County Conservation District Office.

For guidelines and applications, please call the District Office at 272-3377 or write the Lebanon County Conservation District, 201 Cumberland St., Lebanon, PA 17042, Attention Brian Boyer.

Lanc. Co. Ag Preserve Hearing Monday

The Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board is sponsoring a Public Hearing on the designation of an Agricultural Preserve in Drumore Township. The Hearing, scheduled for Monday, August 24, at 7:30 p.m. at the Drumore Elementary School, Osceola Drive, Drumore, Pennsylvania, follows the informal information meeting held in July.

The 8,900 acre proposed Agricultural Preserve would make landowners eligible to voluntarily sell a conservation easement to the Agricultural Preserve Board and establish protective right-to-farm policies.

The purpose of the Public Hearing will be to inform landowners and receive comments about the effects of the Agricultural Preserve and the voluntary conservation easement program.

Economists Say Milk Production Headed Up

STRONGSVILLE, OH — The direction of U.S. dairy policy remains hazy. But economists agree on one point — milk production is headed for an increase.

Ed Coughlin, director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's dairy division, relayed this economic forecast to more than 250 dairy producer delegates during the annual mid-year meeting of Milk Marketing Inc. (MMI).

Despite the fact that total U.S. milk production in 1987 is down from a year ago, Coughlin said that a plentiful number of herd replacements, strong milk output per cow and favorable milk/feed prices ratios indicate that the nation's milk production trends will move upward.

Furthermore, Coughlin said that the most significant impact of the whole herd buy-out on milk supplies and cattle resources has already been felt.

"Approximately 100,000 (from a total of 930,000) dairy cows remain to be disposed of under the buy-out program with calves and heifers going to market ahead of that. Consequently, we can say that the major impact of the program has already been felt." said Coughlin.

Such factors could help to trigger the Jan. 1, 1988 reduction in the milk support price mandated by the 1985 Farm Bill. The Farm Bill calls for a 50-cent per hundredweight price cut if the USDA projects Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) purchases of dairy products to exceed 5 billion pounds of milk equivalent.

"The law doesn't say that the secretary of agriculture may make the change, it says the secretary shall enforce it," said Coughlin who estimated CCC purchases for this fiscal year to range between 5 and 5.5 billion pounds of milk. (Purchases from January through June of this year have totaled about 4.3 billion pounds — that's a drop from 9.4 billion pounds in 1986.)

Coughlin said that commercial use of dairy products is probably the brightest story on the dairy horizon. In the first four months of 1987, commercial disappearance of total milk increased 3.6 percent over the same period last year — a 13.9 percent increase since 1983.

Despite this strong growth in product disappearance, Coughlin said that increased consumption would not be able to absorb the expected rise in milk production.

MMI General Manger Gordon Riehl echoed Coughlin's production forecast and discussed price and policy outlooks.

Riehl projects that the 50-cent drop in the milk support price for Jan. 1, 1988 is fairly certain. He reminded producers that, on Oct. 1, 1987, the 1985 Farm Bill calls for the removal of the 25-cent dairy termination program assessment, and the enactment of a 25-cent milk support price cut. Those measures will counteract each other and, in fact, not affect the current milk support price.

Regarding dairy policy, Riehl said that any legislative changes prior to the upcoming election would be budget driven and that inclusion of a supply/management type program for dairy is highly unlikely.

Riehl said that MMI will continue to support the re-enactment of a whole herd buy-out program because it was directly effective in lowering productin. However, he added that farmers should not expect such legislation.

"Lowering milk prices is not an answer to milk production. If we try to push cows out by price alone, we also push a lot of farmers out of business. The whole herd buy-out efficiently lowered production by getting directly to the problem of too many milk cows, and it went down a generation or two and removed some unborn calves and young stock," said Riehl.

The program added an estimated 25 to 30 cents per hundredweight to producer pay prices.

MMI is a 7,500 member dairy farmer owned cooperative encompassing an eight state midwestern area including Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, Maryland and West Virginia. Last year MMI marketed more than 4.5 billion pounds or 523 million gallons of milk.

University Of Maryland Offers Nitrate Testing

Dairy and livestock producers may unwittingly poison their animals with nitrate if they try to salvage usable feed from drought-stressed fields.

Farmers can protect their livestock with a free nitrate test through The University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service. This program is funded by the Maryland Department of Agriculture as part of Governor William Donald Schaefer's effort to assist drought striken farmers.

According to Dr. Lester Vough, Extension forage specialist, this summer's drought may cause a deadly build-up of nitrate in the stalks and stems of corn and other crops such as sudangrass and sorghum.

"It's going to be a spotty situation -- a lot like the thunderstorms have been," said Vough, "We don't expect every producer to have nitrate problems, but farmers should be wary if they've been hit hard by the drought."

High nitrate levels in feeds can poison livestock by interfering with the blood's ability to carry oxygen -- causing the animal to literally suffocate. Symptoms include: blue gums and mucous membranes, rapid pulse and breathing, muscle tremors, staggering and blindness. Animals usually die 3 or 4 hours after eating contaminated feed.

Nitrate testing will be conducted at the Wye Research and Education Center in Queen Anne's County. According to Kevin Morrissey, laboratory supervisor, farmers should have test results phoned to them within 24 hours.

"But," he added, "if a producer has sick livestock, we can cut that time to 10 hours -- We will respond to someone who has a problem."

The key to an accurate nitrate analysis, according to Dr. Lester Vough, Extension forage specialist, is collecting a representative feed sample.

To sample corn before harvesting, you should: randomly collect 10 to 20 plants from a field; run them through a chopper, and take a one gallon sub-sample from this mix.

If corn has been cut and baled, take core samples from 18 or 20 bales in each field. Many county Extension offices have sampling tools available for loan.

Collect samples of corn that has been chopped for silage as the silo is being filled. The silage fermentation process can reduce nitrate levels from 20 to 60 percent. But, if analysis of these initial samples indicate high nitrate levels, you should plan to sample again before feeding to livestock.

When sampling silage, be sure to collect grab samples over a period of 3 or 4 days instead of just a surface layer sample -- this will ensure a more accurate analysis.

State DHIA Supervisors Honored

At the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association's annual Supervisor Conference held recently in State College, several DHIA Supervisors were honored for exemplary performance to the DHIA dairy farmers of Pennsylvania. Honored for excellent in performance was Harvey Fettig, Juniata Co., Superior Supervisor Award. This is the highest honor given to a PA DHIA Supervisor, and represents over 20 years of outstanding service to Juniata County's DHIA members, as well as cooperation with the state DHIA association.

Henry Halstead, Butler Co., William Meyers, Somerset Co., Barbara Gary, Bradford Co., Alan Narhood, Snyder Co., and Thomas Garrett, Lancaster Co., all received Distinguished Service Awards. These individuals have consistently delivered outstanding service to the DHIA members that they serve.

Also honored was Jane Kashner, Crawford County, who received the Carl B. Hollinger Memorial Award for excellence in handling samples sent to the central lab. Owen McCulloch of Cumberland County received the Putnam Memorial Award for the lowest errors per number of cows tested, and George Cashell of Franklin county was selected as Rookies of the Year.

Field Day Promotes Nutrient Management

BY J. EVAN REIFF

COCHRANVILLE — Chester County farmers received the latest developments in manure management practices from government officials at the Chester County Manure Management Field Day held Thursday on the farm of State Representative Arthur Hershey, Cochranville.

Various government agencies, including the Chester County Conservation District, the Penn State Extension Service, and the Pa Department of Environmental Resources (DER), told a group of about 50 farmers about measures being taken to control agriculture run-off into the Chesapeake Bay and ways to best utilize their animal's wastes.

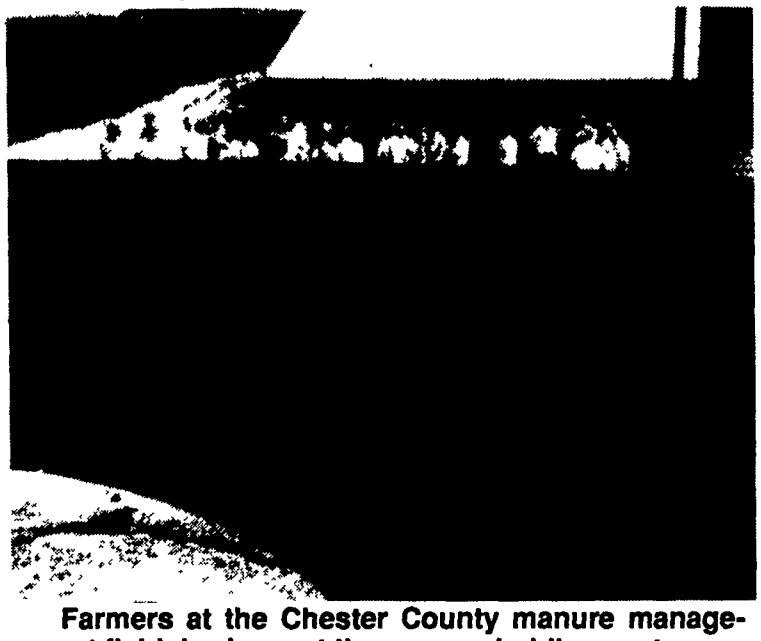
Duane Hershey, son of Arthur Hershey, gave a tour of the manure management system the Hersheys were able to construct using financial assistance under DER's cost-sharing program. The Hershey farm is in the Elks Creek and Octoraro watershed and received high priority rating because of its location. Marshall Haws, of the Conservation District, was on hand to answer questions about the cost-sharing program and to give-out applications. Haws said that DER would be providing funds through 1992.

A mobile nutrient lab, funded by DER and created by Penn State, was at the field day to test water samples brought by farmers for unsafe nitrate levels and for bacteria and pesticide contamination. Sue Swartz, summer intern with DER, said close to 20% of the samples she tested this summer contained high nitrate levels. The mobile unit makes about 30 stops around Pa to perform soil tests and to educate farmers about the importance of good water and manure management.

According to a Penn State study, nitrate is dangerous to infants under the age of six months and to farm animals. Through manure management, nitrate leeching can be controlled.

Farmers were told that manure is most efficiently used when a system of collection, storage, and application is put into practice. Not only does this practice help control agriculture run-off, but, inables farmers to apply manure to the fields in which it is most needed.

After checking a water sample in the mobile nutrient lab, Ben Zimmer, of the Pa. Department of Environmental Resources, explains the test results to participants in the Chester county manure management field day.



Farmers at the Chester County manure management field day inspect the manure holding system on the farm of State Representative Art Hershey. The Hershey farm is in the Chesapeake Bay Financial Assistance Funding Program.

Nutrient Test Available At Contest

The Mobile Nutrient Laboratory, co-sponsored by the Pennsylvania State University and the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources, Chesapeake Bay Program, will be on hand at the York County and Pennsylvania State Plowing Contest on Friday August 28, 1987. The Plowing Contest will be held in accordance with the Olde Tyme Day '87 Fair at the Blaine Rentzel farm located one mile north of Manchester.

Tom Juengst, of the DER, Bureau of Soil and Water Conservation, will perform free nitrate testing of water samples for the first twenty samples brought to the lab that day. About one cup of water is all that is necessary and the sample should be in a clean glass container. The results can be received later the same day or can be mailed to you at your convenience. The lab will be present at 9:00 that morning so you can plan accordingly.

For further information contact the York County Conservation District, 118 Pleasant Acres Road, York, PA 17402, phone (717) 771-9430.

Nutrient Management Workshop

Farming in an economically and environmentally sound manner may seem like a difficult task, but methods are being developed to help make the job easier.

As part of Penn State's involvement in the Chesapeake Bay Program, The Cooperative Extension Service is sponsoring a one-day workshop on nutrient management on August 25, 1987, featuring speakers from Penn State University. This workshop will provide an opportunity for area farmers to hear various approaches to nutrient management and to meet with the people who are developing them.

"The aim of the workshop," says Mitch Woodward, Extension regional manure management agent, "is to provide information on nutrient management methods that will help farmers become more efficient in the way they manage their farm's nutrients. Wise use of nutrients can help lower production costs and curb water pollution problems."

Following a brief overview of Penn State's Chesapeake Bay Projects, the morning sessions will cover the relationship between groundwater quality and agricultural practices, describe on-farm nutrient flow on Pennsylvania farms, and present the results of soil chemical monitoring activities in southeastern Pennsylvania. After lunch, speakers will discuss a method for predicting whether corn requires side dress nitrogen and then explain ways of developing nutrient management plans.

Adds Woodward, "We've assembled a group of speakers from Penn State who have a great deal of information to share. It should be a good opportunity for local farmers to learn more about the benefits of nutrient management and the methods that they can use."

The workshop is open to farmers throughout southeastern Pennsylvania and will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. at the Lancaster County Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road (near the intersection of Route 30 and Rou..72), Lancaster, Pa. To facilitate luncheon arrangements, advanced registration is appreciated, but not required. There is no charge. For more information, call Mitch Woodward at the Lancaster County Extension office (717/394-6851) or Joe Makuch at the Penn State Department of Agricultural Engineering (814/865-7685).

USDA Recommends Federal Order Component Pricing

JULY, 1987: For the first time in history, the dairy Division of the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Agricultural Marketing Service has recommended that a Federal milk marketing order price milk on the basis of its protein, as well as butterfat, components.

The recommended decision will affect milk in the Great Basin Federal Order which includes all of Utah and parts of Idaho, Neveda and Wyoming. The recommendation follows hearings which took place in March, 1986 in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The recommended multiple component pricing plan would basically leave the pricing of Class I (fluid) milk the same as present. Class II and III (manufacturing) milk would be priced based on both its protein and butterfat content.

For example, a dairyman selling milk with 3.5% butterfat and 3.0% protein in that area today receives $11.95 per hundred weight (cwt.). A dairyman selling milk with 5.0% butterfat and 4.0% protein receives $14.35 per cwt.

Under the recommended pricing plan, the 3.5% butterfat and 3.0% protein milk would be worth $11.18 per cwt. The milk with 5.0% butterfat and 4.0% protein would bring $15.11 per cwt.

The proposal was first brought forth by Intermountain Milk Producers Association (IMPA), a large, farmer-owned milk marketing cooperative whose members produce the majority of the milk in that marketing area. Testimony supporting the proposal was given by several leading milk marketers and researchers.

In issuing its recommendation, USDA stated that producers should be given an incentive to increase their production of protein relative to water in milk by being paid for protein at a level that reflects its value in manufactured products. Further, USDA stated that the currently accepted methods of testing for protein content of producer milk can be used to provide fair and equitable results on which payments for producers milk may be made.

During the next 30 days, interested parties may comment on the recommended decision. After USDA reviews all comments and answers any objections, it will issue it final decision. Producers in the area will then vote on the proposal.

Contest Winners

The Schuylkill Conservation District sponsored two contests held in conjunction with the Schuylkill County Fair. The Soil & Water Contest exhibit, won by the Blue Mt FFA, portrayed the FFA members planting trees for erosion protection and wildlife needs on a plot of land near Hawk Mt. A $100 first place award was presented to the Blue Mt FFA. Their advisor is Charles Heim.

The District also conducted a contest at their exhibit in the display tent during the fair. Participants were asked to determine the amount of soil lost in gullies which were shown on a photograph. Suzan Koziol of Zions Grove won the first place Kwanson Flowering Cherry Tree, Alberta Huntzinger of Orwigsburg won the second place Blue Spruce and Norman Brobst, Tamaqua, won the Canadian Hemlock. The amount of soil lost in the gullies was 27,400 lbs.

Herr Has Good Memories Of The Business He Leaves

BY PAT PURCELL

MILLERSVILLE, PA — "During that wonderful period in the life of a young farm boy when one is big enough to watch the goings on, but, is too little to help very much with the activities, there were three annual events of particular interest to me. Those events were Soil Sterilizing in the spring, Grain Threshing in summer and Fodder Shredding in late fall. Those events meant that Dad's custom thresherman would bring his steam traction engine and related equipment to the farm to perform those three operations for us." — Roy H. Herr

How many people can take a child hood desire and turn it into a lifelong vocation? Not many. But Roy H. Herr has managed to do just that for the past 41 years. A dream which began as a fascination for the steam powered equipment brought to his father's farm was made reality in 1946 when Herr started in operation in the seed cleaning business with Flory Newcomer, Mt. Joy.

He worked for the now deceased Newcomer in the spring and fall of 1947 and 1948. But in 1949 he built his own mobile seed cleaning unit out of wood. It was the type which could be bolted to the barn floor, but his unit became mounted on a truck bed. He used it through the the fifties and the early sixties.

As a young boy, Herr admired the family thresherman, J.H. Brubaker from Rohrerstown, Pennsylvania.

"The Brubakers and my parents were friends and when they visited together it was great for me to hear Mr. Brubaker relate some of his experiences in the field. But most of all, it was quite a thrill, whenever I had the chance to do so, to watch his perfectly maintained, immaculately kept, steam powered equipment in action," said Herr.

In 1960 Herr ordered a larger one from the factory in Saginaw, Michigan. He purchased just the bare insides of the machine and spent many, many hours fabricating the metal framework and the accessories which incorporated the factory bought piece into a creation which was truly of his own invention.

According to Ken Porter, of Centre Hall, who has taken over for Herr, the seed cleaning and conditioning machine is truly one of a kind.

"This is the only thing I've ever owned that no one else has one like it. There's only one in the world like it. This machine was designed by Roy so it could be fixed. That is not the way things are designed nowadays, so that the machine can't be fixed and you have to buy a new one. Not with this," said Porter. "Everything with Roy is first class."

For nearly 40 years Herr has been on his own and on the road covering an area which reaches into southern York and Lancaster counties, while the bulk of his customers farm in Mifflin, Huntingdon and Centre counties. And now, at age 77, Herr is retiring. Porter, is in the process of taking over for Herr.

"I think it's time I hang it up, so to speak, while I can still coach a successor," said Herr. "It has been a fascination to me to work with something that is one of a kind with such a combination of mechanisms, perform as well as it does and is so easy to operate and to know that I have been able to design and construct something that has been practical. I feel pleased that I have been able to perform a needed service and I have gotten compliments on my work. It makes me feel very good that have been able to work for the same family and serve the next generation like here with Ken Porter.

Herr worked for Edgar Porter, Ken's father, when Ken was 10-years-old, in 1949 at the farm on Letort Road outside of Millersville. In 1971 Ken moved to Centre County where he was also serviced by Herr. Ken also spent time with Herr on the equipment. Ken will carrying on the tradition begun by Herr through out central Pennsylvania and continue serving customers in southern York and Lancaster counties.

Seed cleaning and conditioning is a process which separates good grain to be used for seed from the chaff and to sort out all of the material unsuitable for seeding. That material which is not used for seeding is not discarded. It goes into different bags to be ground into feed.

The process is done through the use of three shelves which sift the grain and other particles. As the grain is sifted a high-power fan will lift the inferior particles and grain away from the seed grain and the prime seed grain will go into a separate bin where it will be chemically treated before it is bagged.

According to Herr, some farmers feel the homegrown grain used as seed is superior to certified seed which can be purchased. However, Porter pointed out that while some farmers are receiving around $2 per bushel for their grain, they have to pay up to $6 per bushel of seed grain, so there is a substantial cost benefit in using homegrown over certified grain.

Although there are still seed cleaners available from local feed mills throughout the state, the number of independant seed cleaners is diminishing. Herr, said the decrease is due to the number of farmers who no longer grow small grains and therefore do not require the service of the seed cleaner.

In the past 40 years Herr has seen many changes, specifically in the development of farm land. In York County he has seen a decrease in the number of farms with an increase in the size of the existing farms.

In Lancaster County he has the seen the land being developed and commercialized. Land outside of Lancaster, along Abbeyville Road, where he was raised, used to be nothing but farmland and all of that's developed.

"Of course more corn is being farmed. We used to take a drive into Amish land to find wheat shocked, I always like to see that, but it's getting hard to find that anymore, said Herr." "Villages and country stores are no longer around. I guess it's just a matter of people adjusting to the modern way that things have just shaped up. They used to be a pleassure to go to, meet people, exchange information and now its just a memory".

Through the loyalty of his established customers, Herr has been able to keep busy for the six weeks in the fall and two weeks in the spring. Herr never had to do any advertising, except for his first year. Then he went from from farm to farm in Mifflin County looking for business. But he never had to again.

"What was a big benefit to me was that I was able to work at other jobs and still be able to take off to do the seed cleaning, " said Herr.

For the past 11 years Herr worked with Goodhart & Sons, Inc. doing fabrication in the shops. For the past three years he had been working for them compiling detailed drawings for patterns.

"They have cooperated with me and have given me the time I need to conduct my personal business every spring and between July and October. It's been a beautiful arrangement," said Herr."I have had the opportunity to meet some wonderful people. They were more than just customers."

Retirement for Herr will mean more time to catch-up with a backlog of things, not the least is spending more time with his wife of 52 years, Marian, and his four daughters and nine grandchildren. Top on his list is the restoration of a 10-ton steam roller. Herr is one of the founding officers of the Rough and Tumble Association which was begun in August 18, 1950.

"I don't think I'm going to be sitting around with a lot of time on my hands," said Herr.

For 70 Years We've Farm Families Su

Many families took their first step to successful farming when they stepped into their local Farm Credit office.

They came to us for a loan to buy the land and build the house and raise the barn.

As farms are passed on from generation to generation, many of them grow into family corporations.

And Farm Credit remains a part of the picture. With loans to help plant the seeds and harvest the crops. Or buy more land for future generations.

There's a very good reason why we want farmers to prosper. It's because we're farmers, too. The Farm Credit System is owned and controlled by the farmers who use it.

So the next time you need a loan, look up the family member who isn't in the photographs you see here.

But who's always been in the background.

Dairy Farm Mom Opens Home and Heart To Kids

BY LOU ANN GOOD

"Our home is always open." Fran Bushong said as her eyes swept across her spacious renovated kitchen where baskets, dried flowers and collectibles hang from the rafters.

The Bushong's Lebanon County farmhouse is large enough to host the 40-60 4-H kids Fran directs; yet, homey enough with Fran's homespun touches to make their own three children and various foster teens feel at home.

This busy housewife was always determined to be in farming. In 1964, she was the first female FFA'er in the nation. And in 1968, she was the first girl to receive the Keystone Award.

Today Fran and her husband Dale own an 85-acre dairy farm in Lebanon. With their children Matt,16; twelve year-old twins Melanie and Michele and one permanent foster son Allan, 18; they milk 85 cows three times a day.

Family is top priority for the Bushongs who explained, "we planned our milking schedule for 5 a.m., 1 p.m. and 9 p.m. so we can attend all the kid's games at school and all their 4-H activities." Matt plays football and the twins play field hockey.

The Bushongs work in shifts together to see that all the chores are done smoothly and on time. "If you don't work together as a family, you'll never make it on the farm," Fran pointed out. The twins wash the cows and change the milkers while their parents and two older brothers milk.

This busy mom grabs a pan from the ladder she hung herself. Fran Bushong, Lebanon, tore out walls & ceilings of their formerly 20-room farmhouse to make the rooms more spacious.

Fran loves milking cows. She has the distinction of being both the first female FFA'er and the first female recipient of the FFA Keystone Award.

The Bushong's farm is a place where kids congregate and feel at home. In fact, for many it is the first home they have actually known. Over the past years, the Bushongs have been parents to 15 foster-placed teens.

Most of them are troubled teens who test their limits. Many of the Bushong's friends question, "How can you love these kids unconditionally?

Fran explained, "All you can do is feed and love them." Fran said, "If you try to make them do things a certain way, it won't work."

She recalled one twelve-year-old girl, who sobbed after she was placed in their home after her mother had coached her to become a prostitute, "I just want to be a normal twelve year-old. I'm tired of pretending I'm 20."

Fran's advice to her: "Go out in the field and pick a calf and a cat to take care of. You can have them as long as you're here."

Fran has strong beliefs about today's kids. She said, "They need responsibility. Too many have been entertained all their life by TV and spectator games."

Of course, on a farm there is always tons of work to do. And Fran admits, "If people aren't careful, the farm will run them instead of them running the farm."

The Bushongs are careful not to let that happen. Although they have a daily schedule, some days they drop it all and say, "Today, we're taking off to go swimming."

This family has always been quick to help others in need. Several years ago, Allan, who is their only permanent foster child, was kicked out of his home with no place to go. He begged the Bushongs, "Please, let me come and live with you. Teach me how to farm."

The Bushongs love Allan as their own and Fran points out, "When we got him, we thought we were doing him a favor. We didn't expect anything in return. But as it turns out, he helps us out in many ways."

This summer the Bushongs were able to visit relatives in Missouri while Allan stayed behind and ran the farm. Some people asked the Bushongs, "How can you vacation and let an 18-year-old kid run the farm"? But Fran said, "If we can't trust him to do it right, than we didn't train him to do a good job."

Fran doesn't pretend to have the perfect family. "We have disagreements. We have bills. We have challenges—milk prices spiral downward, unpredictable weather could cause us to lose everything in one season."

When the Bushongs face a problem, Fran said, "we stop and hold hands and pray and something happens inside. Our kids see how God provides, but we want our kids to see that money is not the most important part of life. We can have all those things and still not be happy. Only the Lord can provide that."

It seems unbelievable that this busy woman who is constantly helping others was at one time depressed and suicidal.

Fran grew up the oldest of eight children on a Pennsylvania farm. Her childhood memories are punctuated with splintering glass and the screaming rages as her alcoholic father chased her mother with knives and anything else he could grab.

Fran thought she left her unhappy childhood behind when she married a FFA'er whom she met at a state convention.

She was determined to have the exact opposite of her childhood homelife. But 1½ years after her marriage, tragedy struck. Fran's husband was killed in a traffic accident and left her with a four-month old son.

Angry and bitter that a man as wonderful as her husband was killed in a senseless accident while criminals led an apparent trouble-free life, Fran withdrew into a deep depression for two years. Suicide, she decided, was the only escape available to her.

"I went into the bathroom," Fran recalled, "I poured a bottle of pills in my hand, but when I tried to lift them to my mouth, I couldn't."

For three hours Fran struggled to swallow the pills. Tired of fighting, Fran sensed that she had a choice —"to sink or swim." Fran recalled, "I prayed, "God, I want to swim, but I don't know how."

Fran believes in that moment her life was changed. She sensed that she needed to stop trying to understand why her husband was killed and trust God."

The young widow began to take an interest in life again. Fran did not believe she would ever marry again, but soon she met Dale. "Our story is like a love story," she admits. "He's so patient, loving and understanding." In 1974 they were married and in 1975, they had twin girls

"You see," Fran said, "I was at the bottom. I was bitter and angry. That is why I can love the foster kids we take in. I know what it is like to have nothing, be nothing, to want to die and then to experience God's unconditional love. That's why we want to take these kids in. To show them there is another way to live."

Farming and home responsibilities have not stopped Fran from

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Dairy Farm Mom

How innocent and pastoral a scene the following always appears to be.

Sunshine washes over a pasture of green grass, picturesquely sliced by the mandatory gurgling brook. Somewhere in the picture is a row or cluster of oaks or poplars or hickories. And at the foot of the trees, a couple of dozen half-dozing cows ruminate, meditate and rest the day away.

Brings a smile to your face just to think about a scene like that, doesn't it?

Unless you know the facts, ma'am. Then it's not so pretty.

What appears to be picturesque, pastoral rural artistry is actually a hotbed of bovine revolution in planning. For what passes for Bossy, Bessie and company licking and grooming one another's heads is in reality the passing from muzzle to ear the secret orders of attack.

"Pssst, pass it on. Tonight we hit'em."

Your clue is in the tails. (Just de-tails, ma'am, just de-tails.) Watch'em carefully.

See'em sway. See'em swish. See'em appear to delicately swoosh flies from the backs of one another. All just a coverup, ma'am.

Flies have nothing to do with this swaying and swishing. This is carefully choreographed, thoroughly rehearsed, battle attack plans for another round of De-Tail Wars.

The first volley is fired as the first milker is hung on the first cow in the lineup. With speed born of conviction and aim honed with practice, a sloppy tail whips around the face of the milking farmwife, marking her check with brown slashes.

Veterans of De-Tail Wars enhance their weaponry with "hunks." Hunks are petrified balls of mud and manure, mixed in bogs under those oak or poplar or hickory trees, and applied liberally to tail switches. Repeated immersion of tail hairs in the bogs assure adequate size to the hunks, and sun-curing guarantees their indestructability.

Hunks enhance brown, sloppy-tail-splashed cheeks with contrasting patterns of red welts at our place, one fighter in De-Tail Wars recently established a new level of tail-inflicted face pain by whipping a hunked tail smack at the mouth of the eldest offspring, newly fitted with dental braces.

Other known bovine battle plans utilize super-long, wispy tail hairs to pry loose contact lenses, and deposit them below in the manure gutter.

Some bovine warriors turn their past losses in De-Tail Wars into battle assets. One switch-less tail battler hereabouts, known as Hattie, uses her blunt, bald, bobbed-tail like a club. On the end of the tail bone, replacing the lost switch hairs, a protective armor has grown. Hattie has perfected the uncanny ability to rap her callused tail club on the soft spot just behond one's ear. After a fly, of course.

Likewise consider her herdmate Pearl. Pearl's tail sports a dandy kink about halfway to the switch, like the crooked nose of a boxer K.O.'ed once too often. A handicap? Not the slightest. Healed tail-bone breaks possess infinitely more temper and hardness in the scar knot than that found in the original. Sort of like a set of brass knuckles on a fist. It leaves a similar effect upon the nose of anyone unfortunate enough to get bush-whacked by Pearl's tail kink.

Often stallmates team up during De-Tail skirmishes, either alternately whapping the face of the milker, or synchronizing movements to smack both sides of the head with precision timing.

Next time you're tempted to admire a scene of cows clustered under shade trees in a meadow, please keep one thought in mind.

Someone has to be responsible for all those little DeTails.

See this red welt here behind my ear.....

being involved in other activities. She is 4-H organizational director for the South Mountain and Cedar Valley clubs which means she works with 60-70 kids. She leads a support group for widows, is a member of Lebanon Farm Women, county secretary for 4-H leaders, and active in church and many other community activities.

This busy family is currently involved in six 4-H clubs. About 25 kids are part of the tractor club that meets weekly at their farm.

During Lebanon's annual farm-city week celebration, Fran exchanged a day in the country for a day in the country. That day she accompanied her city hostess in all her daily duties. In the morning she took an areobics classk and then went out for lunch. During the afternoon, she helped write a column which her hostess completes weekly.

Fran enjoyed it, but she makes it no secret that she prefers her rural family lifestyle. And her whole family agrees that opening up your home and your heart to others brings satisfaction that can't be beat.

Who's Behind Lancaster 4-H Success

BY LOU ANN GOOD

Zoann Parker is an energetic dynamo as she oversees the 4-H Fair which began Tuesday at the Solanco Fairgrounds. 4-H activities fill her life and this three-day roundup is the highlight of her year.

With pride, Zoann points out that when she first took on the responsibility as county 4-H coordinator 3½ years ago, the roundup lasted only one day. Yet she is quick to add that Lancaster County's 4-H success of ranking 2nd in the state is not entirely her doings. She said the parents are extremely supportive. "They give time being 4-H leaders, they transport their kids to each event and donate handcrafted projects to the benefit auction."

Zoann attributes the parent's cooperation to the culture. "They are so family-oriented compared to those in other communities. They know the importance of 4-H." "It's a great place to live," she said, but she feels that people who grow up here do not realize what a goldmine they live in. "The work ethic is beautiful," she remarked.

Although Zoann grew up in New York, she certainly doesn't lack Lancaster County's work ethic. She often works 80 hours a week as she trains and recruits over 600 adult leaders and makes it a point to visit every club at least once throughout the year. Zoann jokes, "You can't have a family and have this job."

Yet Zoann has managed to find time for marriage. Two years ago she married Terry Schuck who works at Lancaster Labs. Although Terry was not raised a 4-H'er, Zoann has established 4-H commitments as a normal part of their life. Either by force or by choice Terry now leads a 4-H air rifle club.

For career purposes, Zoann has chosen to maintain her maiden name. "Imagine," she said, "people having to learn a new last name for me. It was difficult enough for them to learn Zoann. I didn't want them wasting time hunting my number up in the phone book and saying, "Now let's see -- what's her name?"

Marriage for Zoann meant moving out of her apartment to a small farm. The farm was a dream come true for this country girl who was raised on a 1000 acre New York farm. Then, showing steers at fairs and farmshows was a major part of her lifestyle. And when she moved into the area, she missed having her own animals.

"Now," she said with obvious pride, "we have steers, ducks, and chickens." Zoann finds it relaxing to spend time with the animals. "I love people and I love my job, but sometimes I need to get back to the basics." And spending time with her animals does that for her.

One project that Zoann feels has eased 4-H leaders' responsibilities has been a how-to book she formulated to explain all the pertinent information that leaders need to know in order to fulfill 4-H responsibilities. "Before this book, we were losing 60% of our leaders after the first year. That makes it difficult to recruit--afterwhile you run out of people. Now with the book, leaders know exactly what is expected of them and how to accomplish it."

The time required to put the book together has paid off. "This is a time when other counties are losing enrollment. We are gaining. We have a terrific program."

Zoann isn't content to have merely a terrific program. She wants to have the best in the state. "There is no reason we can't," she explained. "We have the leaders, the kids, the values and the craftmanship. Three of our girls ranked first, second, and fourth in the Fashion Revue State competition."

Every year Lancaster has consistently been at the top statewide, but it has been Zoann's disappointment that no county 4-H'er has won national recognition. She's determined to change that record.

"I want a kid in every category to make it to the nationals."

She is digging to discover the cause for their not yet making it to the top. She knows their projects deserve it. She thinks the weak area might be in filling out the required blue forms. "We usually use a one page form called baby blue which asks all the necessary questions," but the winners evidently impress the judges by filling out 14 pages on the standard blue forms plus 5 typewritten pages telling about their 4-H career."

Zoann wants the community to realize all that 4-H offers. She believes, "The scholarships and career opportunities are fantastic."

Zoann graduated from Cornell University in 1973. She planned to be an ag teacher and before taking her present position, she worked for the government as a dairy inspector.

Zoann said she couldn't be as successful without the help of the other agents in the office who assist her in 4-H duties. Still, it's Zoann who has her fingers into everything, her mind is constantly thinking up new and better ideas.

A priority at this point is setting up 4-H clubs in suburban communities. "It's tough. Nobody has time to lead them anymore. The parents are more willing to drive their kids to the country for a club than lead them."

Zoann brims with future plans but as she elaborated on them someone yelled," Hey, Zoann, PM magazine is here. Come quickly."

"See what I mean?" Zoann said, throwing her arms outward, "In Lancaster County the whole community cares!" She continued, "Today two TV stations, two radio newscasters and four newspapers showed up to interview us. This doesn't happen in any other county -- there you need to pull teeth to get a little publicity. But Lancaster County -- they know the importance of 4-H; it's right up there with church and family responsibilities."

So, you see, the force behind the county's successful 4-H program is not the coordinator alone, but Lancaster countians who join their time and talents to make each year the best 4-H program ever.

Zoann Parker takes a rare break from her duties as Lancaster County 4-H Coordinator.

Parents like Karen Lehman, Manheim, enable 4-H to carry on a successful program. Karen leads a 4-H sewing club transports 3 of her children to area clubs & appliqued this farming scene for the benefit auction. Her husband, Dennis made the frame.

Peachy Recipes And Ideas For Fruit Lovers

You've heard the expression, "You're a peach." Not only is that a compliment to the recipient of that phrase but it also praises that lucious summer fruit—the peach. Fresh, frozen or canned, the peach is the most popular fruit choice for most Americans.

Fresh seasonal fruits like the peach are a part of summer eating that we wish we could enjoy all year long. Unfortunately, all too soon, they'll only be available at out-of-season prices—if at all. But by planning ahead, you can enjoy peaches during all seasons.

Let the following recipes and your imagination be your guide to making the best use of fresh-tasting, nutritious peaches.

Make-Ahead Peach Pie

Mix peaches with your usual pie seasonings, then add 1 tablespoon additional flour or tapioca or ½ tablespoon cornstarch. Put filling into a plastic bag pressed into a pie pan. When the fruit is frozen, remove the pan.

To make pie, remove frozen fruit from bag and place in pie shell. Cover with top crust and bake.

Frozen Peaches in Pineapple Syrup

Don't limit preserving peaches by the usual canning methods. Freezing them in a mixture of 3 parts medium syrup (4 cups water, 3 cups sugar) to 1 part pineapple juice preserves the color, nutrients and good taste of fresh peaches. And of course, freezing is a great time-saver.

PEACH CAKE

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Grease pan or oven-proof dish. Cover the bottom with 2 cups of sliced peaches. Sprinkle the fruit with the following:
⅔ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg
Grated rind and juice of one lemon
1 tablespoon flour
2-4 tablespoons melted butter.
Prepare batter:
1 cup flour
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
Beat and add:
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon melted butter
¼ cup milk

Beat ingredients with swift strokes until blended. Cover fruit with batter and bake 30 minutes. Remove from oven and reverse cake on platter. Cool slightly. Cover with meringue.

Meringue Heat in heavy pan and stir until dissolved then boil until 238-240 degrees on candy thermometer.
½ cup water
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup sugar
Gradually pour the syrup over 3 well-beaten egg whites while beating constantly with mixer until meringue is cool. Spread on cake. Brown lightly in 350 degree oven.

PEACHES & CREAM DESSERT BAR

1 package yellow cake mix.
2 eggs
½ cup butter melted
1 package coconut pecan frosting mix
2 cups sliced peaches
1 egg

In large bowl combine cake mix, eggs, butter and dry frosting mix. Stir until cake mix is moistened. Press into ungreased 13X9-inch cake pan. Bake 350 degrees for 10-15 minutes or until toothpick inserted comes out clean. Remove from oven. Top with sliced peaches.

In small bowl mix 8 ounces sour cream and one egg. Pour evenly over peaches. Return to oven and bake 10-15 minutes longer. Store in refrigerator.

FRESH PEACH PIE

Crust:
1 cup bisquick
3 tablespoons boiling water
¼ cup butter

Mix ingredients and press into pie-shell form in a 9-inch pie pan. Bake at 450 degrees for 8-10 minutes.
Filling
1 cup sliced peaches
⅔ cup water

Boil until peaches soften.
Mix:
1 cup sugar
⅓ cup water
3 tablespoons corn starch

Stir mixture into peaches and cook until thick and transparent. Slice 3 cups fresh peaches and place in baked shell. Pour mixture over top. Serve with whipped cream.

Peach pies remain a favorite way to use both fresh and preserved peaches.

ORANGE PEACH PIE

1 cup sugar
1 cup water
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoons salt
1 small orange flavored gelatin
5 cups diced fresh peaches

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt; add water. Bring to a boil to thicken. Add gelatin and cool. Fold in peaches. Pour into baked 9-inch pie shell or graham cracker crust. Serve with whipped cream or a dip of ice cream.

CANNED FRUIT FLUMMERY

2 cans (16 ounces) sliced peaches.
1 cup water
½ cup sugar
¼ cup minute tapioca

Reserve a few peach slices for garnish. Mash* remaining peaches in saucepan. Add water, sugar and tapioca and let stand 5 minutes. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Pour into bowl or individual dessert dishes and cover surface with plastic wrap. Chill 3 hours. Garnish with whipped topping and reserved fruit, if desired. Makes 4½ cups or 8 or 9 servings.
*Peaches may be pureed in blender.

Bottom part:
1 package graham crackers
¼ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon soft butter
Center part:
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
2 cups whipped cream
1½ cups confectioner's sugar
Top:
2 cups water
¼ cup sugar
1-3 tablespoons clear-jell
Peaches

Bottom part: Mix crushed graham crackers, sugar and melted buttter together. Cover bottom of 9x13-inch pan.

Center: Add cream cheese and sugar to whipped cream. Spread over crumbs in bottom mixture.

Top: Boil water and sugar with clear jel and cook until thickened. Let cool slightly and add fresh peaches.

Featured Recipe

This week's featured recipe comes from Fran Bushong, a busy dairy farmwife from Lebanon. Between her farm and house chores, Fran finds time to be a foster mother, leader of a support group for widows, member of Lebanon Farm Women Group, 4-H Organizational Leader, Secretary of County 4-H, and much more.

During Lebanon's Farm-City Week Celebration, Fran exchanged a day in the life of a city woman for a day on the farm. After the switch, Fran remained adament in her belief that farm-life can't be beat.

For more about Fran, look for her story in this section.

Busy Day Casserole

6 large potatoes
2 pounds hamburger
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
2½ cups milk
1 cup cheese
Onion, garlic to taste

Scrub potatoes; do not peel but slice french-fry style and boil in salted water. Fry hamburger. Season with onion and garlic to taste. Add 2 cans mushroom soup and milk. Layer potatoes and meat mixture in a large casserole dish. Cover with cheese. Bake 350° for 25 minutes.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

We are home after our trip to Alaska. I expected to give you a glowing report on all the wonderful things that we did and saw but as for now I simply don't feel that way. Maybe by next week I'll have a different perspective.

It was an exhausting trip as we traveled over 1200 miles by bus across vast, empty, mountainous country. Halfway through the trip I caught a bad cold; later, on the ship I got seasick. This was a trip that Allen always wanted to take and I went along.

No dedicated gardener should ever abandon his garden in the middle of the summer. I had worked so hard to have it picture-perfect before I left. And, then when I came back and saw all the weeds, worm-eaten broccoli, beetle-eaten beans, overripe cantaloupes and old sweetcorn. I simply wept.

I tried picking half of the patch of sweetcorn that had been ready a week earlier, but it was too starchy. So, I dried four pans of it and left dozens of ears on the stalks. It really bothers me as I always pick corn the day it is first ready while it is still tender and sweet.

The beans, too, are quite mature and so I've dried some of them. Unfortunately, I forget to use dried beans in the winter and they sit in their metal cans year after year while I cook the frozen ones.

Now, as I pitch overripe cantaloupes over the fence into the corn field, I try to remember something good about our long trip and hope I'll have the heart to write about it later.

How To Buy A Watermelon

Selecting a watermelon for quality and flavor is difficult even for the most experienced shopper. No absolute formula exists, but the use of several factors in judging a watermelon increases your chances of success.

In cut watermelon look for firm juicy flesh with good red color, suggests Maryetta Dorricott, Delaware County Cooperative Extension Home Economist. Flesh should be free from white streaks and whitish seeds indicate the melon isn't ripe. Dry, mealy flesh or watery, stringy flesh are signs of overripeness or aging after harvest.

If you are buying an uncut watermelon, you must rely only on appearance. The watermelon's surface should be smooth and the rind should have a slight dullness of dusty look. The dusty appearance is a surface "bloom" that indicates maturity. The underside or "belly" of the melon should have a creamy white to yellow color. A greenish white cast indicates that the melon isn't quiet ripe yet. The ends of the melon should be filled out. Avoid melons with misshapened or pointy ends.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't seem to find it anywhere, send your recipe request to Cook's Question Corner, care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION-Mrs. Donna Steele, Vintondale, would like a recipe for a dessert called Havanna Banana. It has a tapioca base.

QUESTION-Carol Fantom, Delta, would like a recipe for soft and fluffy biscuits like those served at fast food restaurants.

QUESTION-Margaret Jones of Timontum, MD, would appreciate some recipes that use sugar substitutes for diabetics.

QUESTION-Salina Peight, Belleville, would like a recipe for canning chili soup and vegetable soup without potatoes.

QUESTION-Mrs. Aaron B. Shirk, Lebanon, would like to know what are gooseberries and where can they be found?

Fluffy Banana Cake

1 cup mashed bananas
In mixing bowl mix:
½ cup shortening
1½ cup sugar
2 eggs unbeaten
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Stir in ¼ cup buttermilk or sour milk. Beat.
Add:
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
mashed bananas
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Pour batter in 2 nine-inch greased and floured cake pans. Bake 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes.

Cool cakes. Frost first layer. Arrange sliced bananas on top of frosting. Place second layer and frost. Optional:add ½ cup chopped nuts to cake.

ANSWER-Jeanne Kenna, Ottsville, submitted a recipe for mulberry pie which B. Haugh of Red Lion had requested.

Sour Cream Mulberry Pie

3 cups fresh mulberries
1 beaten egg
1 cup dairy sour cream
¾ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sort, wash and stem mulberries. Beat together egg, sour cream, granulated sugar, flour, salt and vanilla. Fold in mulberries. Pour fruit mixture into pie shell. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Meanwhile, combine following ingredients and stir with fork until crumbly:
¼ cup packed brown sugar
⅓ cup flour
2 tablespoon butter
Sprinkle over top of pie and bake 20 minutes longer. Remove from oven. Cool.

ANSWER-B. Haugh requested a recipe for mulberry jelly. Mrs. Aaron B. Shirk, Lebanon, sent the following recipes.

Spiced Mulberry Jam

1 quart mulberries, stemmed
3 cups sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon

Cover mulberries with salt water (¼ cup salt and 2 quarts cold water) and let set 5 minutes. Drain. Rinse in cold water 2 times. In large, heavy kettle, crush berries. Mix in sugar, lemon juice and cinnamon. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until sugar dissolves. Bring to a hard boil, stirring constantly until jellying point is reached at 220 degrees. Remove from heat. Stir and skim for 5 minutes. Ladle into half-pint canning jars. Adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath for 5 minutes. Makes 6 half-pints.

ANSWER-Carol Fantom, Delta, requested a coconut cake recipe. Thanks Sue Yake, New Oxford, for sending one.

Coconut Pound Cake

6 eggs, separated
1 cup shortening
½ cup margarine
3 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup milk
2 cups flaked coconut
3 cups sifted cake flour.

Beat egg yokes, margarine and shortening until blended. Gradually add sugar; beat until fluffy. Add vanilla. At low speed, beat in flour alternately with milk. Add coconut. Beat until well-blended. Gently fold in beaten egg whites. Turn into a greased tube pan. Bake 2 hours at 300 degrees. Cool on rack for 15 minutes. Remove from pan and cool.

Coconut Pecan Frosting

1 cup sugar
½ cup margarine
1 cup evaporated milk
3 eggs beaten
1⅓ cup flaked coconut
1 cup chopped pecans
1 teaspoon vanilla

In medium saucepan, combine sugar, milk, margarine, and eggs. Cook over medium heat until mixture starts to bubble; stir constantly. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cool until spreading consistency.

The pound cake is also good without frosting.

ANSWER-Julia Shaull of Broque wanted to know how to freeze cauliflower without it become watery and gummy. Thanks to a reader from Winfield who suggests that cauliflower should not be defrosted before cooking. She says she has not had problems with cauliflower when cooked without defrosting.

Marge Hargreaves of Fanwood shares her method for freezing cauliflower. Blanch according to directions. Lay on a large terry towel to drain for 5 minutes. Pat dry with other end of towel. Freeze. When ready to serve, empty flowerets into a steamer with lid. Boil for 10 minutes or a little more depending on size.

ANSWER-Thanks Eva Southard, Glen Rock, for answering Carol Famtom's request for Cake Brownies.

Cake Brownies

Mix together:
1 cup white sugar
1 cup flour
1 stick margarine
4 eggs
Add:
1 large can chocolate syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nuts
Do not overbeat. Bake 350 degrees in 9X13-inch pan for 25 minutes.

Frosting

1 stick margarine
1½ cups white sugar
½ cup canned milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Bring to a rolling boil for one minute. Turn off heat. Add ½ cup chocolate chips and beat. Frost brownies while warm.

Gelatin Popsicles

1 package powered drink mix
3 ounces flavored gelatin
¾ cup sugar
2 cups hot water
2 cups cold water.

Add boiling water to gelatin, sugar and drink mix. Stir until dissolved. Add cold water and pour into individual containers. Freeze.

Salmonella Crisis

Salmonella has hit the headlines in many areas of the country. It has caused havoc in the broiler industry and has scathed the egg industry also -- particularly in the Northeast.

Because of the intense media and public health interest in salmonella, AEB has scheduled a crisis communications workshop in Washington, D.C. on Tuesday, Sept. 1, to help you know how to respond to media and public health officials if a salmonella outbreak occurs in your area.

Salmonella outbreaks in eggs may not remain confined to the Northeast. They can occur anywhere and anytime. Eggs may or may not be involved, but the media may try to place responsibility on your product even before all the facts are known. This workshop will help you plan in advance what to say and what to do when a public health official is on the telephone and the TV camera crew is on the doorstep. It can be a very expensive lesson if you wait to learn from experience.

Tentative Agenda

8:00 a.m.- Eggs and Salmonella - Fact and Fiction; Dr. Robert Baker, Cornell University.
9:00 a.m.- Public Health Concerns; A Public Health Official to be announced.
9:30 a.m.- Update from the Northeast - National Implications; Christine Bushway, NEUEP.
10:00 a.m.- Responding to Media and Public Health Officials; John Paluczek, Ketchum Public Affairs.
Noon- Lunch.
1:00 p.m.- Hands-On Media Training Session; Johnathon Schenker, Ketchum Public Relations.
5:00 p.m.- Adjourn.

The 1-day workshop will be held Tues., Sept. 1, at The Westin Hotel in Washington, D.C. There will be a $25 registration charge to cover the luncheon and other incidental expenses. A block of rooms is available at The Westin Hotel for Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 at $95 per night.

A Shell Egg Price Discovery Symposium sponsored by USDA is scheduled for Wed., Sept. 2 in Washington, D.C. For more information, contact Connor Kennett, Director, Poultry Division - AMS, USDA. (202) 447-4476.

To register for the AEB Crisis Communications Workshop, complete the enclosed registration blank and return it to AEB by Aug. 24.

Fudgesicles

1 package instant chocolate pudding mix (3 ounces)
2 cups milk
1 cup evaporated milk
¼ cup sugar

Add milk to pudding mix and stir thoroughly. Add sugar and evaporated milk. Pour into containers and freeze.

ANSWER-Sharon Sensening of Smyrna, DE suggested the following recipe for sweetened condensed milk.

Homemade Sweetened Condensed Milk

1½ cup powdered milk
⅓ cup boiling water
⅔ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 Tablespoons melted butter.

Blend until smooth.

ANSWER-Mrs. Willis Shenk, Lititz, consoles Mrs. Ginny B. Atlkinson, Bridgeton, NJ, by saying that peach seed kernels are not poisonous because when she was growing up, her father carved little baskets from peach seeds and the family ate the kernals and no one ever got sick.

ANSWER-Betty Loump, Bernville, requested a recipe for Vanilla Woopie Pies that appeared in this column several months ago. Thanks Mabel Moyer, Manheim, for sending the following recipe.

Vanilla Whoopies

1 cup oil
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
1½ teaspoons vanilla
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sour milk

Cream oil, brown sugar and eggs. Add remaining ingredients. Let stand ½ hour before dropping on cookie sheet.

Filling

1 cup milk
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Cook until thick, cool, add:

½ cup shortening
1½ cup margarine
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla

Delaware Extension Seeks Master Gardener Candidates

NEWARK, Del. — The Delaware Cooperative Extension System is recruiting candidates for a second Master Gardener training course in Kent and Sussex Counties. The class will begin in October. Applications will be accepted until Sept. 15 from anyone who has a strong interest in gardening.

The purpose of the Master Gardener volunteer program is to help extension professionals provide Delaware residents with accurate, practical horticultural information.

For the upcoming class, approximately 30 individuals from Kent and Sussex Counties will be selected to receive 45 hours of technical and hands-on training. Professors and extension agents from the University of Delaware and Delaware State College will teach such topics as ornamental horticulture, vegetable and fruit production, insect and disease control, turf management, plant propagation and herb culture.

Applicants will be selected on the basis of their horticultural interest and desire to do volunteer work. In exchange for the training received, each person who takes the course agrees to donate 45 hours in support of Delaware extension home gardening programs.

The training course will be held at Abbott's Mill Nature Center near Milford on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Classes will be held weekly from mid-October to mid-December.

To receive an application and information on the training program, in Kent County call 736-4900 or 697-4000. In Sussex County, call 856-7303.

Kid's Korner

Life Of A Country Kid

Many of us dream of riding or owning a horse or our own. A horse and rider galloping across an open field appears elegant and effortless. However, Claudia Hartzler, 10, says a well-trained horse and rider makes everything look easier than it really is.

Claudia, daughter of Jeff and Gwen Hartzler, Mount Joy, is a second year member of the Lancaster County Boots and Saddles 4-H Club. As anyone who has ever ridden knows, it takes hours of hard work for both horse and rider to travel in harmony. Claudia takes riding lessons and practices regularly with her mare, Jessica.

A partnership needs to be developed between horse and rider. Riding is two-way communication. Horse and rider share a special language that both need to learn. There are certain aids a rider uses to help the horse understand what to do. A simple walk can be uncomfortable and dangerous for horse and rider if one does not understand the language.

A rider's hands on the reins are the most obvious aids. According to Claudia, a rider with "good hands" is one that hardly uses them. Hands should never be used alone, but always in combination with leg and seat aids. For example, by applying pressure with her legs, Claudia controls the pace and hindquarters of her horse.

A well-schooled horse has been trained to understand and respond to pressure from the rider's legs, seat and hands. Through the use of these aids, Claudia can control her horse's movements. A good rider learns to sit upright, relax and keep the horse balanced. By using the aids correctly, the rider earns a horse's trust. A horse can sense an inexperienced rider and often will not respond properly.

Most people just ride for pleasure. As some riders progress with their riding skills, they look for challenges. Equestrian events test a rider's horsemanship and a horse's ability. One advantage of equestrian events is riders can compete at different levels. The older and more experienced riders become, the tougher they are judged on how they control their horses.

Once riders have mastered their horses, they often learn to jump fences and other obstacles. The excitement of top-level show jumping is hard to beat.

Sports such as hunting, cross-country riding, racing, and polo provide horse-lovers with many opportunities. These events provide pleasure and competition, but can be dangerous. You need to be a competent rider. This takes hours of practice and dedication.

Right: Before boarding the trailer to the District 4-H Horse Show, Claudia Hartzler lets her horse, Jessica, grab an early morning snack.

Right: With her horse's tail and mane braided, Claudia Hartzler takes time to brush down Jessica's coat before putting on the saddle.

In the ring, Claudia does her best to show her horsemanship skills she spent practicing at home.

Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Extension Home Economist

Is There Such A Thing As A Healthy Hog Dog?

Summertime is barbecue time, and many health-conscious people are looking to grill leaner meats. What about hot dogs? Are certain types better for us than others?

Do not be fooled into thinking that hot dogs made from chicken or turkey are low-fat foods. Surprisingly, most brands of chicken hot dogs have just as much fat and sometimes even more cholesterol than their beef counterparts.

For example, one beef frank has about 13.2 grams of fat and 22 milligrams of cholesterol, and one chicken frank may have between 8.8 and 13 grams of fat and 45 milligrams of cholesterol. Turkey hot dogs usually have about 8.1 grams of fat and 39 milligrams of cholesterol.

All hot dogs are high in sodium — ranging from 460 to 620 milligrams each. And most hot dogs contain nitrates or nitrites, which are added to many kinds of meat to eliminate the bacteria that cause botulism. These meat additives are the only effective anti-botulism additives known, but some research has suggested they may be linked to cancer in rats. When you barbecue, try not to char or blacken hot dogs because that can increase your exposure to potentially carcinogenic elements in nitrites.

Keep in mind that no hot dogs are considered low-fat or low-sodium, and eat this summertime favorite in moderation. The American Institute of Cancer Research suggests a limit of three to four ounces of salt-cured, smoked and charcoal-broiled foods per week.

Don't Forget To Read The Label

Food is more than just something to eat. It's a key component to overall health and well-being. So the more you know about the food you eat, the easier it is to plan healthy, well-balanced meals and snacks. For most Americans, a reliable source of nutrient information is the nutritional level that appears on many food products.

In 1973, the nutritional labeling concept was created by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) as a quick and easy way for consumers to compare the nutritional value of different food brands and to estimate their daily intake of many important vitamins and minerals.

Currently, the FDA says that nutritional labeling is voluntary except for foods that have nutrients added like enriched breads or fortified milk and those that make nutritional claims, such as breakfast cereals which claim they provide 100 percent of certain nutrients.

Nutritional labels include two important areas of information. The upper portion contains information about serving size. The lower portion contains the percentage of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (RDA) for the eight required nutrients — protein, five vitamins (vitamins A and C, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin) and two minerals (calcium and iron) — plus any optional nutrient listings the manufacturer chooses to include, for example sodium and cholesterol content. If the amount of a nutrient is less than two percent of the U.S. RDA, an asterisk replaces the percentage.

No one food supplies the right balance of all the nutrients we need. That's why nutritional labeling can help you maintain and improve the quality of your diet. Maybe you cannot judge a book by its cover, but you can make good dietary choices by reading food labels.

York County 4-H'er Wins State Photography Award

Joann Rishel

Joann Rishel, of Seven Valleys, who has compiled an outstanding record in 4-H work, was named State Photography Award winner in the 1987 4-H National Awards Program.

She will be eligible to attend National 4-H Congress in Chicago, December 5-10, where she will compete for one of six $1,500 scholarships. Support for the Photography Award is provided by Eastman Kodak Company.

Carroll L. Howes, associate 4-H Youth program director at The Pennsylvania State University, who announced the award selection, said Rishel was judged on the basis of her project work, leadership ability, and participation in county and state activities.

She was picked from among the more than 105,000 youth who annually take part in the Extension Service's educational program.

The daughter of Richard & Rebecca Rishel, she is a junior at Dallastown Area High School. Rishel, who has been a 4-H member for 9 years, served as president, vice president, secretary, news reporter and historian of the Glen Rock 4-H Club. She also assisted with club activities and events as a teen leader, song and game leader. Joann completed projects in photography, foods, crafts, health, strawberries, beef, and capons.

She took part in the county and regional livestock judging, roundups and demonstrations. She also participated in State 4-H Days and the State Farm Show, the Eastern National Stockman's Contest and the National Meats Judging Contest.

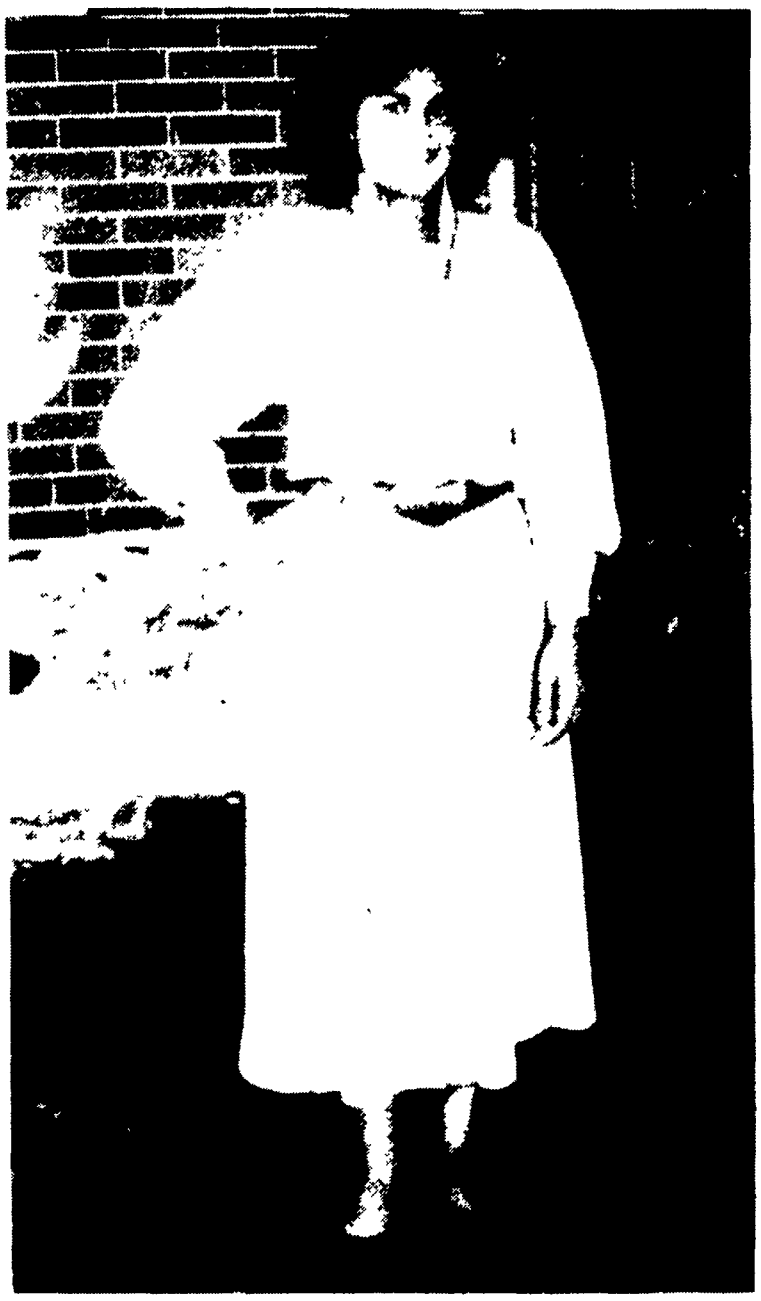
LANCASTER — It has become a Lancaster County tradition to have winners among the top ten finalists at State 4-H Fashion Revue. This year, three 4-H'ers carried on that winning tradition.

Judy Rohrer, 17; Alissa Hoober, 16; and Lucinda Harnish, 18, swept through regional competition to go on to Penn State. A fourth regional winner from Lancaster County, Deb Shenk, was unable to attend the Penn State competition.



Judy Rohrer models her prize-winning shirtwaist dress outside the family farmhouse in southern Lancaster County. Finely sewn details, like a double row of top stitching, help to make this dress appealing to the judges.

Cindy Harnish has finished in the top ten three times during her nine year 4-H career. Alissa also finished in the top ten last year. This year Alissa accomplished a first in the contest - she got a perfect score from each of the three judges.

Lancaster County Home Economist Doris Thomas said the perfect score is particularly significant because under the new system of judging, each of the three judges scored all areas of competition. "I think Alissa deserves some recognition. This is a first."

It was Judy's first time to go both to regional and state fashion revue, and she says, "I was surprised. I never even got alternate before."

Judy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rohrer, Lime Valley Road, Lancaster, found the experience of traveling to Pennsylvania 4-H Week at Penn State an exciting one, adding that she especially enjoyed meeting girls from other parts of the state. "There were lots of meetings and different workshops," she recalled.

The most difficult part for Judy was wearing the required heavy makeup so that she & the other models could be seen more clearly by the audience in the large auditorium. She commented, "The stiffest competition is within Lancaster County."

Judy originally planned to make a suit, "because a suit always wins." However, when looking for patterns and fabric, she found a McCall's dress that she liked plus a "laundered" chambray fabric that resembled the fabric on the pattern.

Because the dress itself is so simple, Judy was especially surprised that it caught the judge's eye. But the judges noticed that the dress features some beautiful top stitching and unique construction details which made it a winning garment. Judy admits that she had difficulty finding a matching color tape to use on the hem, and she changed it after county fashion revue to increase her chance of winning. Unfortunately when she tried to put the new tape on, she found it did not go on correctly and she ended up ripping it out and starting again.

The completely washable fabric turned out to be a boon for Judy, because she did not have to show the extreme concern in transporting her garment or in wearing it during the long hours of judging and practicing for the state fashion revue.

Judy's 4-H career follows the path of older sisters and a brother who proceded her as 4-H members. Her mother, who was a member of the Donegal 4-H Club as a child, also encouraged Judy to enroll. A member of Lampeter Strasburg Guys and Gals, the Solanco Cake Decorating Club and Golden Guernsey Club, Judy says, "I'm glad I joined 4-H." Her older sister Sue went to regional fashion revue, but Judy is the first in her family to go to the state competition.

This was not Judy's first trip to competition on a state level. Previously, she gave a dairy demonstration and participated on the clothing and consumerama judging teams.

She enjoys sewing for pleasure & makes most of her own clothing. She said, "I can easily make clothing and save money too."

All in all, Judy credits 4-H with helping her learn to do things by herself as well as helping her learn to know a lot of new people. She is now gearing up for a busy school year by playing field hockey and basketball for Lampeter-Strasburg High School where she will be a senior. Judy is also active with the Future Business Leaders of America. She will continue her activities with her church youth group, and, of course, has several years left to continue sewing in 4-H.

and Mrs. Mervin Hoober, New Holland, has been a member of the Garden Spot 4-H Sewing Club for seven years. Like Judy, she remembers joining because of two older sisters and a brother who were in 4-H. Also, she says, "My mother is a sewing leader for third year sewing."

This is the striking wool cape which caught the judges' eyes and helped earn Alissa a slot in the top ten finalists at the state level. In addition to the cape, Alissa sewed a plaid skirt and matching, loose-fitting vest and coordinated blouse.

Indeed, there is always a lot of sewing going on in the Hoober household, because Alissa's twin sister Andrea also is a seamstress and a 4-H member. This year Andrea was an alternate to regional fashion revue.

Alissa said she has enjoyed her 4-H sewing, although didn't like it a lot until she got into the more advanced sewing.

She added that she often looks for something "different and unusual" to capture the judge's attention, and this year she chose to work with wool. She got a head start on the eighth year sewing project by working with plaids in her seventh year. Her outfit consisted of a wool plaid skirt and loose-fitting vest, coordinated blouse and an eye-catching wool cape.

Not a newcomer to competition, Alissa has attended three regional fashion revues and was a finalist in the state contest last year. This is her first time in the winner's circle at the state level.

She said, "I really like to see other people's outfits. Some of them were very different, and they often have different accents, like a beret." She says she was "impressed" with the state competition, adding, "I was surprised how much modeling was involved. A lot of it comes down to modeling. Of course, there are skills involved as well, and I learn a lot more each year in 4-H."

Alissa says, "I think my 4-H experience will really help in my future. I want to attend college and major in home economics; that is my main goal." She added, "I will probably study interior decorating."

Noting that she likes to sew for herself, Alissa admits, "I like to put creativity into my work. It makes me feel good when I can say I sewed it myself, and I like to add things to individualize my sewing." As a next step, Alissa is beginning work on an outfit to enter in a sewing contest sponsored jointly by McCall's patterns and Woman's Day magazine.

She purchases her patterns and fabric locally, and her 4-H projects were McCalls' patterns.

Entering her junior year at Garden Spot High School, Alissa will be busy with field hockey, chorus, orchestra and student council. Nevertheless, she adds, "I take the time to sew."

She has also taken crafts and cooking projects through 4-H and enjoys many different kinds of craft activities.

Lucinda Harnish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Harnish, Willow Street, has been a finalist at the state level three of the four times she has competed there.

Although it is not a new experience, it is one which Lucinda enjoys each time. It is a challenge to live up to her previous good showing. Nevertheless, she says she chose to enter again this year,

FmHA Loan Ends One Family's Nightmare

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

How fast can you raise $320,000?

Imagine you had just sent your monthly farm mortgage payment to the bank and a few days later received the uncashed check in the mail with a communique from the lawyer of the noteholder demanding immediate payment of the balance due.

In these days of agricultural financial difficulty, similar nightmarish scenarios are played out in the minds of many farmers. But for Ernie and Jennie Wolfe, owners of E & J Meadows Farm, R.D. Milton, the nightmare actually became a reality.

The Wolfe's have a very good credit rating. "We never missed a payment," says Jennie. The bank's demand for $320,000 seemed unfair, but they could not ignore it.

And so began the couple's frantic search for financing to keep their farms. Their quest which lasted from May until September 1986, was successfully resolved, according to Ernie, mainly with the aid of the Farmers Home Administration through the use of a guaranteed loan.

"Farm Two" has a beautiful house and a large old barn which Ernie has been told is the largest old barn in the county. This was the second farm Ernie had trouble financing.

"If it wouldn't have been for Darlene and Rick, I'd have probably lost the farm," Ernie states. Rick Crouse is the county supervisor of FmHA in Columbia, Montour and Northumberland Counties, and Darlene M. Johnson is his assistant.

To encourage other financially troubled farmers to explore the possibility of a FmHA guaranteed loan and to acquaint them with the actual process, its advantages and disadvantages, the Wolfes met with the FmHA personnel mentioned above, PFA Farm Management Supervisor Gary Klinger, and a representative of this publication to tell their story.

The Wolfes started renting the 106 acre farm where they currently reside from Ernie's parents in 1956. It wasn't until 1967 that they bought the family farm. The same year they purchased the farm they built a new barn to replace the one which had burned the year before. Four years later, in 1971, they established a jug milk store which they had been operating for the past 16 years. They presently milk 62 cows keeping 55 heifers for replacement stock and maintain a DHIA herd average of 18,000 pounds of milk.

(Turn to Page B17)

Ernie calls this the "lower place" which is one of the two additional farms that he purchased and had trouble financing.

The Wolfes began renting E&J Meadows farm from Ernie's parents in 1956. They purchased it in 1967; later, they added a jug milk store.

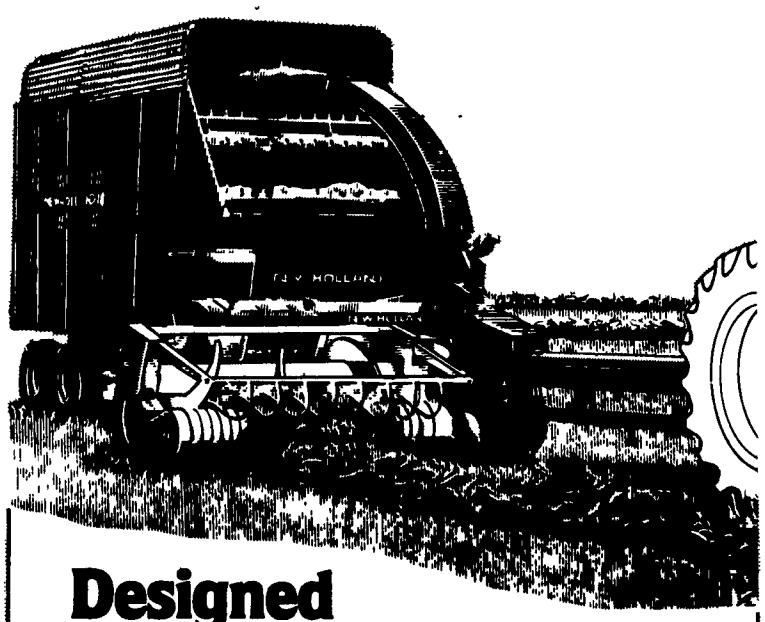
DESIGNED FOR TOTAL PERFORMANCE



Designed for total performance

Step up to better performance with the Model 900 forage harvester. The 12 knives of the 21-inch diameter cutterhead deliver uniformly-cut, high-quality forage. Here are just some of the features available that make the "900" a harvester designed for total performance:

- Metalert® II electronic metal detector—protects cutterhead and your valuable animals.
- Electromagnetic clutches—give instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Easy-adjust shearbar—makes adjustment fast and precise.
- Two-speed blower—is energy efficient.
- Hydraulic swing tongue—makes mounting attachments fast and easy.

The New Model 790 with five-year cutterhead protection

When it's time to chop, you want a harvester that keeps on going. And that's what you get with the new Model 790 forage harvester with optional Metalert® II electronic metal detector. Because the Metalert II system works so well, you get a five-year guarantee against cutterhead "blow-ups" caused by ferrous metals. Metalert II looks for trouble before it happens. You avoid costly repairs . . . downtime . . . and keep nasty bits of chopped metal out of your livestock feed. The new Model 790 is available with either 540-rpm or 1000-rpm drive. And, the massive 12-knife cutterhead has single-edged hardened alloy knives with tungsten surfaces. Stop in and take a look at the new Model 790 today.

Exclusive – 12-knife cutterhead

High-quality feed is important to you. So you'll like the fine, uniform chop you get from the Model 718 forage harvester. It's the only medium-duty chopper available with a 12-knife cutterhead to give you a controlled, even cut. The uniform length-of-cut makes for easier unloading, blowing, storing and feeding. And you can choose from four crop-saving heads—a one- or two-row cornhead, a windrow pickup or a sicklebar.

No wonder the "718" is the best-selling medium-duty forage harvester in the country.

because, "I wanted to prove to myself that I could do it. But at the same time, I wanted to enjoy it too."

In selecting the project, Lucinda says, "I try to be original. I like to be the first to do something. It definitely should be eye-catching and appealing to the judges." Indeed, she acknowledges that there are a lot of well-made garments that never win because they don't have that special appeal. "Sewing skills alone won't do it. They are important, but it is a combination. Fit is a very large part of it."

This year's project for Lucinda was a sea green brocade gown, simple, but elegant. The project evolved from the fabric, which Lucinda selected at G Street in Rockville, Maryland, before choosing the Butterick pattern.

She decided to make the gown to wear to her junior-senior banquet at Lancaster Mennonite High School; consequently, she completed most of the work during the school year. Now she says, "I'm glad I chose a gown because I can also wear it as Pennsylvania Veal Queen." She won the Veal Queen title after the gown was completed, but doing promotional work will give her ample opportunity to wear the garment.

She said she enjoys shopping at G Street, adding, "The variety is great and there is a whole floor of fabric. They really have quality fabric." The brocade appealed to her and then she sought an appropriate pattern. "Sometimes the fabric decides what you make," she commented.

A member of the Penn Willow 4-H Club for 10 years, Lucinda recalls, "I really wanted to join as a little kid. I couldn't sign up the first year I was eight because I wasn't old enough; it was a big disappointment. I cried."

She has more than made up for time lost during that waiting period, and, today, she credits 4-H with much of her success. "My 4-H background definitely helped me get the title of Veal Queen. Being in fashion revue teaches you to be very poised."

Although this is probably her last year in 4-H, Lucinda says she definitely wants to help with fashion revue in the future. "I would like to teach the girls how to talk about their garments with the judges. There are things the judges will never know unless the 4-H'ers tell them. I'd like to go back and see how I was as a junior. It was definitely gotten easier."

The whole fashion revue picture has been fun for Lucinda, who says, "I've gotten to know some people pretty well, including people from out of this region. I have also gained skills which will last a lifetime. They'll help me in college and help me when I get a job. It has given me poise and self-confidence." She maintains, "I used to be a little bit shy; that has definitely changed, and 4-H is a major part of it."

Later this month, Lucinda will be leaving Willow Street to travel to Goshen College in Indiana where she will study home economics with an indefinite career goal. Part of her volunteer work at LMH included teaching handicapped students to sew. She says she may continue to pursue a career working with handicapped people.

For the three Lancaster County girls, the next step is filling out the "white form," a complete detailed look at their total 4-H experience over the years. There will be one state winner in clothing selected to travel to National 4-H Congress in Chicago in November, and each of the three thinks that trip would be a tremendous opportunity.

So for now, they are busy doing paperwork. But soon, they'll be back at the sewing machine, carrying on the Lancaster County tradition of using sewing skills to make an impression on the state level.

FmHA Loan

In 1980, by signing a 25 year note, the Wolfe's purchased two adjoining farms with a combined acreage of 195 acres for $550,000. The Wolfes had been renting the farms for a period of time, and according to Rick Crouse, the farms had "good soil, were level, and possessed some of the better soil in the county."

It was in May 1986, that they received the aforementioned communication in the mail requesting full payment on the balance due of $320,000. According to Ernie, he knew there was a balloon payment in the note he'd signed, but he didn't expect to pay it all at once.

Darlene explains that a note signed with a balloon payment means at the end of a specified time the noteholder has the option of demanding payment in full or rewriting the note. In most case, she says, the parties involved negotiate and the note is rewritten.

Ernie had heard a rumor in March that he might be expected to pay the remaining balance in May and had started his search for financing at that time. By June, two and a half months later, Ernie had gone to six banks in his neighborhood, filling out one financial statement after another and what seemed like mountains of paperwork, to no avail. He found the banks were not interested in ag loans.

"Every time I met with the bankers, it always seemed like they needed another paper filled out," Ernie recalls with frustration. "Farm credit wanted nothing to do with it."

As a last resort, in early June, Ernie contacted Rick and Darlene at FmHA where Rick immediately advised him he would be eligible for a guaranteed loan, but it was still Ernie's responsibility to find a bank. Even with the knowledge that he was eligible for a guaranteed loan, which meant that the government backs the commercial bank's loan to the farmer to the extent of 90 percent, Ernie still had trouble getting the banks to listen.

"Some banks are not big enough to handle that size of a loan," Rick, notes, adding further that, "A lot of banks don't understand what a guaranteed loan is."

Two banks later, on June 26, Ernie and Jennie, Darlene and Rick, and officals of the Northern Central Bank, Lewisburg, met at Ernie's farm where Darlene and Rick explained the guaranteed loan in detail while they looked over the Wolfes' farm and examined financial records.

"Still reluctant," was Rick's impression of the bank officials as they left that day and Darlene concurs with, "I thought they would turn Ernie down."

But on July 29, a little more than a month later, Rick and Darlene accompanied Ernie and Jennie to the Northern Central Bank in Lewisburg where "Operation Assist" was performed. Rick and Darlene actually sat down with bank officials and helped them fill out paperwork for the loan which with their help took a couple hours to complete.

According to Rick, many banks don't like the extra paperwork involved in a guaranteed loan, but if FmHA officials help out, it speeds the process and the banks are more willing to process future guaranteed loans.

"Once a bank does one, they will do a few more," Rick observes, although Ernie referred to it as "getting our foot in the door."

Ernie was the first guaranteed real estate loan to go through their office, Rick said. They are third in the state for making guaranteed loans and second for making regular FAA loans.

In addition to keeping their farms, one advantage for the Wolfes, according to Darlene, was that the refinancing improved the Wolfes' cash flow due to better rates and because FmHA also refinanced a small operating loan for them.

Guaranteed loans are advantageous to banks, Gary Klinger, PFA Farm Management Service, pointed out, because, "that is one way for commercial banks to expand business with much less risk than might normally take place."

One drawback of the guaranteed loan for the Wolfes, Darlene noted, was the need to change their recordkeeping system. "The banks are requiring more extensive recordkeeping," she explained.

The Wolfes conformed to PFA's recordkeeping system which Gary is currently teaching to Jennie. Rick speaks highly of PFA's system. "We have an extremely good working relationship with the PFA account supervisors in our area and they do more than expected to help their clients," he observes.

A futher loan requirement is that FmHA and bank officials will annually visit the Wolfe farm to review records and analyze progress.

And on September 2, 1986 when the final papers were signed for the guaranteed loan — after five and a half months of nervous waiting — how did the Wolfes celebrate their victory?

"I went back to work," responds Ernie who also sells farm machinery.

Jennie's response, however, was akin to the ending of a nightmare, "I had a good night's sleep," she said, "without sleeping pills."

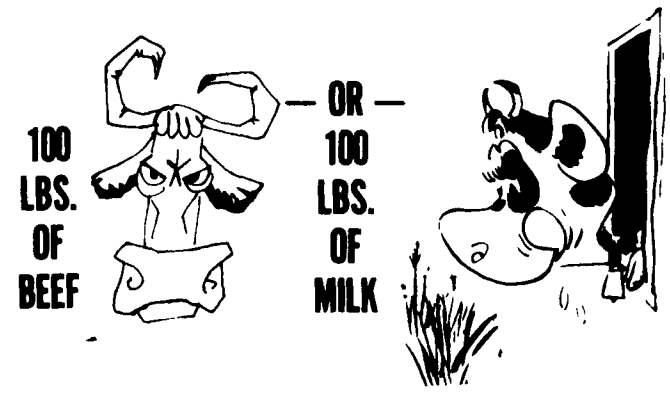
HIGH PROTEIN SILAGE ADDITIVE

IF We Could Lower Your Cost To Produce...



COULD You Use The Extra Profit?

The primary benefit for treating corn silage with ammonia is reducing feed costs.

But, you also know that reducing feed costs do not always increase profits.

With a little understanding of ammonia-treated silage some university studies have shown not only lower feed costs but also higher production at the same time by using ammoniated silage in the feeding program.

See Martin's Ag. Service for Martin's Hi-Protein liquid ammonia silage additive as well as computer balanced feeding programs and sound feeding advice.

THE MICRO WAY

LANI BLOOMER

A Medley Of Summer Vegetable Recipes

If your garden is innundating you with fresh produce, try these recipes for a change!

Yellow and green squash combine for an attractive way to serve zucchini (again!). With the squash cut in julienne strips, it hardly needs any cooking time!

Summer Squash

2 small zucchini, ½ pound
2 small yellow squash, ½ pound
1 clove garlic, minced
pinch pepper
2 tablespoons margarine or butter

1. Scrub squash but do not peel. Cut in julienne strips (little skinny sticks: 2"x¼ "x¼ "). Combine all ingredients in a 1½ quart casserole and cover. Microwave until squash is hot: HIGH FOR 2-3 MINUTES.

2. Stir, recover, then microwave until squash is tender: HIGH FOR 2 MINUTES. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

TIPS: If you slice or chop the squash, the cooking time will be longer.

— Replace garlic with a pinch of basil, dill, or tarragon for a change in flavor.

If you're tired of cold potato salad, try this hot vegetable combination. It's a colorful dish to fix when you can't figure out what to have for dinner!

Vegetable Medley

4 small red skinned potatoes (1 pound)
2 carrots, thinly sliced
2 stalks celery, thinly sliced
3 green onions, sliced
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
½ cup water
2 tablespoons margarine
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

1. Scrub potatoes and slice thinly (don't peel) into a 2 quart casserole. Add remaining vegetables and the water. Cover and microwave until steaming hot: HIGH FOR 5 MINUTES. Stir gently, recover, then microwave until the potatoes are almost tender: HIGH FOR 7-9 MINUTES.

2. Drain. Add margarine, salt and pepper, stirring gently. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Serves 4.

Tomato aspic is a deliciously cool side dish for a hot summer day. Make it in the morning, or the day before so it has time to chill. A food processor makes quick work of mincing the vegetables.

Tomato Aspic

1 envelope gelatin, unflavored
2 cups tomato juice, divided
1 tomato, peeled and chopped
½ cup minced celery,
½ cup minced onion
½ cup minced green pepper
Vegetable cooking spray or oil

1. Sprinkle gelatin over ½ cup tomato juice in a small bowl. Let stand 5 minutes to soften.

2. Bring remaining 1½ cups tomato juice to a boil in a 4 cup measure: MICROWAVE ON HIGH FOR 4-5 MINUTES. Stir in softened gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. (Two hours in refrigerator or one hour in freezer. If chilling in freezer, stir every 15 minutes.)

3. Coat 6 small molds or a loaf pan with oil. Fold vegetables into aspic and spoon into molds. Chill until firm. Serve on lettuce. Makes 6 small or 4 large servings.

TIPS: Substitute other vegetables, if desired, but keep quantity the same.

This cooked marinade for vegetables is low in fat and calories. Pour it over hot cooked vegetables, and then chill overnight, for an easy cold salad.

Vegetable Marinade

¾ cup water
¼ cup vinegar or lemon juice
1 teaspoon chicken boullion granules or 1 cube
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon parsley flakes (1 tablespoon fresh) pinch pepper
pinch herbs (dill, oregano, etc.), optional

1. Combine ingredients in a 2 cup measure. Bring to a boil: HIGH FOR 2-3 MINUTES. Stir, pour over cooked hot vegetables, and chill several hours before serving. Makes 1 cup.

NOTE: Microwave times are approximate since oven speeds vary so greatly.

Annual Thurmont & Emmitsburg Community Show

This year marks the 31st anniversary of the Thurmont and Emmitsburg Community Show, scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 11, 12 and 13, 1987 at Catoctin High School.

Over 2500 farm and garden, household, quilt, livestock and machinery displays can be seen during the 3 day event.

Each year the Community Show honors an organization for its contributions to community life. This year the show will be honoring the Guardian Hose Company of Thurmont on its 100th anniversary.

The show opens Friday, September 11, 6 p.m. to the public. At 7:45 p.m. the Catoctin High School Band will render several selections in the auditorium followed by the massing of flags by community civic organizations. Special recognition will be given to the Guardian Hose Company at this time. Highlight of the program will be the announcement of the 1987-88 Catoctin FFA Chapter Sweetheart by a representative of the Hose Company.

Following the program at 9 p.m., an auction of all baked goods exhibited at the show will be held in the auditorium.

Saturday's activities include a pet show beginning at 10 a.m. and a Beef, Sheep and Swine Fitting and Showing also at 10 a.m.

At 3 p.m. the Thurmont Grange will serve a turkey and ham supper in the school cafeteria.

Throughout the day the Guardian Hose Company will present several demonstrations and music will be provided by the Catoctin Mountain Boys. The Catoctin Area FFA Alumni Beef, Sheep and Swine Sale will be held in the Ag Center Area, 7 p.m.

Sunday, September 13, the show opens at 12 noon with a Chicken Bar-B-Que served by the Catoctin FFA Alumni.

"Dash For Mash" pig and duck races will be held at 1, 2, 3 and 4 p.m.

A mule pulling contest begins at 1:30 p.m. along with music by the Catocin Mountain Boys. Fire company demonstrations continue throughout the day.

The Community Show is sponsored by the Thurmont and Emmitsburg Granges, Catoctin FFA Chapter, Catoctin Area FFA Alumni and the Maryland Agriucultural Fair Board.

Barbara Brenneman Wins State Award

Barbara Brenneman, of Seven Valleys, who has compiled an outstanding record in 4-H work, was named State Food Preservation Award winner in the 1987 4-H National Awards Program.

She will be eligible to attend National 4-H Congress in Chicago, December 5-10, where she will compete for one of six $1,000 scholarships. Support for the Food Preservation Award is provided by Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corporation.

Carroll L. Howes, associate 4-H Youth program director at The Pennsylvania State University, who announced the award selection, said Brenneman was judged on the basis of her project work, leadership ability, and participation in county and state activities.

She was picked from among the more than 105,000 youth who annually take part in the Extension Service's educational program.

The daughter of Robert & Maryann Brenneman, she is a junior at Spring Grove Senior High

Barbara Brennaman

School. Brenneman, who has been a 4-H member for 8 years, served as secretary, treasurer and news reporter of Stoverstown 4-H Club, and vice president and treasurer of County 4-H Council. Barb is also a member of the Sr. 4-H Exchange Club and traveled to Kansas and Oregon. She has completed projects in foods, food preservation, gardening, clothing, ceramics and shooting sports.

She took part in the county fashion revue, and county and regional demonstrations. She also attended State 4-H Achievement Days and the State Farm Show.

"Tailoring For Today" Sewing Seminar

Put excitement back into sewing! By attending the SEWING SEMINAR and SEWING FAIR on Tuesday, September 15th in South Williamsport sponsored by the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service, says Eleanor Yarrison, Extension Home Economist in Lycoming County.

The morning program on "Tailoring For Today" will be presented by Clotilde, a sewing expert and lecturer is also host of the TV program "Sew Smart With Clotilde". She will be sharing speed tailoring techniques for both lined and unlined jackets, how to make easy pattern changes for the designer look, and how to check and change the sleeve cap ease for a smoothly set-in sleeve. In addition, Clotilde will discuss interfacings as to which ones to use and how to apply them along with many other tailoring techniques.

The SEWING FAIR will be the major activity for the afternoon program. Many local businesses will have booths at the sewing fair which will give participants the opportunity to review and purchase the latest in notions, fabrics, sewing machines and sergers.

For further information and to make reservations by August 27th, contact The Lycoming County Extension Service, 327-2350.

Iacocca Headlines National FFA Convention

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Iacocca, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Chrysler Corporation, will head an impressive list of speakers when 22,000 FFA members, advisors, supporters and guests, representing fifty states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, travel to Kansas City for their 60th National FFA Convention November 12-14.

FFA was founded in Kansas City in 1928 at the old Baltimore Hotel, which was located just a few blocks from the Municipal Auditorium where the convention currently resides. Since then, the gathering has grown from fewer than 50 attendants to the world's largest annual youth conclave.

During the convention, high school agriculture students, who are planning careers in agriculture, will challenge themselves and honor FFA's highest achievers and strongest supporters.

The 60th anniversary convention will feature Lee Iacocca of Chrysler Corporation; William Bennett, Secretary of Education; and former football star Roger Staubach. Along with these speakers, members will have the opportunity to hear FFA's finest during the public speaking contests and when the national officers give their retiring addresses.

Other highlights will include the naming of top FFA members in 29 agricultural proficiency award areas, and in ten national career skill competitions, as well as the Agriscience Teacher of the Year award. At the Friday afternoon session, the American Farmer degree--the highest degree awarded to FFA members--will be presented to 728 recipients representing the top two-tenths of one percent of FFA membership. Top chapter programs in safety, community development and overall activities will also be recognized.

Thursday evening at the convention, the Star Farmer and Star Agribusinessman Over America--the two FFA members with the most outstanding production and agribusiness programs--will be honored.

"The convention is an excellent opportunity to motivate members and train them for their futures in the ever-changing agricultural industry," said Kevin Eblen, national FFA president from Creston, Iowa. "It is also an occasion for recognizing individual members, chapters, advisors and alumni for outstanding achievements."

Six student national FFA officers, elected at the 1986 convention, will conduct the sessions and activities of the week. They are Kevin Eblen, Creston, Iowa; Kevin Yost, DeWitt, Nebraska; Jones Loflin, Denton, North Carolina; Dean Harder, Mountain Lake, Minnesota; Jayme Feary, Falkville, Alabama; and Daren Coppock, Adams, Oregon.

The convention will use the national FFA theme, "FFA-Agriculture's New Spirit," which emphasizes FFA's contribution to agriculture.

"There's no doubt agriculture is facing some major challenges today," said Larry Case, national FFA advisor. "But if you're looking for the future of this industry, it's right here at the National FFA Convention. These young people represent the new generation of leadership that will carry American agriculture into the 21st century."

The National FFA Alumni Convention and the National Agricultural Career Show are scheduled in conjunction with the convention and are held in H. Roe Bartle Hall, located next door to Municipal Auditorium and the National FFA Convention.

Fall '87 Chester Extension Speechcraft

The Chester County 4-H program invites any person 19 years and older to register for the Fall 1987 Speechcraft Program, sponsored by Toastmasters International. This program is designed to help individuals increase their communication skill, feel more relaxed addressing audiences, and increase their general confidence. Individuals are given the opportunity to experience group work, planned and impromtu speeches, practise Parliamentary Procedure and meet new people. All of the learnings acquired through this nine week program, can be applied to personal and professional situations where communication skill is a must!

The Fall '87 Speechcraft Program will be held at the Chester County Extension Service, Paul Dague Building, 235 West Market Street, West Chester Pa on the following dates: 9/10, 9/17, 9/24, 10/1, 10/8, 10/15, 10/22, 10/29, and 11/5. There is a minimal cost of $4.00 for program materials, payable on the evening of 9/10. Interested individuals should contact Laurie Sandow, 4-H Coordinator at 696-3500 to register. All registrations must be made by August 26th, 1987. There is a maximum registration of 25 persons.

4-H'er Wins State Health Award

Cathy Shive, of Seven Valleys, who has compiled an outstanding record in 4-H work, was named State Health Award winner in the 1987 4-H National Awards Program.

She will be eligible to attend National 4-H Congress in Chicago, December 5-10, where she will compete for one of eight $1,000 scholarships. Support for the Health Award is provided by Kraft, Inc.

Carroll L. Howes, associate 4-H Youth program director at The Pennsylvania State University, who announced the award selection, said Shive was judged on the basis of her project work, leadership ability, and participation in county and state activities.

She was picked from among the more than 105,000 youth who annually take part in the Extension Service's educational program.

Cathy Shive

The daughter of Gordon and Dianna Shive, she is a sophomore as Susquehannock High School. Shive, who has been a 4-H member for 8 years, served as secretary, treasurer and news reporter of the Jefferson 4-H Club, and treasurer of County 4-H Council. She also assisted with club activities and events as a song and game leader and completed projects in health, beef, capons, swine, breeding, foods, rabbits, pet care, photography, crafts, public speaking, livestock and meats judging.

She took part in the county and regional judging and demonstrations, the State Farm Show, State 4-H Achievement Days, and the National Delaware Valley Judging Contest.

Pepper & Tomato Problems

With the hot temperatures that we recently experienced you can anticipate some problems with tomatoes and peppers. According to Jeff Jabco, Delaware County Cooperative Extension Agricultural Agent few or no fruits on the crown cluster, rough fruits, or fruits with open walls are some of the things you can expect to see.

Cold nights - below 58 degrees - or hot days - above 85 degrees - will usually prevent normal pollination and fruit set. Blossom drop usually results, however, if enough pollination occurs to stimulate fruit set, but less than enough to fertilize all the seeds. Rough and misshapened fruit will result. Actually, if the blossom drops off it will only cause a delay in maturity. Eventually the plant will set a full crop and should be productive through the remainder of the growing season.

Cold weather also causes open walls in young tomato fruits. These fruits have a split along the side wall with the seed cavity plainly visible. It is always best to remove these abnormal fruits as they will never amount to much and will only compete with the fully normal fruits for nutrients.

Drought is not the only reason tomato plants wilt. Another cause could be a damaged root system; the result of too vigorous cultivation close to the plant. Pruned roots prevent the plant from getting enough moisture to replace the moisture lost through the leaves. Lately there have been complaints of plant damage by cutworms. These worms have attacked plants as high as two feet. Cutworms may completely cut the stem of the plant or chew enough to cut the water-carrying tissue. Curling of lower leaves that are firm and green is common in hot, dry weather. If leaves turn yellow and wilt, then you can suspect one of the two wilt diseases that infect tomatoes. No spray or dust will cure these diseases, so all you can do is plant varieties that are resistant next year.

BY NEWTON BAIR

Saturday night has always been a kind of special night, especially for common working people. It marks the very end of the week, and if it has been a particularly hard one, here's our chance to unload the burden and get ready for a fresh start.

In bygone days, Saturday night was celebrated with the ritual of the weekly bath. A whole week's accumulation of whatever, was abolished at one good scrubbing. Of course, in summer we might have had several opportunities to skinny-dip in the crick after a hot day in the sun. A cake of Ivory soap could be shared by everybody the whole length of the swimming hole without sinking. But in winter, the weekly bath sufficed, and did little harm to our health. A change of underwear and clean socks in the middle of the week, and the company was at least bearable.

Summertime was the time for Sunday School Picnics and "Festivals." Every Denomination and organization held a summer "Festival" on a Saturday evening. The Lutherans and Grangers held theirs at the Community Grounds, where there were buildings and conveniences. The Methodists and Church of God used the playgrounds along the Yellow Breeches at Lisburn. One fire company used the Ball Park, another held their annual shindig in Trimmers meadow (If the cows hadn't messed up the parking area too much). Others were staged in a favorite patch of shady woods, which had to be cleared of brush and poison ivy prior to the event.

They all featured Chicken Corn Soup, boiled in large open kettles over a wood fire, brim full of the summers fattest hens and fresh sweet corn from the family corn-patch. Watermelon slices of the face washing kind, ice cream cones for a nickel, and a whole bag full of Tootsie Rolls and licorice sticks for a dime. Little kids marched, and old ladies fanned their free funeral parlor fans to the beat of the local High School Band, oomped-pa'ing Sousa and Berlin. The men congregated in the shade, sucking on Sarsaparilla and swapping tall tales. Who knows what the unattached young couples were doing;-- there were lots of trees for privacy? It all blended together for an event that could wipe out all the aches and pains of the past week.

Winter time Saturday nights were not all that dull either. After all the kids were properly scrubbed and brushed, it seemed only fitting that the whole family could ride along into town for the week's groceries. That wasn't too exciting in itself, but it often led to more adventurous events, like a Tom Mix movie at the Majestic Theatre. Before the Great Bust of 1929, we got pretty chummy with Buser Keaton, Charlie Chaplin, Laurel & Hardy, and the Keystone Kops. Nobody could ever top the performance of Tom Mix. Then there was a period of several years in the early 1930's that we had to be content with reading the Katzenjammer Kids, and Maggie and Jigs. Movies were a luxury we couldn't afford.

Saturday was also Market day. The week's production of butter was packed in the ice chest, the celery dug from the trench and washed, turnips and potatoes sorted and packed in wooden crates, and the lilacs and peonies bunched and tied. This was Mama's day, even if it did begin at 4:30 AM and lasted 'til long after sundown. She ruled over the preparation of the market produce as well as the stall in the Broad Street Market. We couldn't have survived without her master hand in the art of merchandising everything that could be produced, picked, and packed on the farm.

Saturday night is still a special night. It means no studying for the scholars, and a night out for parents if they can find a "sitter." For the young and free, it's the favorite time for dating.

For most of us however, it precludes the Day of Rest, when everything we worked for last week' takes on new meaning at Sunday School, or singing in the Church Choir, or just meditating on the Sunday Sermon.

Farmers Educate City Adults, Children

SOUTHAMPTON, PA. — The Young Cooperators are again educating city children and adults alike this summer at the Philadelphia Zoo.

These young farmers, members of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, are hosts of a special demonstration every Sunday at noon in the Children's Zoo. They show visitors how to milk the zoo's cow, while explaining the milking process.

They also answer questions about dairying and life on the farm and distribute farm literature. In sharing information with their audience, they explain, for example, how a cow converts feed, water and time to produce wholesome, nutritious milk.

Since 1977, the Young Cooperators have served as hosts of this popular program at the zoo, which is sponsored by Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and Dairy Council Inc. of Southampton.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents 4,100 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Guinea Pigs Make "Cow Models"

Guinea pigs make nice cow 'models' and are providing clues that will help dairy farmers maintain good milk production in their herds, University of Missouri-Columbia dairy scientists reported this week.

"Because the guinea pig is so small and has such a short lactation, we can monitor its milk composition in three weeks instead of the 10 months it would take us to study the same cycle in a cow," said Ralph Anderson.

In a paper presented to the American Dairy Science Association, Anderson and Ibrahim Wahab told how they used guinea pigs to study "markers" during the animal's milking peoriod.

"We've seen a change in the concentration of these markers as the animal's milk production declines," Anderson said.

"By studying the factors involved in that decline, we are learning things that can be applied directly to dairy cows. By understanding that biochemical process, we could alter feed rations, engineer genes or give cows drugs that would help maintain a good level of milk production throughout gestation."

Preparing Spring Bulbs

Although it's hard to imagine, now is the time to prepare spring bulbs for next year, advises Susan Goldsworthy, Delaware County Cooperative Extension horticulturalist.

After tulip leaves turn yellow, cut and dispose of stems and foliage that may carry disease to new growth if left on the ground. Daffodil foliage is the strength that goes back to the bulb when it matures and dies down, storing next year's flowers. If you plan to divide bulbs, wait until they have matured. When leaves turn yellow, uncover some to see if they are ready; if bulb coats are tan to brown, they are ready to dig. If they are white, bulbs are immature.

Lift bulbs with a spading fork, wash off soil and remove old dry scales. Discard those of poor quality and spread the rest in a shaded place to dry, protected from chipmunks and squirrels. When the outer scales are dry, store bulbs away from sunlight, in a cool, dry area in temperatures between 60 and 65°F. Keep air circulation around bulbs and don't store in more than two layers or you may have problems with heat build-up and decay.

REMEMBER WHY YOU BECAME A NURSE?

Was it.....
- Because you care?
- Because helping others feel cared for provides the most satisfying experience you will ever experience?
- Because you like to feel needed?
- Because you like the sense of accomplishment felt when the results of your individual efforts can be seen in the eyes of your patients?
- Because you want to make a difference & enhance the dignity & quality of life of the patient?

If these are still your reasons and Geriatric Nursing appeals to you, maybe it's time to see what we can offer. We currently have a part time opportunity for an RN as assistant director of nurses on the 7 to 3 shift.

Please call 717-246-1671 between 8:30 a.m. & 5:00 p.m. Monday thru Friday. Ask for Ruthann Shirey RN/DON to arrange an appointment or send a complete resume w/salary listing to:

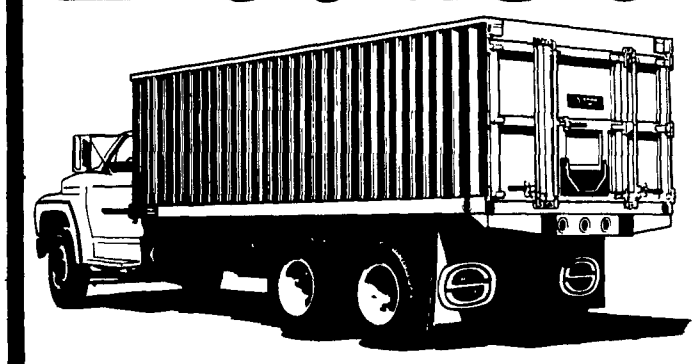
"CLEAN FLOW"
Aluminum Bodies



by OMAHA STANDARD

Backed by more than 60 years' experience in truck body manufacturing, this is the aluminum body that sets the standard for the industry. With 92¾ inches of unobstructed inside width, this rugged, lightweight body lets you haul more grain or bagged or palletized commodities and save fuel doing it.

With 60" or 72" high, vertically corrugated, splice-free sidewalls, three-piece full opening rear doors, swing-out header, trailer-type aluminum flooring and "I" beam cross members, this body's built for rugged field work and continuous road hauling.

"Clean Flow" design of the extra deep 30° sidewall corrugations allows complete emptying with no sharp corners for grain to hang up.

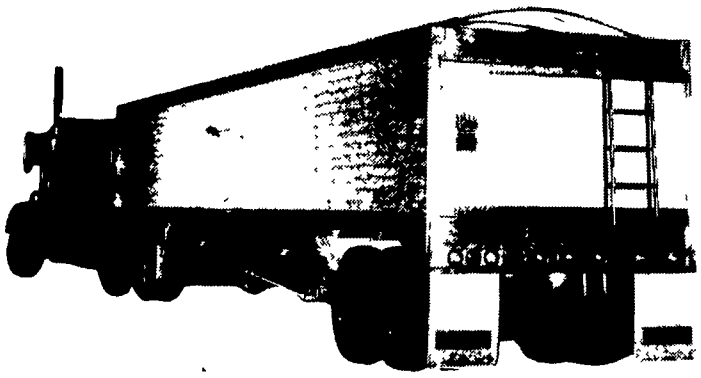
SUPER HOPPER

NEW
REDESIGNED 1988 TIMPTE GRAIN HOPPER



Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough... the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wind drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

The one moving part in Axial-Flow's entire threshing/separating process is the single large-diameter rotor. Nothing more. No cylinder, beaters or straw walkers. There's far less that can break or need maintenance. That's Axial-Flow combine simplicity.

Axial-Flow helps bring top price at the elevator. It handles grain more gently. Less crackage and dockage. You'll combine higher moisture grain at faster ground speeds for a quicker harvest. That's Axial-Flow performance.

Axial-Flow Combines for every crop. Designed to harvest over 100 different crops including corn, soybeans, wheat, sorghum and others. All popular grain header sizes plus 4 to 8-row corn heads.

Liability for injuries on your property

BY JOHN C. BECKER
Associate Professor of Agricultural Law

From time to time questions arise about a landowner's liability for injuries suffered by people who are on their property. In this article I will discuss some of the general rules that courts have applied in resolving these kinds of issues. The discussion will be very general in nature and more specific fact situations may influence the final decisions of liability.

As a starting point consider that each owner has a general obligation to use his or her property in such a way that does not injure another person or another's property. Each person has a right to be safe and secure in their person and property.

A person can become liable to another person as a result of an intentional act which causes harm or damage, or as a result of a negligent act which causes harm or damage. By negligence is generally meant a person's failure to do something which a reasonable person would do in the same situation or the failure to act in a way which a reasonable man would have acted in the same situation. Negligence can arise from doing an act or failing to do an act and these elements are important.

Although a person may have been negligent, not every negligent act will result in liability on the part of the person who is charged with negligence. In order for liability to attach to a particular incident, four factors have to exist.

The first factor is the party who is charged with being negligent must have owed a duty to the person who was injured. This duty can arise from a statue such as the Vehicle Code which outlines very specific duties for those who travel the highways. The rules of the road, for example, describe such duties. Law in general can also create this duty and the general rule which was mentioned earlier could be such a situation.

The second element is that the specific duty was breached by the party who is charged with the negligence. In other words, the party who is charged must have failed to live up to or follow the duty which the statute described.

The third element is that of causation. This means that the breach of duty is the legal cause of the injury complained of by the party seeking a recovery. In many lawsuits, the issue of causation is the crucial bone of contention between the parties involved in the suit and an issue which is always hotly contested.

The final element is that of damages to the injured party or the party's property. In some way the party was injured physically, emotionally, or their property was damaged or destroyed by the negligent act. In this situation, the issue of damages is crucial because that is the yardstick by which the injured party's recovery is to be measured. Various legal rules exist to determine what types or kinds of losses can be compensated in specific legal actions and these are dependent upon the facts of a particular case.

If an injured party can satisfy a judge or jury that these elements exist in a given situation, then the defendant, the party charged with liability, may have such liability judicially imposed. A party held liable, in defense of such a claim against him or her, may raise the issue of the injured party's own conduct and the relationship which such conduct had to the cause of the accident.

If the party held liable can show that injured party actually contributed to the occurrence of the accident, then the injured party's actions may be evaluated in the degree to which they contributed to the accident. As a result, the injured party's damages will be reduced by that portion which represents the injured parties own contribution to the occurrence of the accident. If an injured party contributes to the occurrence of an accident, he or she should bear the consequence of their own acts.

Courts also recognize that a person who performs an act, even though he or she knows and understands the dangers associated with it, may lose his or her opportunity to recover for injuries suffered while performing the act. If the injured party knew and understood the danger involved and proceeded anyway, he or she may have assumed the risk of injury by doing the act.

In regard to a landowner's liability for injuries caused to a person who crosses or enters upon the landowner's property, a number of additional elements are considered. For example, the status of the injured party on the land when the injury occurred becomes important. For example a person who enters onto another's land without permission or authority is owed less of a duty than a person who was asked or invited onto the premises.

The three types of individuals include trespasses (those without permission or authority) licensees (those who have permission) and invites (those who are asked to come onto a person's land).

Two points must be mentioned here. First, the permission or invitation need not be specifically given to the injured person. It can be implied from the facts of the situation. For example, if a person knows that someone is crossing their land and does nothing to stop this crossing then it may be implied that the person crossing has permission to continue it. Second, a person's status can change based on the facts of a situation. For example, a person may be invited to enter a person's store, but certain parts of the building may not be within the scope of this invitation and in those areas, a person may be a trespasser.

In regard to the duties owed, a landowner generally owes a duty to a trespasser to avoid willful or wanton conduct which would injure the trespasser. Willful conduct intends the result of the action taken. Wanton conduct, on the other hand, is such that a person performs an act without regard to any risk of harm or injury which the action may pose to other people. In regard to a license, a landowner owes a duty to warn of any dangerous conditions which exist on the property. In regard to invitees, landowner's duty is greatest, namely to make reasonable inspection of the premises for hidden dangers and to warn of dangers that cannot be made safe for the general public.

The situation involving trespassing children and artificial or unnatural conditions on the land is somewhat of an exception to these general rules. For example, to establish a landowner's liability or injury to a trespassing child, five factors must be proven.

These are: first, the landowner know or should have known that children would trespass in the area where the artificial condition was located. Second, the landowner knows the condition creates an unreasonable risk of death or serious bodily harm to young children. Third, the children are too young to realize the risk of injury they face by going to the area where the condition is located. Fourth, the value to the landowner of maintaining the condition is slight when compared to the risk of harm to children which is great. Fifth, the landowner fails to exercise reasonable care to eliminate the danger or otherwise protect the children.

As you can see these five factors are somewhat general and are very dependent upon the facts of any given situation.

Another factor to consider is the Recreation Use of Land and Water Act of Pennsylvania which is designed to encourage landowners to make land and water areas available to the public for recreational purposes, without charge. If the landowner makes such area available, without charge, then the Act limits the landowner's liability to those situations of a negligent or willful failure to warn of a dangerous condition, use, structure, or activity on the land or other situations of willful injury. While the landowner gains some protection, the landowner must also give up any economic benefits for use of the land is to be without charge for this Act to apply.

A final point may be worth emphasizing. There is little, if anything, a person can do to effectively prevent another person from suing him or her for some type of injury. Knowledge and awareness of these factors, however, can aid a person in reviewing and planning his or her activities to lessen the chance of injuring someone and becoming involved in a litigated dispute. This review and plan should be both thorough and ongoing in order to achieve the greatest benefit for the landowner.

Dairy Co-op Asks Lyng To Bring Chocolate Under Milk Quota

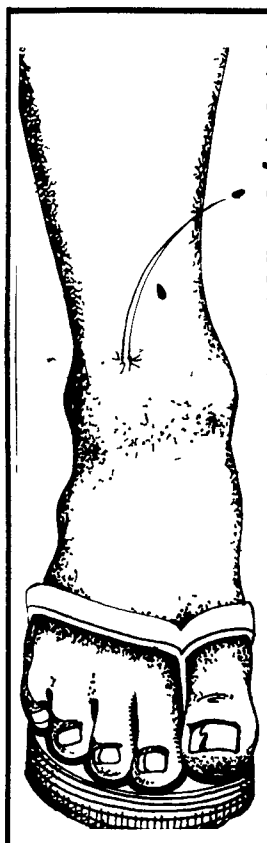
SYRACUSE, N.Y. — United Dairy Cooperative Services, Inc. recently sent a letter to Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng requesting that the Secretary take appropriate steps to bring imported chocolate blocks from Canada, containing about 32 percent dry whole milk, under Section 22 import quota as soon as possible.

In making the request for an industry meeting and an immediate Tariff Commission Section 22 hearing, David Arms, economist for United's member cooperatives, said "...The dry milk powder ingredient is obtained at world market prices from subsidized sources... is reblended with sugar and chocolate liquor and exported to the U.S. as a different product... in deliberate circumvention of existing import quota on dry whole milk."

Mr. Arms further stated, "...We simply cannot tolerate unlimited imports of dry whole milk in this fashion even as our members are being taxed for the costs of reducing the U.S. dairy surplus under the 1985 Farm Security Act. ...Our dairyman should not have to compete against the government treasuries of Europe or elsewhere on product improperly admitted in circumvention of quota. ...This situation is especially sensitive for our dairymen who are keenly aware of possible further cuts in the dairy price support rates coming later this year..."

United's letter also pointed out that, "To date, your Department and U.S. Trade Officials have incorrectly treated these imports as a "sugar" problem rather than as a "dairy" import problem. Yet the most important "value-added" ingredient is the dry whole milk rather than the sugar. In 1986 these imports represented 20 million pounds of dry whole milk -- equal to 17% of domestically produced whole milk powder in the United States. This displaced anout 170 million pounds of domestic milk otherwise destined for commercial use. This displacement only results in increased government expense in net removals under the CCC dairy price support program."

In taking this action United was in support of an earlier request submitted by the American Dairy Products Institute. ADPI is a national association of dry milk and whey powder product manufacturers.



Ehrlich gets the jump on fleas.

Fleas feed only on blood Prior to biting humans they may have fed on skunks rats or deer Fleas don t care

Adult fleas can go two years without a meal but prefer to eat often They usually bite humans on the legs but will jump onto beds and chairs if given a chance This can be more than just irritating Fleas are among the most notorious disease carriers in the world

Allowed to roam your home one female flea will lay about 450 eggs Get the jump on fleas before they jump on you Call Ehrlich for a free inspection no obligation

Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc. Is Introducing The EAGLE Line Of FLEX WING MOWERS By Mohawk

These are heavy-duty, multi-purpose rotary mowers with cutting widths of 10', 13'6", 15' and 20'. Innovative features include:

PRINCIPLE:
- Knuckle system automatically retracts wing support wheels to achieve a maximum 8' width for road transport
- Massive 4½" axle has spring suspension system for maximum reliability
- All wheel supports are individually adjustable to accurately level machine for smoother cut
- One cylinder controls all three section heights
- Self-leveling rods between tongue and axle keep machine level while raising or lowering cutting height
- Ready access to working components allows easy cleaning and servicing

STANDARD:
- Slip clutches are on all three gearboxes to insure maximum protection
- Smooth top deck has most framework bracing on underside — no water traps
- Multi-use including. roadways, waterways, pastures, row crops
- High visibility paint
- Spring shock absorbers on all four rear wheels and axles assure long life of machine
- Transport bar also acts as depth control for accurate adjustment for various cutting height.

IF YOU WANT MORE FROM YOUR CROP...CASE INTERNATIONAL IS THE ANSWER

Axial-Flow has always been a clean, simple, efficient system. Now, with the 1600's increased threshing and separating area, it does an even more complete job.

The Axial-Flow system threshes grain several times (not just once) as it moves rearward, spiraling gently around and around the single rotor. Instead of a troublesome system of straw walkers, Axial-Flow uses simple separating grates and the power of centrifugal force.

Threshing and separating are accomplished in one highly efficient operation within the rotor and cage. You'll save a lot of grain that conventional combines miss. And it'll be cleaner grain because Axial-Flow takes the time to be gentle and thorough.

CASE... THE "CAN DO" MACHINE

"I can do the work of 10 men with anyone of my five 1845 Case Uniloaders," says one happy customer. "You really can't believe it 'til you put one to work!"

The line of Case skid steers inlcude three models to meet your workload requirements. The 1816C, with a 16 net horsepower (11.9 kW) gasoline engine and a width of only 35 inches (889 mm) is a proven performer for tight-quarter work. The 1835B gives you a choice of a Case water-cooled 32 net horsepower (23.9 kW) gasoline engine or 34 net horsepower (25.4 kW) diesel engine. The top-of-the-line 1845C Uni-Loader skid steer features a Case 51 net horsepower (38 kW) diesel with the power to cut big jobs down to size.

Maneuverability, dependability and serviceability all add up to better performance and a better bottom line. For more facts and convenient one-stop service see your Case IH dealer.

Harvest Time SPECIAL VALUES

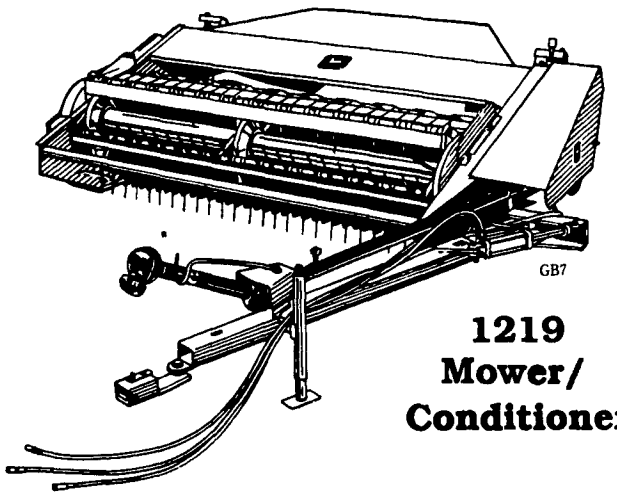
PUTS THE PRESSURE ON FOR FASTER DRYDOWN



1219 Mower/ Conditioner

- John Deere mower/conditioners put on more pressure-per-square-inch over more crimping points So you get better conditioning action for faster drydown
- It's a matter of design The conditioning rolls have a pattern of unique indented, recessed cleats for more crimp-pressure edges. And crimping is the whole story of hay conditioning.
- You can also vary the crimping pressure and roll spacing according to the nature of the crop These and other adjustments such as platform float and shoe height can be made in minutes.
- See about the John Deere line when the hay-making pressure is on.

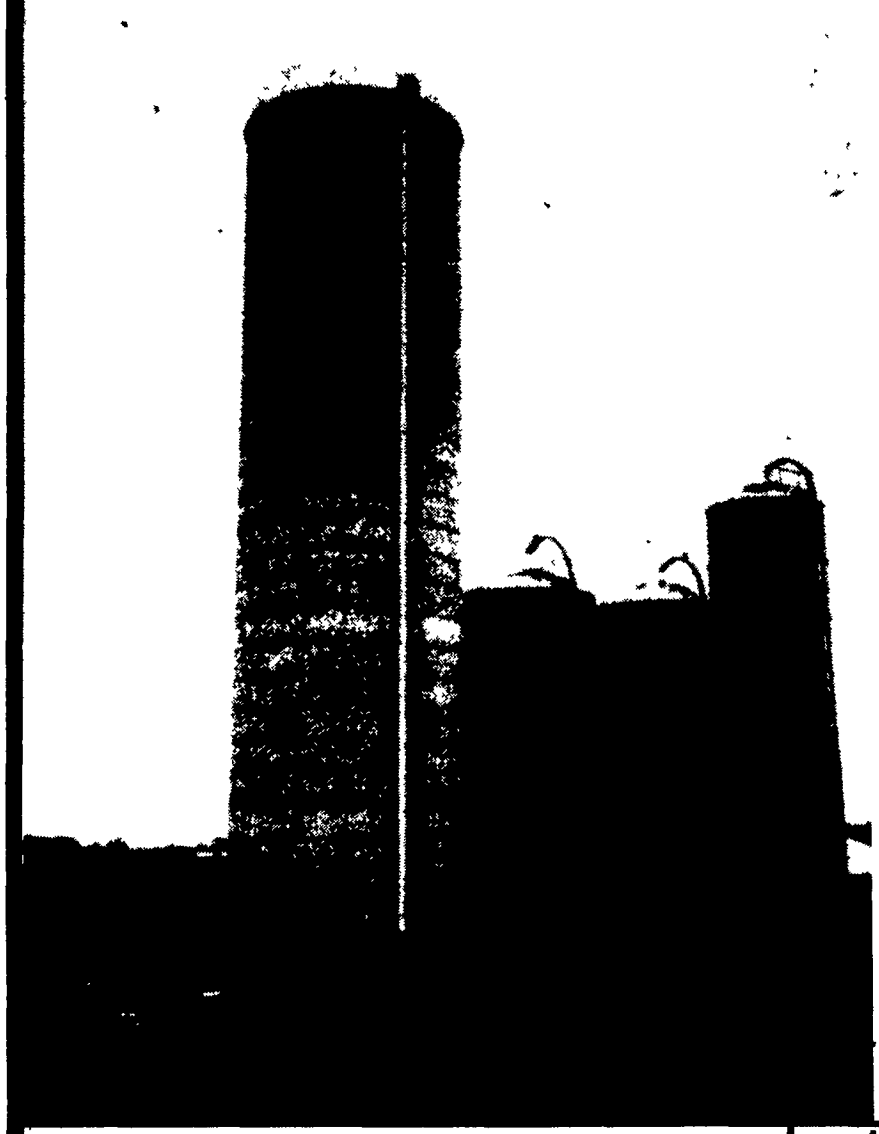
Solid Ways To Improve Your Farm

Consider The Many Advantages Of Concrete



A 30'x124' silo will hold approximately 3000 tons of corn silage. This silo would replace about 7, 20'x60' silos at less than one-half the cost. Also, there is only one unloader to maintain. The silo has a floor about 5' off the ground with a walk-thru tunnel and a belt conveyor to take the silage from the Big Jim unloader. It required a total of 382.5 cubic yards of concrete, (99.5 in the footer), and about 8.5 miles of steel for reinforcing. You will notice in the picture that there are 5 rest stops on the outside ladder.

You may not need a silo this large, but we use the same techniques in building our other poured concrete silos, giving you a definite advantage over all other methods of silo construction.

You Will Appreciate The Quality Of A Sollenberger Silo For Many Years To Come.

PRE-CAST BUNKER SILOS

INDUSTRIAL SILOS

Common Uses:

- Wood Chips • Sawdust
- Bark • Sand & Aggregates
- Coal • Grains • Meals
- Plastic • Water & Liquids
- Any Flowable Materials

Advantages:

- Designed according to your specific needs by registered, professional engineers
- Lower construction cost
- Standard 6" steel-reinforced, poured concrete walls
- Smooth, leak proof walls
- Maintenance free
- Concrete wall reduces product freezing in winter and heating in summer
- Lower fire insurance costs

PRE-CAST CONCRETE FEED BUNKS

SLANT BACK J BUNK H-BUNK

Let Us Know Your Needs. We Can Deliver From Our Large Inventory And Set On Your Prepared Site. OR: We Can Load On Your Truck To Help Save On Freight Costs. We Have Several Sizes And Styles To Choose From, Plus Metal Posts, For Cable, Which Can Be Bolted To The Bunk To Keep Cattle Out.

MANURE STORAGE SYSTEMS

- Manure Storage Systems For The Small Herd - or The 400 Cow Herds And Larger.
- Systems Adaptable To Any Type Equipment
- SCS Approved
- Circular Tanks Poured-In-Place Above Ground - In Ground - Or Uneven Backfill.
- Pre-Cast Concrete panels Delivered And Set On Your Prepared Site.

With the heat stress on the corn crop, harvesting will be earlier than normal in many areas. This will put pressure on our crews as last minute decisions are made. Please let us know as soon as possible if you need a fall silo.

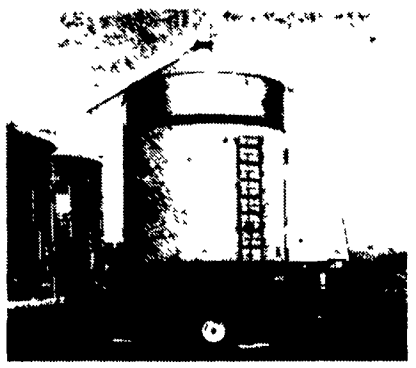
BIGGER AND BETTER.



If the grain dryer you're considering can't handle it, forget it!

Combines, grain trucks and wagons have grown in capacity, and now, so has this portable grain dryer. The new GT (Tox-O-Wik) Model 780 features a holding capacity of 680 bushels, making it one of the biggest recirculating batch dryers in the industry.

It's also the best. New Micro-Pro™ computerized controls automatically watch over dryer functions. New specially-coated holding tank sheets give long-lasting corrosion protection inside and out. And the new 5-year/500-hour limited warranty is the best in the industry.

Compare feature for feature, and you'll see that the tough new GT Model 780 is the best recirculating batch dryer that money can buy.

Dryers may look the same. But when you know how we put 'em together, it's easy to tell 'em apart.

JOHN DEERE

JOHN DEERE

Grass clippings are bad enough, but the leaves? It's just getting to be too much? And there's no need to rake and bag the stuff by hand.

Now John Deere makes lawn cleanup easy. With a full line of material collection systems matched to John Deere riding mowers and tractors.

These systems come in a variety of combinations. Choose a twin-hamper 6½-bushel system for riding mowers, lawn tractors and 200 and 300 Series Lawn and Garden Tractors. Or the 6½-bushel Power Flow unit for tractors with 38-, 46- or 50- inch mowers. Or the new 3-bag Power Pak unit for 300 and 400 Series Tractors with 46-, 50- or 60-inch mowers. Big cleanup jobs demand big artillery. And John Deere's got it in pairs for 300 and 400 Series Tractors. The Tilt Dump and the Hydraulic Dump Systems, which are now engine-powered rather than PTO-driven.

When the 13-bushel hoppers are full, both models let you dispose of the material right from the driver's seat. No ropes to untie...no collection bags to unfasten or unzip.

Don't wear yourself out behind a rake. Get help from the number one name on lawns, John Deere. Come on in.

WE SELL THE JOHN DEERE PLOWS

After 150 years, John Deere is still John Deere. That's just one reason we're glad we still sell John Deere Equipment

For 150 years John Deere equipment has been the best. That's why we tied up with John Deere. Well, that hasn't changed. We're still glad we sell John Deere. We wouldn't settle for less.

Angus Assn. Announces Roll Of Victory Winners

The 1986-87 show season ended recently and with it comes the announcement of a wide array of champions in the American Angus Association's Roll of Victory (ROV) point recognition program.

Points from 14 designated ROV shows held annually are awarded to the top five placings in each class, division and reserve division champions, as well as grand and reserve grand champions. There are four Super Point Shows that are held in the same location each year, and then there are 10 Recognition Point Shows that are held at different locations annually.

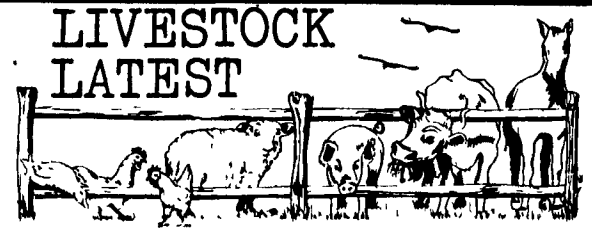
A son of last year's "Sire of the Year" Pine Drive Big Sky captured the exact same honors this year. Cobble Pond New Yorker was born February 1983 and was bred by Johnson & Empire, Edgerton, Missouri, and is presently owned by them along with Cobble Pond Farm, Millerton, New York. His progeny was also named the get and junior get-of-sire ROV champions of the year.

Premier Valedictorian won this year's "Show Bull of the Year" award. This February 1985, Ken Caryl Overdrive 304H son stood as the grand champion and reserve grand champion bull at the following shows this past season: Indiana State Fair, Indianapolis; New York State Fair, Syracuse; National Western Stock Show, Denver, Colorado; American Angus Breeders' Futurity, Louisville, Kentucky; and Southwestern Exposituon and Fat Stock Show, Fort Worth, Texas. He was bred by Premier Angus Inc., Cloverdale, Indiana, and is presently owned by Shady Brook Angus Farm, Leoma, Tennessee; New Horizon Farm, Stuyvesant, New York; Northcote Farm, Forest, Virginia; and Premier Angus Inc.

The owners of Nelson Gigi 5220, Clyde Nelson, Salmon, Idaho, and Robert and Evelyn Urquhart, Hamilton, Montana, were ahppy as she was named the "Show Heifer of the Year". This February 1985 daughter of Premier Celebration won the grand championship female titles at the following shows: National Western Stock Show; Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show; North American International Livestock Exposition, Louisville, Kentucky; American Royal Livestock Show, Kansas City, Missouri; and the Pacific International Livestock Exposition, Portland, Oregon. Bred by Steve and Janna Herbst, Salmon, Idaho, Gigi was also presented the reserve grand champion female banner at the American Angus Breeders' Futurity.

The "Dam of the Year" with a natural calf was T C Peggy Sue 2135. Bred by Sterner & Uden, Franklin, Nebraska, this October 1982, Dr. Spock daughter is now owned by Northcote Farm and Premier Angus Inc. R&J Jodie 283 won the "Dam of the Year" with an embryo calf category. She was bred and is owned by R&J Ranch, Briggs, Texas. Jodie, a January 1983 daughter of Perryville Esso Extra 17M is also owned by Circle G Anugs Farm, Hampton, Georgia.

For the secondyear ina row, R&J Ranch wrapped up the "Breeder of the Year" division. Well ahead of the second plase victor, R&J Ranch is owned by Ray and Jackie Plumb and is managed by Ken Conway.



National Poultry Health Meet Set For Oct. 22-23

The 22nd National Meeting on Poultry Health and Condemnations will be held Thursday and Friday, October 22 and 23 at the Sheraton Fountainebleau Inn and Spa in Ocean City, Maryland. This annual event is sponsored by the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI), the 4000 member trade association that represents the poultry industry on the Delmarva Peninsula, in cooperation with the Universities of Delaware and Maryland.

The meeting will be divided into two segments, one dealing with poultry growout topics and the other with processing matters. There will be 38 speakers from 11 states and the District of Columbia. The grow-out presentations will include talks on ammonia, environmental matters, poultry diseases, feed quality and avian influenza. The processing session will cover water use in processing plants, new inspection procedures, bacteria control, increasing the shelf life of poultry products, and quality assurance programs. Addressing a joint session will be Dr. John Prucha, Assistant Deputy Administrator, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Food Safety and Inspection Service. Dr. Prucha will discuss the impact of the National Academy of Sciences study of the poultry inspection system.

Since its start in 1965, the National Meeting on Poultry Health and Condemnations has grown from a small local meeting to an internationally recognized gathering. Close to 650 participants are expected to attend this year's meeting. The chairman is Dr. G. Thomas Holder, chairman of DPI's Poultry Health Committee.

Anyone interested in obtaining registration forms, programs and other conference information can do so by writing to or caling DELMARVA POULTRY INDUSTRY, INC., RD 2, Box 47, Georgetown, Delaware, 19947, (302) 856-9037.

US Meat Highlighted In Japanese Ad Campaign

"Delicious American Meat, Try It!" was the theme used by the Denver-based U.S. Meat Export Federation (MEF) to launch a successful ad campaign in Japan recently.

More than 110 million Japanese consumers, 90 percent of the populace, viewed MEF television commercials and read print ads showcasing the high quality of U.S. beef, pork and lamb. "U.S. meats don't have a strong identity in the Japanese market because all imported meat is treated the same -- generically," says Phil Seng, MEF/Asian Director in Tokyo.

Designed to increase demand for American meat in Japan, a country with strict meat import quotas, the ad campaign is just part of MEF's Targeted Export Assistance (TEA)* program. TEA funds are used to promote American farm products facing unfair trade policies overseas.

To familiarize Japanese consumers about the great taste and quality of U.S. meats, MEF selected two themes for its ad campaign -- "desirable/delicious" and "why, why." The TV commercials were set to the music of "Blueberry Hill" and two versions were filmed using a scenic California ranch and an upscale San Francisco penthouse as backdrops.

"In a generic marketplace like Japan, it's necessary to create a desirable product image," Seng explains. "We achieved this by conveying the many qualities of U.S. meat. It's tender, low in calories, nutritious and carefully inspected."

The U.S. meat ad campaign in Japan was MEF's first. Survey results compiled by Nikkei Business, a highly respected Japanese business magazine, ranked the MEF ads an impressive sixth out of 270 entries. Competition was tough, including notable firms such as Sony, Hitachi and American Airlines.

According to Seng, the Japanese market holds tremendous potential for U.S. meat exports. By the year 2000, he estimates annual sales may top $2 billion, up from current sales of $480 million. A Japanese consumer now eats less than 10 pounds of beef per year, compared to 78 pounds for an average American. Despite the higher price of beef in Japan, this difference in consumption is not strictly a question of money or demand. Per capita income in Japan is higher than in the U.S. The biggest obstacle to greater beef consumption is the Japanese government's own restrictions on meat imports, notes Seng.

MEF research also shows that Japanese consumers are not aware of differences in imported meats because their government doesn't distinguish one from the other. "The recent infusion of TEA funds has allowed us to explain the benefits of U.S. meat directly to the Japanese consumer," says Seng. "It's important we continue this educational process now that the Japanese beef trade negotiations are heating up." He adds that Japanese beef quotas expire in March 1988.

Delmarva Poultry Managers To Meet

The 1987 Delmarva Broiler Housing and Flock Supervisors' Conference will be held Wednesday, Sept. 16, at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury, Md.

Sponsored by the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., in cooperation with the University of Delaware and the University of Maryland, the annual conference will open at 7:15 a.m. with registration, coffee and donuts, and exhibits.

Ventilation management will be the subject of the first session, starting at 8 a.m. At 10:30 a.m., a communication session will be held.

Following a noon lunch, the Delmarva Servicemen's Association scholarship and the Broiler and Breeder Flock Supervisors' awards will be presented. A panel on early brooding management will begin at 1:35 p.m., featuring representatives from Virginia Tech, University of Maryland, Purdue Farms and Townsends, Inc.

The panel will be followed by a session on biosecurity at 3:30 p.m. The final session on manure management will begin at 4 p.m.

A fellowship hour will be held from 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The deadline for registration is Sept. 4. The $25 per person registration fee covers all sessions, a copy of the proceedings, lunch and the coffee and donuts. Checks payable to Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. should be mailed to George Chaloupka, Extension Specialist, R.D. #2, Box 48, Georgetown, DE 19947.

Increasing Feather Sexing Accuracy

The sex of many commercial broiler strain chicks can be determined by the feather sexing technique. This technique involves comparing the relative length of the primary and covert feathers on the wing of a newly hatched chick. The two types of feathering possible are rapid and slow. The rapid feathering chick should have primary feathers much longer than the coverts. The coverts will be equal length to the primary feathers on the wings of slow feathering chicks.

The growth of the wing primaries and coverts is normally controlled by one pair of genes. These genes are located on the chromosomes that control the sex of the chick and are thus called sex linked genes. A mating of rapid feathering male parents with slow feathering females will produce chicks which can be feather sexed at hatching. The day old male chicks will be slow feathering and the female offspring will all be fast or rapid feathering.

While in theory feather sexing should be a simple and accurate process, application of the procedure has resulted in serious sexing errors in some instances. A trial was conducted at the Penn State poultry research farm to investigate reasons for difficulty in accurately sexing chicks by the feather method. One hundred and sixty eight chicks produced from a cross of rapid feathering Hubbard roosters and slow feathering Hubbard hens were individually wing-banded at hatching. The wing feathers were closely examined and the chicks classified into one of 4 categories.

The 4 categories were as follows:

CATEGORY

1. Primaries longer than coverts
2. Primaries equal to coverts
3. Coverts longer than primaries
4. Coverts present- no primaries

The chicks were then placed in a floor pen and reared to seven weeks of age. At seven weeks, the broilers were processed and the sex of each bird was determined. During the seven week period, 5 chisk died; the distribution was: 2 chicks from category 1, 2 chicks from category 2, and one chick from category 3. The sex of the 5 chicks that died was not determined. The data collected at 7 weeks revealed that all chicks in category 1 were females and all chicks in categories 2, 3, and 4 were males.

Category 3 chicks had two different lengths of wing feathers at hatching, but the coverts were always longer than the primaries instead of the reverse situation. To the individual not trained to determine the sex of the chick by the relative length of the coverts to the primaries or to the individual trained to classify chicks with unequal primary and covert lengths as females, the chicks in category 3 would have been incorrectly sexed. The results of this trial indicate that individuals that feather sex chicks should be trained to observe the relative length of coverts to primary wing feathers or a high degree of error could be encountered.

Second Quarter Report Issued By Farm Credit Banks

The Farm Credit System

Farm Credit News

In the midst of signs of improvement in the mid-Atlantic region's agricultural economy the area's largest farm lender, the Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, reported 2nd quarter net earnings of $4.3 million.

Bank officials said more stable land values, improving commodity prices and lower interest rates are beginning to move agriculture in the region into the early stages of marginal economic recovery. The single most influencing factor to the Banks' profitability was the fact that the Baltimore Banks have not had to provide financial assistance during the reporting period to other Farm Credit Banks in the mid-West. During 1986 the Baltimore Banks and Associations contributed nearly $90 million in loss sharing assistance to other District Banks.

Earnings for the Baltimore District, including the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, (FLB), and its affiliated Federal Land Bank Associations, (FLBAs), the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Baltimore, (FICB), and its affiliated Production Credit Associations, (PCAs), and the Baltimore Bank for Cooperatives, were markedly up from the same quarter last year. The combined 2nd quarter net earnings of $4.3 million this year compared very favorably to an operating loss of $16.4 million for the same period last year.

In his letter to the District stockholders, Gene L. Swackhamer, President of the Banks, commented, "We are looking to the future more optimistically as the nation's depressed agricultural economy begins to show signs of leveling out and preparing for some upturn."

Bank officials expressed this optimism despite near drought conditions in some parts of their service area. "Spotty rainfall is causing concern in some areas and while this may negatively impact some farmers this year, we remain optimistic for the long term outlook for improved profitability in agriculture," Swackhamer said.

Signs of improvement in the region's farm sector can be noted in the Banks' net loan charge-offs which are down from last year.

Combined FLB/FLBA net loan charge-offs totaled $205,000 for the six months ending June 30, 1987, compared to $500,000 for the same period last year. FICB/PCA combined net loan charge-offs were $351,000 for the first six months of this year, down from $940,000 for the first two quarters of last year.

Delinquency rates during the 2nd quarter 1987 also improved as compared with the same period a year ago.

FLB farm loan delinquencies were 4% of the number of loans outstanding (.25% of loan volume), while PCA delinquencies were 2.9% of the number of borrowers (1.7% of loan volume). Delinquencies for the same period last year were 4.5% of loans by number and .59% of volume and 3.4% of the number of borrowers and 1.2% of loan volume for the FLB and PCAs respectively.

The Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore provide agricultural credit and financial services to over 52,000 farmers and 101 farm cooperatives across five mid-Atlantic states and in Puerto Rico. Mid-year loan volume for the District stood at $2.5 billion.

BUSINESS NEWS...

Lebanon Valley Bank Sponsors Hog Roast

Lebanon Valley National Bank sponsored a Hog Roast for its Ephrata area farmers and Agri businessmen on August 5th at the Green Dragon Livestock Yard. Over 260 farmers and Agri businessmen took time out for lunch and enjoyed all they could eat roast pork, sweet corn, macaroni salad, and homemade ice cream. It was announced at the roast that Amos Hursh, a steer and poultry farmer from Ephrata, and Dr. Lynn Sammons, a veterinarian from Reading, accepted a position on the LVNB Ag Advisory Board. One of their new duties will be to guide and inform the Agriculture Group on industry trends and ways LVNB can better serve its farm customers.

LVNB is gearing up for their grand opening celebration of their new Ephrata branch, October 1st, 2nd, and 3rd. The Ephrata office will be the 12th branch for the bank. LVNB is an asset sized bank of $357,000,000 as of June 30, 1987. LVNB has committed approximately $50 million of its assets to Agricultural loans, which represents nearly 20% of LVNB assets.

Versatile Tractor Production Resumed

WINNIPEG, Manitoba — The end of a year-long production shutdown was officially observed here today as the first Versatile tractor built under the Ford New Holland flag rolled off the assembly line.

The Winnipeg-based Versatile Farm Equipment Company halted production in July 1986. The Versatile Corporation agreed in February 1987 to sell the farm equipment business to affiliates of Ford New Holland, Inc., a subsidiary of Ford Motor Company. Final papers were signed completing the purchase in mid-July.

Robert F. Moglia, president of Ford New Holland, said he has been impressed with Versatile's accomplishments since their creation in the mid-1950's. "Versatile impresses me because they are creative, innovative and have built quality products which meet the customers needs," Moglia told a gathering of employees just before the first tractor was officially taken off the assembly line. "Let me make one point very clear. We are not going to stand in the way of this type of creativity and innovation. We are going to encourage it!"

The Winnipeg operation is capable of producing large four-wheel drive agricultural tractors, bi-directional tractors and two lines of harvesting equipment. Future production volumes will depend on market conditions. All totaled, 450 hourly jobs will have been reestablished by early August.

Ford New Holland said many of its 2,600 North American dealers will have the option of adding the Versatile product line, generating a substantial increase over the 330 dealers already handling Versatile products. Many of the 2,300 Ford New Holland dealers outside North America will also have the option carrying the Versatile line.

Moglia said the purchase will help Ford New Holland position itself to better meet the needs of an agriculture which is becoming increasingly cost conscious. "We must and will provide superior quality products at affordable prices," he said. "Providing customer-defined quality at lower-than-competition costs is a priority for us."

The New Holland Division of the Sperry Corporation was acquired by Ford Motor Company in 1986. Ford Tractor Operations and New Holland were then consolidated to form Ford New Holland on January 1, 1987. The firm sells a full range of two-wheel drive agricultural and industrial tractors and harvesting and haying equipment. It also builds diesel engines for agricultural and truck use.

Acquisition of Versatile means that Ford New Holland will now have the capability to offer a full-range of tractors ranging from small lawn and garden equipment up to the giant 470 horsepower Versatile 1156.

Merger Creates The New Northrup King

The New Northrup King was recently formed by the merger of Northrup King, Stauffer and Pride seed brands. The merger makes Northrup King Co., based in Minneapolis, the second largest seed company in the United States and the third largest marketer of hybrid seed corn, according to George L. Jones, president and chief executive officer.

Northrup King Co. is a 103-year-old seed company and a leader in corn, soybean, sorghum, alfalfa, vegetable and home garden seed marketing. Northrup King had acquired the assets of the Pride Seed Company in 1965, operating Pride as a separate entity until now. Then on March 6 of this year, Northrup King purchased the assets of Stauffer Seeds, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Stauffer Chemical Company, for an undisclosed price. Stauffer brought to Northrup King a strong line of corn, sorghum and sunflower hybrids along with significant research capabilities.

The purchase of Stauffer Seeds caused management to consider merging all three brands into a new company, Jones said. Northrup King, Pride and Stauffer Seeds made a very good match, he explained, each company adding strengths to the others with very little overlap.

In their product lines, the most striking example is hybrid corn. Stauffer's excellent later maturity corn hybrids fill an admitted weakness in the Northrup King line-up. In fact, Stauffer's S 7759 is expected to be the largest selling hybrid for the newly merged company. Likewise good early maturity hybrids from Northrup King and Pride fill a gap in Stauffer's northern Corn Belt line-up. The merged brands represent one of the most expansive hybrid corn lines available from any company. Hybrids range from those adapted to the long, hot summers of the deep south to the cold springs and short summers of northern Minnesota and Canada. Hybrids of 70 to 142 days maturity are available, as are, specialty corn hybrids like waxy corn. The new company has a complete line of hybrids especially bred for yield, standability, fast dry down, drought tolerance and other traits to match almost every adverse growing condition.

The complementary nature of the companies' product lines is evident in other crops, too. Northrup King has excellent early maturity hybrid sorghums while Stauffer's strength is in the later maturities. In sunflowers, Northrup King's strength is later maturity hybrids with tolerance to Sclerotinia basel stalk rot and high oil content. Stauffer has good early maturity sunflower hybrids. Northrup King has long been recognized as the leading developer and marketer of high quality alfalfa varieties with multiple pest resistance. With the merger, The New Northrup King will offer 21 alfalfa varieties. Its three premium alfalfa varieties are Fortress from Pride, Summit from Stauffer and Commander from Northrup King.

Merger of the three brands into The New Northrup King will allow efficient management of expanded service and research capabilities, Jones said. The motto of The New Northrup King is, "Seeds and Service Second to None." Jones emphasized that the merger resulted in resources which allow the new company to take a unique approach to customer service. "Service to the customer will be a primary aspect differentiating The New Northrup King from our competitors," he said.

To assist in development of The New Northrup King service programs, four independent telephone surveys of corn, soybean, sorghum and alfalfa growers were commissioned. Early results from the survey of corn growers show that when a seed company talks about service; 36.8 percent of the farmers surveyed think of helpful dealers. Other frequently mentioned services were prompt delivery, good product availability and a good replant program. Nearly one-fourth of the farmers surveyed said they would like to receive additional services from seed companies. More than 60 percent of those wanting additional services said they wanted more agronomic assistance and information.

With the merger, The New Northrup King is able to field 13 agronomists, more than any of the three companies had alone. Company managers also announced several new service programs which they said were available now because of combined resources. One of these is a toll-free number that farmers can call for local agronomic information. When a farmer calls 1-800-AGVISOR a central computer will route the call to the appropriate The New Northrup King regional agronomist who will respond to the farmer's questions within 24 hours. The 1-800-AGVISOR toll free number will be installed by September.

The company also introduced a unique replant policy. Basically it will provide replant seed at 50 percent of retail cost no matter what company's corn was originally planted. The power behind this aggressive replant program is The New Northrup King's wide range of hybrids, since a farmer who has to replant has highly specific seed needs depending upon his geography, climatic conditions and remaining growing season.

Another program is an extensive plot information computer system which allows farmers to compare performance of The New Northrup King hybrids under specific management regimes. In the past, hybrid comparisons have been largely by geography and perhaps climatic conditions. However, this new service will compare all these factors plus a variety of management practices such as the primary tillage method, plant density, row width, soil texture and others. This program will be offered after data from more than 2,500 product demonstration plots are compiled this fall and added to two years' previous data from the three companies.

In addition to its ongoing market research, top management has formed a service task force to identify areas for improved or new services. The task force is comprised of a cross section of the company's employees. Dealer advisory boards have also been created to advise managementof dealer and customer needs in the area of seeds and service. And, all of the new marketing unit's sales force will participate in customer service seminars, this year.

The merger also bolsters The New Northrup King's research capabilities. Stauffer Seeds had an excellent, highly-focused research effort in hybrid corn. Those results and ongoing experiments are now merged with the broader based, seed research of Northrup King.

The New Northrup King's premier biotechnology research center is located on 412 acres of prime farmland in Stanton, Minn. Northrup King has 14 other U.S. research centers and 11 foreign research stations.

Company researchers are involved with such recent biotechnology breakthroughs as the first ever government-approved field test of a genetically-engineered, commercial plant (tobacco) and the first proven successful effort to regenerate an entire corn plant from a single cell, Jones said. This is a crucial first step in developing a genetically-engineered plant. Genes introduced in such a manner could incorporate herbicide resistance, disease and insect resistance, drought or salt tolerance or exceptional yield through photosynthesis enhancement. All these exciting possibilities are being explored today.

New Booklet On Storing Fresh Produce

UNIVERSITY PARK — Refrigeration greatly extends the life of fresh fruit and vegetables. By slowing the metabolism of the stored products, refrigeration maintains eating quality so well that fresh produce is available throughout the year. However, successful, long term storage requires skillful operation and proper equipment. Most fruits and vegetables must be stored at very high humidities to keep them from shriveling and drying, and at a precise, low temperature near the point of freezing or chilling.

A new booklet titled, Refrigeration and Controlled Atmosphere Storage for Horticultural Crops, tells how to construct, choose refrigeration equipment for, and operate a fresh produce storage plant. The booklet was published by the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service, a joint program of the Cooperative Extension Services of 13 northeast universities.

Refrigeration and Controlled Atmosphere Storage for Horticultural Crops is the definitive book for the controlled atmosphere storage operator, builder, and consultant to the fresh fruit and vegetables industry. The booklet discusses general construction procedures, reviews refrigeration principles, and explains how to select, size and operate equipment for high humidity storage. A section and appendix on load calculations gives the designer step by step instructions to sizing the refrigeration unit.

A major section of the book clearly illustrates the many construction details needed to build and maintain an airtight controlled atmosphere storage. Numerous cross section drawings for floor to wall seals, door seals, pressure relief equipment, and observation windows are included. No other reference completely covers how to store produce under controlled atmosphere conditions.

The booklet lists procedures for pressure testing rooms, finding leaks, analyzing the atmosphere and operating the equipment. It describes the different types of carbon dioxide generators and scrubbers, and explains how they operate. An appendix gives complete instructions to preparing, operating, and troubleshooting an Orsat carbon dioxide analyzer, an essential monitoring tool for the storage operator. The wealth of detail packed into this booklet makes it an excellent reference. Order th 42-page bulletin by sending $3.50 to Agricultural Engineering Extension, 246 Agricultural Engineering Building, University Park, PA 16802. Ask for booklet number NRAES-22 and make checks payable to The Pennsylvania State University.

Homebred Limousin Is Top Steer At Bedford

BEDFORD — In her show ring debut, eight-year-old Ladonna Miller of Bedford outdistanced 77 competitors to emerge with the grand champion market steer at the Bedford County Fair here last week.

Her 1125-lb. homebred Limousin first topped the heavy middleweight class, nudged out two other class winners for the middleweight championship and finally captured the show's finest trophy.

Jay Espenshade, Fayette County agent, in evaluating the contest, said of Miller's steer: "He's well fit, carrying a lot of meat, with uniform width over his top to a well finished rump and into a thick quarter."

Espenshade consistently selected Limousin and Limousin-cross entries, noting, "I really like these red calves, not because they're red but because they're the meatiest calves....They're not the prettiest steers here, but this isn't a beauty contest; it's a red meat contest."

For his reserve grand champion, Espenshade gave his nod to Donald Lafferty of Manns Choice, showing an 1163-lb. light heavyweight class winner that doubled as champion heavyweight. The 15-year-old cattleman last year had ranked last in his class and contributed his change in fortune to switching breeds. The judge commented of Lafferty's entry: "He's straight lined, a meaty kind of calf, a proud individual, smooth in his finish, carrying into a good quarter.

Matthew Knee of Bakers Summit exhibited the champion lightweight steer, a red crossbred, "real modern, straight, thick quartered," a 998-lb. entry.

The Miller family enhanced its day as Ladonna's brother, Kevin, gathered the reserve champion lightweight rosette for his 1036-lb. entry and the reserve champion heavyweight for an 1177-lb. calf. The latter calf stood second in class to Lafferty's big winner. Kevin also picked up both grand and reserve grand championships in the homebred show for the same calf duo.

Troy Brown of Bedford gained the steer show's remaining purple as he marched his second place lightweight, a 938-lb. entry, to reserve grand champion in the county bred event. He purchased it from Clay Acres, the Miller family farm.

Mohr Earns Holstein Champion Titles A+ Bedford Junior Dairy Show

BEDFORD — Jimita Sexy Liana, a four-year-old sired by Ocean-View Sexation, earned senior and grand champion titles for 18-year-old Becky Mohr of Bakers Summit in the Holstein division of the Bedford County Fair's Junior Dairy Show here last week.

The honors capped a good day for Mohr as she also picked up the reserve junior champion title with a summer yearling heifer, A-K-Mohr Baliant Margo, and won first place with her daughter and dam pair. Approximately 35 head competed in the Holstein event.

Julie Snider of New Enterprise earned the grand champion Guernsey title for her senior champion, three-year-old Sniders Fayvors Flora, while Beth Clark of Bedford walked her aged cow, M.M. B.T. Cappy, to the reserve senior and reserve grand champion positions. Clark added to her winnings with the junior champion, a junior yearling, and showed her daughter and dam pairs to first and second slots.

In Red and White competition, a four-year-old showing dry topped the show for Kimberly Truax of Everett. Duvalley Chiefton Kate also was selected senior champion.

Pacing the Holstein division in the Junior Dairy Show was Becky Mohr of Bakers Summit, showing the grand champion. Dairy Princess Cathy Alt presented her trophy, as well as the prize for reserve grand champion Holstein to Ann Baker of Bedford.

Kimberly's sister, Julie, stood in with the reserve senior and reserve grand, an aged entry, Pinelee E-D Ethel. Junior-age purples in the Red and Whites were shared by brothers Bryan Ickes of Osterburg with his intermediate yearling heifer, the junior champion, and Robbie Ickes followed with the reserve junior champion, a summer yearling.

Janelle Koontz of Bedford campaigned her intermediate yearling heifer, Stan-Els Samson Sweet Potato, to the junior and grand championships in the Jersey division. Dale Pheasant of Williamsburg exhibited his four-year-old, Spring Brook Soldiers Suse, to the senior champion title, then picked up the reserve grand. Pheasant also gained the reserve senior champion with a three-year-old while Joe Kelly of Woodbury took a senior calf to the reserve junior championship.

Winegardner Hog Captures Grand Champion Honors

BEDFORD — After watching the winner's circle at the Bedford County Fair from afar last year, 15-year-old Steve Winegardner of Manns Choice RD1 stepped into it this year with a 240-lb. barrow chosen grand champion market hog.

Judge Nelson Beam, Chester County commercial hog breeder and finisher, said as he selected his champion, "I wanted the muscling, the leanness, the soundness and the structure we need in the swine industry today." He added that his selections were total packages with the appearance of freshness.

Winegardner's 5½ -month-old crossbred pig came from Bedford Valley Farm, Manns Choice RD 1, where the 4-H'er works under Manager David Martin. Two of the other seven blue ribbon winners vying for the top prize, shown by Matthew Hillegass of Manns Choice RD 1, also were bred at Bedford Valley Farm.

A 223-lb. homebred barrow raised and exhibited by Richie Emerick of Schellsburg earned the reserve grand champion banner.

While the three youths all are students at Chestnut Ridge High school, Winegardner, 15, and Hillegass, 12, belong to the Shawnee Lakers 4-H Club, and Emerick, 15, is a member of the Chestnut Ridge FFA.

Class placings, in descending order, included:

Class 1 - Julie Bechtel of New Enterprise, Winegardner, Judy Anderson of Schellsburg RD 1; Class 2 - Mike Beach of New Enterprise, Lynea Keith of Roaring Spring RD 1, Jill Anderson of Bedford RD 1.

Class 3 - Emerick, Shane Thomas of New Enterprise RD 1, Kegg; Class 4 - Joe Imler of New Enterprise RD 1, Danielle Pepple of New Enterprise RD 1, Kirk Diehl of Bedford RD 4; Class 5 - Hillegass, Kevin Guyer of New Enterprise RD 1, Ryan Emerick of Schellsburg.

Class 6 - Hillegass, Jenny Beach of New Enterprise, John Bechtel of New Enterprise; Class 7 - Winegardner, Jennifer Rosenthal of Osterburg, Kegg.

Schellsburg Beef Takes Supreme Championship At Bedford

Within the Polled Hereford show, McBee's entry nudged out class competitors exhibited by her fellow members of the Shawnee Lakers 4-H Club, Michael Shankle of Schellsburg and Steven Fritz of Manns Choice. Then competing against all other blue ribbon winners, McBee and "Dream" gained the Polled Hereford female grand championship.

In the search for the supreme banner, the Polled Hereford overcame an Angus entry of Nathan Claycomb of Alum Bank, the Simmental champion exhibited by Matthew Knee of Bakers Summit and the Limousin leader owned by Kevin Miller of Bedford.

The reserve grand champion Polled Hereford female, shown by Tawnya Wolfhope of Schellsburg, stood in as reserve supreme champion.

Other purple prizes went to: Claycomb, reserve champion Angus; Merrilee Werner of Schellsburg, reserve champion Simmental; Jim Fisher of Bedford, reserve champion Limousin.

In open class beef breeding judging Shoemaker Simmentals of Buffalo Mills was the big winner, showing the champion and reserve champion female, champion bull and first prize junior and senior gets-of-sire. Diana Temcik of Coraopolis stood in with the reserve champion bull.

John Hausner of The Plains, Va., judged the offering.

Other placings:

Angus-junior heifer calf, 1. Claycomb.

Senior heifer calf - 1. Claycomb.

Penn State Lab Features Small Grains Research

UNIVERSITY PARK — Pennuda hull-less oats, which have potential for both animal and human consumption, and Pennco winter barley, a variety with excellent yield, were featured on tours of Penn State's Southeastern Field Research Laboratory in June.

Pennuda is a hull-less oat that has potential as a supplemental feed for livestock and could also make cereal processing simpler. "The hull-less oat is a more concentrated package of nutrients," explains Elwood Hatley, professor of agronomy at Penn State. "In some cases, the hull makes up as much as 25 percent of kernel weight. Certain types of livestock can't handle that extra fiber." A hull-less oat could also eliminate a processing step in oat cereals.

Pennco winter barley, developed and released by Penn State, performed well throughout Pennsylvania and the United States in all areas where winter barley is grown. "What sets Pennco apart from other winter barleys is its excellent yield," says Hatley. "It also has good winter hardiness, standability and disease tolerance."

About 80 people, including industry representatives and farmers, attended the research lab tour. The event focused on intensive management technologies for wheat and winter barley, such as growth regulators, fertilizers, fungicides and herbicides, and how they can be used for the greatest economic return.

chosen senior and grand champ. Diehl's junior two-year-old, C.C. Captain's Sashette, got the judge's nod as reserve senior and reserve grand. An intermediate yearling earned the junior champion honor for Diehl. Bill Snider of Bedford took the remaining purple, the reserve junior champion, for a summer yearling.

In a single-family Brown Swiss show, Jeanine Chesney of Roaring Spring edged Shellytown King Oda, a senior yearling, into the junior and grand championships. Jeanine's sister, Charlotte, took her intermediate yearling, Gerber Paul Nell Fran, to the reserve junior and reserve grand honors.

St. Mary's Co. Ag Commission Visits Hatfield

Rising long before the break of dawn on July 23, 1987, 43 sleepy-eyed St. Mary's Countains boarded a chartered bus headed for the Hatfield Packing Plant in Hatfield, Pennsylvania to view first-hand what happens to the county's hogs once they leave the Hatfield Buying Station located in St. Mary's County, Maryland.

The trip was organized and sponsored by the St. Mary's County Agriculture Commission in an effort to impress upon county officials and members of the agricultural community the importance of hog production to the county's economy and to show special recognition to Hatfield officials for their decision to base a hog buying station in St. Mary's County.

St. Mary's County is a major hog producing county in Maryland and is fast becoming the top producer in the state. Based on figures provided by Hatfield, during the first five and one-half months of 1986 they purchased 13,000 hogs from St. Mary's County; during the same period of 1987, that number has increased by 14%.

The St. Mary's County Agriculture Commission, comprised of representatives from a broad range of agriculturally-related commodities, entities and agencies, was formed and funded by the Board of St. Mary's County Commissioners to identify and implement activities aimed at preserving agriculture as a prosperous component of the county's economy. Tobacco has historically been the county's major crop, but with the steady decline of the tobacco market, St. Mary's County is actively looking for ways to maintain the health and prosperity of agriculture and the rural atmosphere it provides to an otherwise steadily increasing hi-tech population.

Diversification would seem to be the road to such prosperity; hog production offers a promising future. Hatfield is planning to increase their daily slaughtering capacity from 3,800 to 5,000 upon the completion of a new processing facility in September 1988 and 10,000 daily by 1992. With this expansion comes the opportunity for expansion in hog production and in turn, this expansion creates a demand for greater feed production.

Another area of diversification being investigated by the Agriculture Commission is vegetable production and marketing. Efforts are currently under way to establish a local farmer's market.

The St. Mary's County Agriculture Commission is unique in that it is possibly the first Agriculture Commission in the state to be funded by a county. (Montgomery County has an Agricultural Resource Coordinator on its staff in their Office of Economic Development.

Control worms and bots and Save $15.00 each year.

Many veterinarians recommend deworming your horse every two or three months, and treating for bots at least twice a year.

While some dewormers control both worms and bots, they're very expensive and may offer more control than you need every couple of months.

Here is an Economical Alternative Recommended by Many Veterinarians

Jan.	Mar.	May	July	Sept.	Nov.
Safe-Guard™ (fenbendazole) at $5	Zimecterin® (ivermectin) or Negabot®-Plus (febantel and trichlorfon) at $10	Safe-Guard™ (fenbendazole) at $5	Zimecterin® (ivermectin) or Negabot®-Plus (febantel and trichlorfon) at $10	Safe-Guard™ (fenbendazole) at $5	Zimecterin® (ivermectin) or Negabot®-Plus (febantel and trichlorfon) at $10

The program is an economical alternative. It lets you control the major worms using Safe-Guard™ (fenbendazole) three times a year. And control bots with Zimecterin® (ivermectin) or Negabot® -Plus (febantel and trichlorfon) when needed. Many scientist feel by rotating dewormers you can extend the life of each by decreasing the chance of resistance buildup, while at the same time, controlling a very broad spectrum of internal parasites

If you were to use either Zimecterin® (ivermectin) or Negabot®-Plus (febantel and trichlorfon) six times a year, you'd pay about $60 per horse, for what could be more control than you really need. With the Safe-Guard program, though, you can get the best of both types of dewormers. for only $45* a savings of approximately $15 00.

Why Safe-Guard? Because of all these benefits:
- Effective — Controls the economically important worms.
- Safe — No known side effects Safe for all horses.
- Convenient — Easy to give. Horses love its unique apple-cinnamon flavor.
- Economical — One tube, with a suggested retail price of $5, treats 1,100 lbs. body weight.

HAY CURE

Aids in curing hay up to 30% moisture, thus saving protein rich leaves. It also aids in getting hay, which is not quite dry, in ahead of bad weather.

ADVANTAGES OF HAY CURE:
- Has a lower PH reading
- Dry, free-flowing, absorbent material
- Less corrosive - easier on equipment
- Easy handling
- More economical
- Contains 30% propionic acid
- Lower cost of application
- Proven effective on farm test

Improved Buffered Propionic Acid

SILAGE CURE

An aid to making good silage better by stimulating fermentation during the first 72 hours after ensiling, thus promoting rapid acidification and reducing heat and energy loss.

A Proven Blend of Enzymes and Bacteria

#984 A fancy Wileeda milking 57# from a Cavalier dam. Due Feb. to Simon.

SALES MGR. NOTE:

There is much potential in this herd. It is a good group of cattle raised in average conditions. A really well grown group of heifers. Of particular interest: all hfrs. are raised to breeding age in stanchions, the milking herd is kept in freestalls. These animals can adapt to any type of housing!! Please note also the tremendous test bred into these cattle. A very honest herd, this is an opportunity to purchase from one of Pennsylvania's oldest & largest herds.

MAXI-SIL™ Brand

SILAGE ADDITIVE

Nutritional Value

Purina MAXI-SIL™ Brand is a preservative that retains and protects the nutritional content and value of your silage longer.

Palatability

Purina MAXI-SIL™ Brand contains enzymes that aid in the rapid production of natural lactic acid producing organisms and result in a sweeter smelling and tastier silage.

Spoilage and Waste Reduction

Purina MAXI-SIL™ Brand minimizes spoilage and waste in silage stored in upright, trench, pit or bag silos. Palatability is retained longer in trench silo, silage facings and in feed bunks.

Treatment

Purina MAXI-SIL™ Brand is available in 50 lb. bags, enough to treat 50 tons of silage.
Note: Follow application recommendations.
